THOUGHT ATOM BOMB HIT

Explosion Kills Child, Damages About 300 Homes

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A thunderous explosion of $40,000 worth of fireworks stored in a warehouse left a little girl dead and nearly 300 homes damaged here Saturday.

Some persons thought an atomic bomb had struck. Twenty-six other persons were injured, but none was in serious condition. Nine persons were hospitalized and the others were released after treatment for shock and cuts.

The Red Cross said after a preliminary survey that 289 dwellings were damaged in the blast and resulting fire. Of these, 111 had "major" damage of $1500 or more, the Red Cross said. In addition 20 business establishments were damaged, including the warehouse which was a total loss. Much of the loss was from broken windows.

Cars Burned

Five dwellings were destroyed. Some cars were burned. Overall damage was estimated tentatively at $434,000.

Little Mary Beth Howe, 4½, died in the ruins of her charred home which was located near the warehouse. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Howe Jr., Portland, were hospitalized for burns, cuts and abrasions.

The explosion, one of the worst in Portland's history, came about 1:40 a.m. p.s.t. just after the end of the Fourth of July holiday. The warehouse contained nearly all types of fireworks, including roman candles, skyrockets, firecrackers and display fireworks.

Huge Mushroom

It sent up a huge mushroom cloud and shouts of "atomic bomb" were heard at a nearby drive-in theater. The fire lighted the sky for miles around and hundreds of persons tried to drive to the scene, hampering work of firefighters and police.

Many homes far from the blast scene were jolted. A nearby motel was heavily damaged and several of its occupants were among the injured.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined. Howard Grohs, owner of the warehouse, said it may have been touched off by someone who broke into the building. He said break-ins were common around the fourth of July.

Search Given Up For Five Lost At Sea

HONOLULU (AP) — The Navy gave up the search Saturday for other possible survivors of the Air Force C-124 Globemaster which plunged into the Pacific 600 miles southwest of here early Friday.

The aircraft carrier Boxer, which picked up three survivors and one still unidentified body Friday in a sweeping search of the area, left the scene for Pearl Harbor. Five others are missing and presumed lost.

The Boxer is expected to reach Pearl Harbor Sunday. The three survivors told Saturday how the giant plane landed after an engine ran wild, only to meet disaster moments later when its right wing went under the water.

The three survivors—out of nine men aboard the double-decked C-124 cargo plane—were eating steak and strawberry shortcake two hours after their rescue.

They were the plane commander, Capt. Jonathan W. Brown of Travis AFB, Calif.; the flight engineer, T.Sgt. James M. Phillips of Vacaville, Calif.; and another flight engineer, S.Sgt. James P. van Derre of San Rafael, Calif.

The three were picked up by a Marine helicopter from the Boxer, 600 miles southwest of Honolulu, after an Air Force plane had sighted them clinging to a crate in the open sea.

Two N. O. Cops Learn Penalties

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two New Orleans policemen caught drinking beer while on duty learned their penalties Saturday: Two days suspension from duty, without pay, and 15 weeks work without a day off.

Police Supt. Provosty A. Dayries, who announced the punishment, said Patrolmen Thomas Bergeron and John Tobin were seen with cans of beer in their hands in the rear of a liquor store on Chef Menteur highway early Friday morning.

Area Holiday Deaths Total Climbs To 8

The July 4 weekend turned into a tragedy-spattered period for the Northeast Louisiana area, as six Mississippi residents were killed in a crash near Winnfield and two elderly persons died in an inferno of flames which destroyed their home.

Several other persons were injured, some seriously, in highway accidents, and other mishaps.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Venleman, of Woodville, Miss., their two children, Rosemary, 12, and Horace, 10, Patricia McCurley, 10, and James Murray, 17, were victims of the Winn parish highway smashup yesterday afternoon.

Early Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nichols, aged 66 and 67 respectively, burned to death in the flames which destroyed their farm home near St. Joseph.

Their only son, 31-year-old Marvin Nichols, received extensive burns when he attempted to pull his parents to safety.

He was taken to Charity Hospital in New Orleans, where he was in fair condition last night. Hospital officials said that he was receiving treatment for second and third degree burns of the upper torso.

Clevis Doucet, 104 Sholars St., West Monroe, underwent surgery for amputation of his left arm yesterday in a Ruston hospital, as a result of a three-car crash 11 miles east of Ruston Friday.

Numerous Fractures He received numerous facial fractures, including a broken jaw and possible skull fractures in the wreck which slightly injured four other persons.

A 21-year-old Delhi man and three other members of a Delhi family were hospitalized yesterday following a three-car collision on rainsoaked Highway 17, a mile south of Delhi.

Bob Roy Baker, 21 of Route 1, Delhi, was enroute to his home and traveling south on the road when he apparently lost control, and skidded sideways into the northbound lane.

His car slammed into a northbound vehicle driven by R. L. Thomas, 32, also of Delhi, who

Tragic Flood Appears To Be Near End

DES MOINES (AP)—The worst appeared about over Saturday night in one of Iowa's most tragic floods: in 80 years.

The Nishnabotna River and its tributaries resumed their generally docile character after erupting on a mad course of destruction the past three days. Nineteen lives were lost, and a search was under way to recover the body of the last victim.

Monetary loss as a result of the flood probably will never be definitely determined. Thousands of acres of farmland were inundated and the planted crops—too late in the season to be replanted—were destroyed.

President Eisenhower Saturday declared as major disaster areas sections principally in the Nishnabotna River Valley in the southwest part of Iowa.

They include Audubon, Cass, Guthrie, Montgomery and parts of Pottawattamie, Fremont, and Page Counties. No allocation of specific funds has been made.

3 COUNTIES

'Big Bend' May Secede From Tex.

ALPINE, Tex. (UPI) — Indignant and "considerably embarrassed" by being a part of anything but the biggest, the Alpine, Tex., City Commission passed a resolution Saturday calling for the establishment of "Big Bend," the 50th state in the union.

Spokesman said they have contacted officials in three Southwestern Texas counties to support what they said might be the first in a series of steps taken by Texans in the light of the recent Senate approval for Alaskan statehood.

Under the 1845 enabling act which granted statehood for Texas, the Lone Star Republic was guaranteed the right to divide itself into five separate states at any time it saw fit.

All three Texas counties greatly exceed Rhode Island's 1,214 square miles. Gigantic Brewster county comprises 6,208 square miles, while Presidio county has 2,258.

The resolution called for Fort Davis, population 1,200, as the state capital of Big Bend.

ANY SIGN OF A MISSING DOG? — Men walk on upper Broadway in New York carrying placards, in both English and Spanish, offering a reward for a lost 6-year-old mongrel (mostly terrier) named Lily. The dog's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winkler, are spending $75 a day for placard carriers, radio and newspaper advertising and have offered a $1,000 reward. Lily disappeared from their New York hotel room June 27. The Winklers were supposed to return to Miami Beach last Monday but couldn't bear the thought of leaving Lily (AP Wirephoto)

$157 Million Proposed In Bond Issues

BATON ROUGE — New bond issues have been proposed to the Louisiana Legislature totaling $157 million, primarily for educational institutions and ports, according to the Public Affairs Research Council (PAR).

These proposals involve the state credit either directly or indirectly, according to PAR's weekly Legislative Bulletin.

Bonding proposals for ports total $80 million as follows: Port of New Orleans, increase of $60 million in bonding authority; Lake Providence, $15 million; and Lafourche, $5 million.

$40 Million Proposals for educational institutions call for $29 million for Louisiana State University and $11 million for the state colleges, a total of $73 million.

Another proposed bond issue seeks almost $4 million for a charity hospital in Baton Rouge. While the bond issues for the ports involve primarily earnings and other revenues of the ports rather than state revenues, they would all involve the credit of the state.

A fourth bond issue proposal of $15 million for the Krotz Springs Port Commission would give constitutional status backing to a previous statutory authorization. The proposed $40 million bond issue for Louisiana State University would be financed out of a dedication of beer tax revenues up to $3 million a year.

3 Captives Of Cubans Freed

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Three more American civilian captives of the Cuban rebels were freed Saturday and airlifted from the mountains to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo.

The Navy identified them as Alfred F. Smith of Laconia, N.H., Harley F. Sparks of Frankfort, Ind., and Jesse G. Ford of Dillon, S.C.

The three were abducted from the United Fruit Co. sugar plantation at Guarao in Oriente province July 1.

8 Freed So Far The return of the three men brought to eight the number of hostages so far freed out of a total of 50 Americans and Canadians seized by the insurgents. Five were released last Wednesday.

The helicopter that landed the three men at Guantanamo Saturday headed back in the northerly direction from which it was first spotted.

Hopes that all the kidnap victims in rebel hands would be released en masse had been raised earlier by reports that the rebels had assembled all their captives at one point. Previously the prisoners were reported divided in small groups and distributed in rebel hideouts.

Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis, commander at Guantanamo base, said he had no information that the 30 U.S. sailors and Marines held by the rebels were expected to be brought in Saturday night.

NIGHT OF FEAR, STRUGGLE

Writer Thwarts Death In Water

By DANNY BINGHAM Staff Writer

Sometime when you have nothing better to do, want to spend a miserable fear-ridden night, worry your family half to death and have the local officials set up plans to "recover your body," just go out to one of the cypress-studded lakes of Northeast Louisiana, fish until dark and have your boat capsized.

Traffic Death

Rate Begins To Slow Somewhat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death rate slowed Saturday night but still climbed at a near-record pace with more than a third of the long Independence Day weekend remaining.

Traffic Deaths 208 Drownings 90 Miscellaneous 58 Total 356

Safety officials said they feared the highway toll would mount faster Sunday when millions of weekend holidayers start driving homeward over clogged highways.

A rash of multiple-death crashes marked the opening of the three-day holiday Friday. Then the pattern changed somewhat.

The death rate declined slightly Saturday, and most of the fatal smashups caused one or two deaths. A major exception was an early morning head-on collision of two cars east of Junction City, Kan., that killed six persons, including three soldiers.

Tragically High

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said the death toll has been tragically high so far "but there still is time to do something about the remaining hours."

"If drivers will use extra restraint and caution during the remainder of the holiday period, we can avoid setting another of these all too frequent new records for traffic deaths," he said.

Thundershowers Still Threaten

Better glance skyward if thinking of a picnic today, the weatherman is still hinting around about those afternoon thundershowers.

He promises at least partly cloudy weather, which may provide some relief from heat, but refuses to go out on a limb and say definitely if it will rain. Just maybe.

ON U.S. FLIGHT

Consideration Is Given By Reds

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government announced Saturday night that consideration has been given to U.S. regrets over an Air Force plane flight into Soviet territory.

The announcement strengthened belief here that the Russians may soon release the nine men who were aboard the plane.

The Soviet government published a note it said was handed to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Friday. The note also urged Washington to take "urgent and effective measures to prevent repetition."

The note made no direct mention of the nine airmen, detained since the plane was forced down in Soviet Armenia June 27 by Soviet jet fighters. Nor was there any reference to plans for freeing them in response to a formal request delivered last Monday. The U.S. note asked for prompt release of the six officers and three airmen detained. It denied any violation of Soviet territory was intended. It reiterated U.S. State Department and Defense Department contentions that the plane strayed off course in bad weather.

A Soviet announcement last Saturday reported the plane, a transport, was forced down after it entered Soviet Armenia and crashed for 50 miles by the fighters when it ignored signals to land. The Soviet announcement said the plane burned after landing.

The United States said the plane was en route from its base in Germany to Iran and Pakistan, by way of Cyprus.

Victims Members Of Same Family; 2 Others Injured

By AUSTIN ABRAMS Staff Writer

WINNFIELD — A violent two-car collision just West of here yesterday afternoon killed six persons, all members of a Woodville, Miss., family, and injured two other persons, one critically.

All the dead and one of the injured were passengers in the same automobile. The lone occupant of the other vehicle, a Shreveport minister — was reported in "fairly good condition" at a hospital here. He was Rev. Thomas E. Davis, of 205 East 66th Street, who suffered broken legs and cuts.

The dead were tentatively identified by Winn Parish Sheriff R. S. Jordan as:

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Venleman, both about 40; two of their children, Rosemary 12, and Horace, 5; James Murray, 17; and Patricia Louise McCurley, 10.

The McCurley girl was the daughter of Mrs. Grady (Irene Murray) McCurley, 35, the only survivor of the death car. She was termed as being in "very critical condition" at a local hospital.

Mrs. McCurley, and Mrs. Venleman were sisters to Murray, authorities said.

Jordan and State Trooper Martin Connor along with other parish officials who investigated the smash-up, late last night were trying to establish how the accident occurred.

They said as near as could be determined, Davis was headed West about two miles West of here on U. S. Highway 84 shortly after 2 p.m.

Possibility Cited According to officials the car carrying the seven Mississippians possibly dropped onto the road shoulder and veered broadside into the path of the oncoming Davis car.

Both vehicles stopped on the same side of the highway after the impact. Officials said they did not know if either vehicle overturned.

They said all the Mississippians, except the woman and a little girl were thrown from the car. It was not readily determined if Davis was thrown from his vehicle.

Deputy Winn Parish Coroner Dr. George M. D. Rodgers was among the first to arrive on the scene. Authorities said all the victims died of crush injuries. They said Mr. Venleman died shortly after arrival at a hospital here. The others were killed instantly.

The right side of the death vehicle was cut off flush with the floor. Both it and the top were ripped free from the car.

The motor of Davis' car was rammed almost completely through the dash.

Jordan, a veteran of 17 years' service as a state trooper and parish sheriff, said it was "the worst automobile collision I ever saw."

Rain Falling The sheriff said a slight rain was falling at the time of the incident and he was unable to determine if either driver had attempted to apply brakes. He said officers had not been able to ascertain who was driving the Mississippi car.

Jordan said the only witness to the brutal crash was unable to give a graphic account of the details.

The sheriff spent hours by telephone attempting to locate relatives of the Mississippi people who

'Hoover Day' Is Celebrated

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Belgium celebrated "Hoover Day" Saturday in honor of former President Herbert Hoover who saved this tiny nation from starvation by organizing the Belgian Relief Commission in World War I.

For the 83-year-old American statesman the occasion opened the door to a roomful of ghosts and memories, and brought about a sentimental reunion of former cohorts that Hoover said probably will be the last because of the inexorable passage of time.

As flags fluttered in the capital, Hoover returned to the room in the Banque de la Societ Generale, where 44 years ago he formed the volunteer group which pioneered the methods now used all over the world to fight famine.

It was only the second time since 1919 that Hoover had entered the cream-and-gilt boardroom. Twenty years ago, he presided at a similar symbolic meeting. There were two main items on the agenda then: Call the roll. Honor the dead.

Many seats were empty. Men feeble with age quavered their replies. Name after name rang out in the room...to be answered by silence and followed by the voice of the secretary saying: "Passed beyond."

Saturday, the Belgian Relief Commission came into being again for the visit of Hoover as President Eisenhower's special envoy to the Brussels World's Fair. Again the agenda was the same: Call the roll. Honor the dead.

This time, only six of the old veterans were present, including William Hallam Tuck, of Upper Marlborough, Md. But at Hoover's request, the sons of the departed filled the seats of their fathers. Twenty years ago at the first emotion-charged meeting, Hoover himself was still tall, broad-shouldered, vigorous. Saturday, he observed that soon there may only be memories left of the original relief group.

"There are scarcely a dozen of the old guard in this audience," he said Saturday. "The inexorable passage of time probably makes this our last meeting."

His address finished, Hoover lunched at Laeken Palace with King Baudouin and other members of the royal family. The king has seen Hoover three times during his three-day visit—a marked sign of the unusual esteem in which he is held in this country where he holds the unique title of "The Friend of Belgium and Honorary Citizen of Belgium."

Four Persons Are Saved In Mississippi

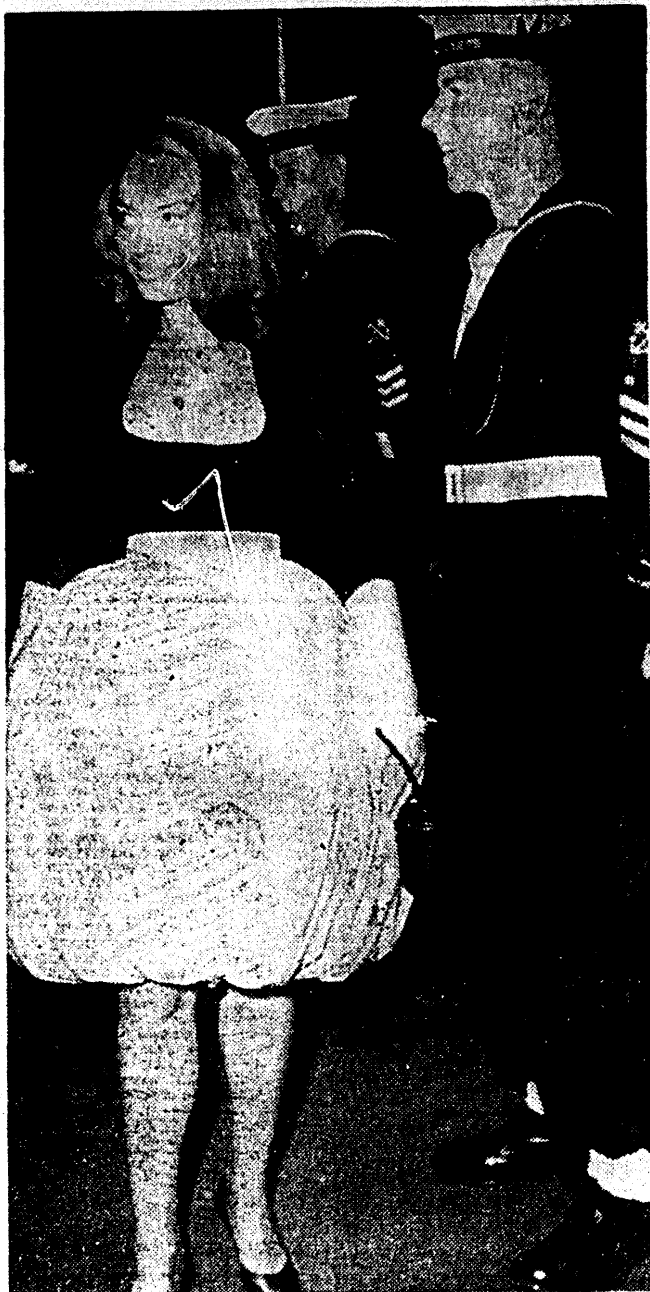

LEAKESVILLE Miss. (AP) — Highway patrolman Steve Henderson says he is recommending Alvin T. Harris for a bravery medal for towing four persons from the swift waters of the Chickasaw River.

"It's a sure thing at least four persons would have drowned if Harris hadn't come along. He's a real old-fashioned hero and make no mistake about it," Henderson said.

The officer gave this account of the 27-year-old Richton man's heroism:

Harris was driving over the river bridge here when he saw a small outboard motorboat turn over. Its six occupants were dumped into the river about 40 yards from shore.

Harris stopped his car, ran down the bank and dived into the water. In separate trips he res-

LEAVE FOR HOME — VIENNA (UPI) — Soviet Military garrisons in Constantza and Dobruja regions of Communist Romania left for home by rail Friday, Bucharest Radio reported.

The evacuation means that two of Romania's 18 regions are free of Russian troops. The Warsaw Pact nations in Eastern Europe recently agreed to withdraw the Soviet troops from all of Romania.

The Leakesville family was on an Independence Day outing when their boat capsized.

ABOUT DEALINGS

Moulder Expects Adams' Recall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.) said Saturday he expects the House Influence Investigating subcommittee to recall presidential aide Sherman Adams for more questioning about his dealings with Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Moulder, a member of the group said the subcommittee should invite Adams to make a second appearance on the witness stand after Goldfine finishes testifying. Adams last month voluntarily went before the subcommittee to answer charges he exerted pressure on federal agencies which were studying Goldfine's actions as a financier and woolen mill owner.

The president's chief assistant acknowledged he may have been "imprudent" in accepting gifts and hospitality from Goldfine but denied any wrongdoing on behalf of his old friend. Moulder said Adams should be called back for questioning about other details of his friendship with Goldfine and to be asked if he had interceded for other friends with federal agencies.

Members Differ — Subcommittee Republicans differed with Moulder on recalling Adams.

Rep. John P. O'Hara (R-Minn.) said Adams' earlier testimony "covered the waterfront" and that unless something new develops, there is no reason for further questioning.

Rep. John W. Heselton (Mass.), a friend of Adams, said he had "no idea" whether the subcommittee might invite him to come back.

Moulder also served notice that he wants to quiz Goldfine about the fact he failed to pay Massachusetts state income tax for 1956 and obtained an extension for paying his 1957 taxes.

Associate Tax Commissioner John Dane Jr. said in Boston that Goldfine filed no personal state income tax return for 1956 and got an extension on his 1957 return. But Dane refused to give any additional information.

Goldfine, week-ending in Massachusetts, was not available for comment.

Should Return Gifts — Moulder acknowledged that any favoritism Goldfine may have received in delaying payment of his state income taxes was outside the legislative jurisdiction of Congress. But he told a reporter it, nevertheless, is pertinent to the subcommittee inquiry.

Moulder also asserted that White House and congressional employees should return any gifts from Goldfine which the Boston textile tycoon wrote off as business expenses on his income tax forms.

The Missouriian said Adams should return at once the expensive oriental rug which he said he received as a loan from Goldfine. Adams also received an expensive vicuna coat, plus $2,000 of hotel bills paid by Goldfine.

Goldfine has acknowledged that he deducted all these costs as business expenses in computing his federal income tax.

"It's about time the rug goes back," Moulder said.

Thwarted — A burglary at the Selig Manufacturing Co. apparently was thwarted by the night watchman — the thieves ran off after moving an ottoman just outside the building.

Monroe Police said that thieves broke a window on the east side of the building, entered, and dragged the ottoman in a cardboard box to a spot just outside the building.

Police said that they were summoned late Friday night, after the watchman heard someone trying to break in. They said that he evidently frightened the thieves off.

The third burglary occurred at the Monroe Steam Laundry, where a coke machine was broken into some time between 9 a.m. Friday and 6 a.m. yesterday.

Jessie Fatheree stated that the machine was opened. H. A. Whitfield, who reported the burglary, said that he had checked by the establishment Friday morning.

The shooting took place on the front porch of Johnson's home, at 10:12 p.m. Friday. Johnson then fled, and Jackson was rushed to Mulhearn Ambulance.

The victim suffered a wound in the right side, under the last rib, and lost a great quantity of blood before help arrived. He died at 12:15 a.m. yesterday.

According to Monroe Police who investigated, the two men were arguing over Johnson's girl friend, and Johnson warned Jackson "not to come up on me."

Johnson said that Jackson kept walking toward him, and Johnson then fired a single barrel 20 gauge shotgun at the man.

Witnesses — Three other persons witnessed the shooting, and Johnson fled, carrying the weapon, police said. All law enforcement officers in the area were alerted to be on the lookout for Johnson.

At 9 a.m. yesterday, he walked into the Morehouse Parish Sheriff's office in Bastrop and surrendered.

He was transferred back here by the Monroe Police Department, and booked on charges of murder at 11 a.m. Police officials said that Johnson confessed to the slaying.

Police were continuing in the investigation to locate Jackson's address. So far, the victim's address is unknown.

The State University College of Forestry at Syracuse, N. Y., has established a department of wood products engineering. The move consolidated the college's basic and applied timber science departments into a single unit.

'Touch And Go' On Trade Bill, Solons Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Finance Committee members said Saturday it's "touch and go" whether President Eisenhower's five-year reciprocal trade extension bill will be cut back in that body next week.

The House - passed legislation would allow the President to cut tariff rates an additional 25 percent in negotiating foreign trade agreements. It goes on the committee table for possible legislative surgery starting Tuesday.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett said in an interview that it is by no means a "foregone conclusion" that the full five-year extension granted by a 317-98 vote the committee.

"It will be awfully close," he said. "Right now I'd guess the odds are a little in favor of the extension being cut down to perhaps three years."

Says Sputnik Is Dropping

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's 14-ton Sputnik III is dropping closer to the earth, the official news agency Tass said Saturday night.

The agency said the time taken for the satellite to circle the earth had decreased to 105.3 minutes, and the time for its rocket carrier to 103.8 minutes. The first report on the launching on May 15 said the Sputnik III's circuit time was 106 minutes.

MRS. LEON S. PRICE

PT-A Leaders Participate In Workshop

Parent-Teacher leaders on national, state, regional, and local levels will participate in the P-TA workshop, which will be offered by Northeast State as a summer school feature.

Representing the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will be Mrs. Leon S. Price, of Dallas, who is publicity chairman of the organization. She will speak each day to the workshop on some phase of "Telling the P-TA Story."

The conference, for which one semester hour of credit in education may be earned, will be moderated by Mrs. W. S. Vincent, Sherrouse School principal, a past state P-TA president, and current state citizenship chairman.

Meetings will open July 14 and close July 19. Daily sessions are scheduled in the faculty lounge of the Administration Building from 1 to 4 p.m. except on the last day, which will end at 11 a.m.

Background

Mrs. Price became president of the Texas Congress after holding chairmanships of public relations, narcotics education, and school lunch committees and the office of vice president. She had formerly served in various capacities in her council and district, including a term as president of the Dallas council of P-TA's.

In addition to her life membership in the National Congress, Mrs. Price has been honored with life membership in her state association and in the National Education Association and with honorary state membership in Delta Kappa Gamma. In 1954 she was named Dallas "Mother of the Year." The same year she was given a special award by the Texas Safety Association.

With a wide range of interests, Mrs. Price serves on state advisory committees dealing with educational television, the state film library, polio vaccine, and other projects of educational and civic importance. Since 1946 she has been a member of the Greater Dallas Planning Committee and she is active in other civic organizations in that city.

Boy Reports He Drove Auto That Hit Man

DALLAS (UPI) — A 16-year-old boy, who said he did not know his car had struck and killed a 53-year-old painter until he heard the news of the fatality on a radio report, Saturday told police that he was the driver of a car involved in a fatal accident.

No charges have been filed and the case is pending investigation.

Capt. Chris Kockaz, in charge of the Dallas Accident Prevention Bureau, said that the boy turned himself in after hearing a radio report on the traffic death of James Martin Wallace, 53, early Saturday.

Police said Wallace was apparently sitting in the middle of a Dallas street when he was run over by the car.

Captain Kockaz said the youth told him that he felt his car "strike something" early Saturday but did not know he had struck a man.

Police ordered a new autopsy of Wallace's body to determine the cause of death.

Bonham Named To Tex. Post

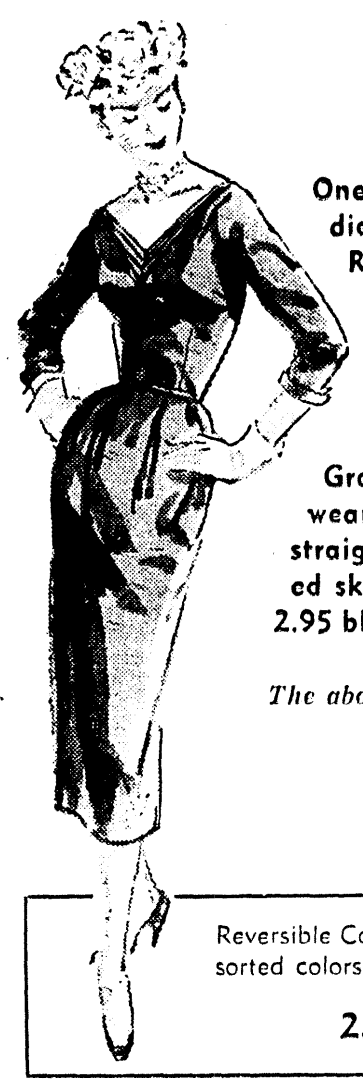

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Buster Cole, 46-year-old Bonham attorney, Saturday was elected chairman of the State Bar of Texas board of directors.

Cole was elected to the board in 1956 for a three-year term by lawyers of the Fourth Congressional District. The board met at the 76th annual meeting of the Texas Bar which closed here Saturday.

Born in Saltillo, Tex., Cole was educated at Hardin-Simmons University. He was admitted to the Texas Bar in 1933. He is a former county and district attorney of Fannin county and is secretary-treasurer of the Sam Rayburn Foundation.

About 119,000 Texans work in drilling and production of oil for annual wages totaling $658 million. There are 47,000 employed in refining, with total annual wages of $294 million.

Senate Money-Grab

Gov. Earl K. Long's captive senate has approved a money-grab which has every appearance of being illegal and unwise. Certainly it is outside regular practice and subject to challenge. On Gov. Long's urging, the senate voted to seize $1,847,879 dedicated for the construction of a medical research center in Shreveport and to return it to the state's general fund.

Protesting against the seizure, Sen. Jackson B. Davis said:

"We are not supposed to issue bonds for the operations of the general expenses of the state. This money was dedicated to a particular purpose. To my knowledge, bond money set aside for one purpose has never been returned to the general fund."

There are at least three good reasons to disapprove this action by Gov. Long and the senate.

In the first place, floating bonds to obtain money to put into the general fund is bad business in any state. It is a practice seldom resorted to because it has a tendency to lower the credit rating of the state. Companies which buy bonds are glad to offer money for construction purposes but they eye with suspicion the use of such money for general operating expenses.

In the second place, the senate action shows it is not using its own judgment but is bowing blindly to the wishes of Gov. Long. The action itself is wrong and the spirit in which it is done is doubly wrong—an attempt to punish Shreveport merely because the bond issue was voted during the time Robert F. Kennon was governor. The fact that most of the senators are willing to assist the governor in a deliberate and malicious spite action proves that most members of that body are "captive" and are being unworthy of the trust imposed in them.

A third reason the action is bad is that it will either kill or seriously endanger Shreveport's chances of getting the medical research center, which is badly needed. Funds for the general fund can come from many sources and can be appropriated at the discretion of the legislature but the $1,847,879 for the medical center was a fixed and dedicated sum. Without it, there appears little likelihood that the center can be built.

This is another demonstration of the way in which Gov. Long always seems to put his own selfish, political interests ahead of the welfare of the people, and of the way in which a captive senate can ruthlessly disregard the people's rights.

Voting And Segregation

In making ardent pleas for race-mixing, most rabid integrationists harp on the contention that Negroes are denied equality and that they are denied the right to vote. No law in this land denies the Negroes the right to vote and none denies them equality.

Rejection of integration does not mean rejection of equal rights. It merely means equal rights without race-mixing or mongrelization. Integration does not make people equal and could not do so.

A rabid advocate of mongrelization and a man who has had many citations as a supporter of communistic and other subversive groups had this to say:

"Once again the Ku Klux Klan burns crosses and masquerades in white . . . It proclaims its message of vicious racialism . . . When the Ku Klux Klan burns the cross it desecrates a sacred symbol."

The no-vote cry and the Ku Klux Klan cry are mainly red herrings, dragged across the trail to hide the real issues of segregation.

Negroes in the south have voted at least as far back as 90 per cent of the people living today can remember. Before the great hue and cry over integration arose most Negroes who were educated had no trouble registering. The same law which kept illiterate Negroes from voting also kept illiterate whites from voting. It was true that a fairly large proportion of the white people were educated and that most of the Negroes were not but that situation has largely been corrected by laws enacted and money supplied by white people. The laws compelled the Negroes, as well as whites, to attend school, and the money enabled them to have excellent school facilities.

Most states have outlawed the Ku Klux Klan and the klan has not, within the last 25 years, been a major factor in the fight against race-mixing. Louisiana was one of the states which outlawed the klan by enacting a law which said that every society or organization chartered by the state must make public a list of its membership. This law was enacted to restrain the klan, not the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Later, when it was disclosed that the NAACP was operating illegally in Louisiana by failing to file a list of its members, as other organizations had been required to do, that organization was outlawed in this state. The anti-klan law was made to apply to it. If there are any klan units in Louisiana they must be extremely inactive, as there is scant evidence that they do anything.

Alabama also had a law requiring disclosure of membership but the supreme court a few days ago apparently struck down that law when it ruled that it deprived the members of the right to work privately for certain principles supported by it.

It is difficult to see how the NAACP has a right to secret membership if the klan has no such right. If the NAACP has that right, the klan must have it, so long as it does not violate other laws, unless the supreme court decides to grant rights to one group and deny the same rights to another group.

The south, in which sentiment for segregation is said to be the strongest, had virtually killed the klan by its ban on secret membership. Now the supreme court, in its ardor to rule in favor of Negroes, apparently has taken away the protection which the southern states had set up.

The south, if allowed to run its own affairs, would not need violence to maintain separate but friendly relations between the two races. It wants no violence and it wants no interference.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

New York City Is Labeled Sociological Phenomenon

The city-states of Greece, Athens, Sparta, etc., have gone down into history famous for their achievements. Rome was the apogee of a world empire. New York is not only a city; it is an historical and sociological phenomenon, for here dwell 8 million people and in the metropolitan area, which is a 40-mile radius, connected by swift means of communication, live and work more than 15 million human beings—a population larger than any state of the United States and than many countries represented in the United Nations.

It is a round-the-clock city, for there is never an hour when the city is closed down tight. According to the Department of Commerce and Public Events, every 24 hours, nearly a million men and women go to work in New York factories, although one does not think of it as a factory town. About 40,000 factories are situated in New York City. And yet, what has made this city most important has been its shipping. There are 650 miles of waterfront, 1,630 piers, bulkheads and wharves. The city has facilities for 25,000 incoming and outgoing ships and 140 million tons of waterborne freight a year.

Exercise Still Debated Issue

Does moderate exercise have a beneficial effect upon the body? This perennial conundrum has been tossed around for decades, and in all probability the cause of cancer will be found long before the exercise question is answered. Many persons have lived to a ripe old age without exerting themselves more than in the ordinary activities of life. On the other hand, we never will know how many men died in their forties or fifties for lack of exercise. There is no scientific yardstick to measure its beneficial or harmful effects, and your opinion is as good as mine.

Those who are convinced that exercise is beneficial should continue in their belief so long as they enjoy good health and are able to contribute to the welfare of the community. The same applies to those who think it of no lines of industry in its 40,000 factories and they are as varied as making scientific instruments and hats for ladies. The answer as to why people stay in New York is that the law of supply and demand works well. In the Big Town are jobs and for the manufacturer, the Big Town includes every type of labor and skill, from watch-makers to pushers of carts. It is the vast diversity of New York's labor force of 3,600,000 which makes it so convenient as a manufacturing office center. It has everything from 330,000 professional and technical workers to 1,100,000 clerical and sales workers.

Workers want to go where there are schools, colleges, churches, and places of amusement. They want to provide for their children the best available facilities and they are to be found in New York which provides free education from the kindergarten to a Bachelor of Arts degree and also a large number of private and parochial schools, high schools and universities. Perhaps no other city in the United States has so many schools which offer vocational training—more than 500 of them—including such famous institutions as the Bronx High School of Science and the High School of Music and Arts.

New York has been growing since 1624 when Peter Minuit bought Manhattan Island, now one of the five boroughs, for $24. Even in one lifetime, it has been possible to see that growth because I can recall when the first subway was built and the city began to spread in many directions. I can recall when the Metropolitan Opera House was uptown and the Metropolitan Museum of Art a far distance from the center of population. Today both are centrally located because of a rapid transit subway system and the spread of the city.

Why not boast a little about all our wonders? Why not tell of our own achievements? Why is every body's grass greener? New York is like this town and wonder how anyone can survive anywhere else. I once heard the same comment in San Francisco. There is lots to see in America.

Seaberry Bar Group President

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Virgil T. Seaberry of Eastland, immediate past president of the State Bar of Texas, was elected chairman of the Board of the Texas Bar Foundation at its organization meeting here Saturday.

Other officers named included Joseph W. McKnight of Dallas, professor at Southern Methodist University, vice chairman; and Jack Hart, Midland, secretary.

The non-profit organization was established by the State Bar Friday to raise funds for expansion of the group's legal aid program for persons who cannot afford to pay for legal counsel.

Trustees include W. S. Barron, Bryan; Homer E. Dean Jr., Alice; Gordon R. Wynne, Willis Point, H. D. Voorhees, Houston; Leo Brewster, Fort Worth, State Bar president; A. J. Folley, Amarillo, president-elect; and John B. Garrett, Fort Worth, president of the State Junior Bar of Texas.

Statehood For Hawaii Pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The vanguard of a delegation pressing for Hawaiian statehood before Congress adjourns this year arrived here Saturday in an optimistic mood.

Three Democrats — to be followed by a larger group of Hawaiian spokesmen Sunday — will confer with Democratic leaders on the status of the statehood drive.

Alaska was voted statehood last Monday but the Hawaiian statehood bill has yet to emerge from a House committee. President Eisenhower said it would be "rank discrimination" if Hawaii were not brought in this year but congressional leaders doubt action will be taken until next year.

Youth Wins Bet, Loses To Police

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 19-year-old youth Saturday won — and promptly lost — $20 on a bet he could jump from key bridge into the Potomac River and swim to shore.

Richard Zimmerman of near by Arlington, Va., made the 150-foot leap, swam to shore — and lost his $20 as collateral when shore-waiting police charged him with disorderly conduct.

Arab Republic Aid Undecided, Say Observers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The chairman of the U. N. observer team here said Saturday his group has not been able to get to many frontier areas to determine fully whether the United Arab Republic is giving massive aid to Lebanese rebels as claimed by Lebanon.

Galo Plaza, New York-born former president of Ecuador, also told a news conference the Lebanese government has not furnished any evidence to support its charges in the U. N. Security Council of massive U.A.R. interference.

The Security Council ordered the team here. The first report from the group denied evidence of big-scale U.A.R. aid to the rebels. Plaza said, however, the report is only a progress statement and is not final.

He also said there has been no evidence to support reports of Syrian officers fighting with the rebels or that the rebels are using weapons heavier than machine guns. He said arms probably are getting into Lebanon from outside "because there are no arms factories in the country."

The majority of the rebels are Lebanese, he said and their leaders will not admit getting any arms from outside the country.

8 Northeast Instructors Attend Meet

Eight instructors in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Northeast State are participating in an eight-week summer program at various army camps. The other two officers in the Military Department remained on the campus, where they are preparing for the commissioning of ten second lieutenants.

Stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., are Lt. Col. Howard P. Landry, professor of military science and tactics, and M-Sgt. Charles E. Feeney, who are instructing about 750 engineering ROTC cadets from colleges throughout the southern and central areas of the United States.

Colonel Landry, serving as chief of all tactical field training of cadets, is being assisted by approximately 30 officers and 50 enlisted men.

Supervising Sergeant Feeney, as personnel officer, is supervising personnel procedures of camp training.

Stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., are Maj. Lawrence Longfellow, Capt. Earl N. Trabue, Capt. Ray Coffey, M-Sgt. William W. Pierce, and M-Sgt. Julian Geuin.

Captain Trabue, on duty as tactical officer, is supervising cadets with a view toward their being rated on efficiency, conduct, ability, and officer potential.

Captain Coffey is instructing in tactical field training, and both Sergeant Pierce and Sergeant Geuin are giving close supervision to cadets.

Northeast State's ROTC is represented at Fort Gordon, Ga. by M-Sgt. Berry D. Maroney, who is training about 700 signal corps cadets from all over the United States, in radio and telephone procedures.

Continuing their duties on the college campus are Capt. Walter S. Mattox, assistant professor of military science and tactics, and M-Sgt. Hildreth Roberts, whose main objective is to prepare for the commissioning of ten cadets as second lieutenants at the close of the summer school.

TO BE HONORED

DONNA, Tex. (UPI) — Donna's two "governors" will be honored next Saturday in special ceremonies to be attended by Gov. Price Daniel.

Guests of honor will be Reid Curry, elected governor of the 1958 Texas Boys State, and Marilyn Wood, who was named head of the recent Bluebonnet Girls State. Both live in Donna.

Wants To Conquer Urge To Compose

DALLAS (UPI) — A songwriting truck driver whose recorded compositions have harvested popularity in the American Southwest and Mexico wants to conquer his urge to compose and spend more time building up his sand and gravel hauling business.

Necho Duran, a barrel chested man with Herculean shoulders, said he doesn't intend to resume his career as a recording artist.

Search Flares For Negro In North Caddo

Shreveport, La. (AP) — The search flared out in North Caddo Parish today for a 50-year-old sex-crazed Negro wanted for murder, aggravated assault and rape. State police identified the shotgun-armed fugitive as Robert Hurlbey, alias Robert Ford.

Officers said Ford shot and killed another Negro, Mose Beasley, Thursday night and beat Beasley's wife severely with a double-blade ax.

Ford abducted a 19-year-old Negro girl from Beasley's home after the attacks and raped her "several times" before releasing her early Friday.

William Cunningham, a white farmer near the Ida community north of here, told police he caught Ford peeking in a window two weeks ago and reported it to Ford's employer.

The girl Ford abducted told police he said Cunningham was next on his "death list."

Drillstem Tests Indicate Third Cadeville Oiler

Drillstem tests indicated the third new oil well in the Cadeville Field will arrive shortly.

Duncan Cook, manager of the Monroe district office of the state conservation department, said the well was located in Section 19-17-2E. The well is the British American Oil Company's F. K. Golsom Unit B-1, a half-mile offset to the West of the other two producers.

Tests indicated the well had a potential daily production of 200 barrels of high gravity oil, thought to be between a depth of 9,722 and 9,728 feet.

Drilled on a 320-acre tract, the drillers were reported to have to talled 9,744 feet. An allowable of 85 barrels a day is in effect on the two companion wells.

16 Starving Seamen Saved

ADEN (AP) — Sixteen starving, exhausted Italian seamen have been rescued by a British navy ship in the Gulf of Aden after drifting for three days in a lifeboat.

Picked up Friday by the fleet auxiliary tanker Dingledele, they said they were the crew of the 1,200-ton Australian-owned ship Gieve, which foundered in a monsoon.

They had been without food for their three days in the 18-foot lifeboat and had had little water. They said they doubted they could have survived another day adrift.

New Moves On Labor Underway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New moves were underway Saturday to obtain action on two Senate-passed labor union reform bills stalled in the House.

Rep. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont.) said he expected a special House labor subcommittee to present recommendations next week of the welfare fund regulation bill the Senate approved last April 28.

The subcommittee, set up to study the measure, resigned in a huff 10 days ago over demands by eight other labor committee members for faster action. But Metcalf, one of the five subcommittee members predicted they would consider the mass resignation and submit a report to the full labor committee next Thursday. He said they will recommend some changes in the Senate bill.

Other sources said the full committee will "do something" about the legislation at its Thursday meeting, no matter what the subcommittee does.

Meanwhile, Rep. Stewart L. Udall (D-Ariz.) was reported making progress towards lining up bi-partisan support for bypassing the labor committee and taking the Senate's labor reform bill directly to the House floor.

Udall, a labor committee member, has taken the view that the unusual short-cut procedure is necessary to get House action before Congress adjourns for the summer.

It would take a two-thirds House vote to consider the bill without prior committee processing.

Although the Senate passed the reform bill June 17, Speaker Sam Rayburn still has not officially referred it to the labor committee. The Texas said he is waiting for the committee to act on the welfare fund bill which he regards as a "must."

Murder Trial Postponed As Judge Expires

EUDORA, Ark. (Special) — The murder trial of a young Negro was postponed here yesterday

This legislation provides for registration and annual reports on financial operations of employee welfare and pension funds.

The more controversial reform bill is designed to crack down on labor racketeers by safeguarding union funds, guaranteeing secret elections and promoting other democratic union practices.

Both measures were an outgrowth of the Senate labor racket hearings.

when the judge scheduled to preside over the case suddenly dropped dead in his yard. Chicot County circuit judge John Golden died yesterday of a heart attack.

The trial, scheduled to begin tomorrow, involved the fatal shooting of C. C. Cundiff, 59, owner of a Eudora plantation, allegedly by Lawrence Smith, 18-year-old Negro.

Chicot County Sheriff John Biggs said Smith had signed a confession. Cundiff was killed by a .22 caliber bullet through the forehead.

TECHNICAL INFORMATION

Reds Give Look At Atom Secrets

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia gave the West a glimpse of its atomic detection secrets Saturday but claimed it has received nothing new in return from the West in the technical talks on policing nuclear explosions.

Soviet scientists took the wraps off some of their technical information on tracing atomic and hydrogen blasts at the fourth session of the scientific conference that may pave the way to fool-proof international nuclear disarmament.

Top-ranking Soviet and Western scientists presented detailed reports Friday and Saturday how to detect nuclear explosions through electromagnetic waves and sound signals.

The conference, which got under way after an unexpectedly speedy agreement on its working procedure Friday, moved quickly into a free and highly technical discussion among the experts.

Delegates of both sides expressed considerable satisfaction with the choice of the conference to date. They noted that it has stuck to scientific discussions and steered clear of any political issues or undertones.

No details of Saturday's Soviet disclosures were revealed outside the tightly closed and heavily guarded conference chamber in the plush Palais des Nations building that formerly housed the now-dead League of Nations.

They were believed to have dealt with some fresh information on the use of electromagnetic waves and acoustic signals in detecting and locating nuclear blasts.

Both sides welcomed with apparent relief the "free and forthcoming" atmosphere of the discussions, which were described as being "of a very high order."

Two leading Soviet scientists—Nobel Prize winner Nikola N. Semenov and academician Mikhail A. Sadovsky—claimed they had heard from the West "so far only generally known things."

Russian academician Igor E. Tamm nevertheless was satisfied with Saturday's discussion, saying "certainly it was good."

Dr. Hans Bethe, of Cornell University, a member of the U.S. delegation, said that today's discussion "was very profound and both sides were free and forthright in their talk."

Short Takes On The Legislature

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — At least one man appreciated the news stories reporting the roll calls and attendance records of the Monroe Area Legislators.

He was House speaker Robert Angelle, who received the blunt of things when his House shows up short. Said Angelle when he opened the session Monday morning, "Your North Louisiana boys better answer the roll calls."

By Thursday afternoon, after the longest sessions of the current legislature, the legislators were tired and ready to go home. As a result, the House was extremely short. Nevertheless, all but two Monroe Area Law-makers were present.

Sax dat fella Angelle, "Sho is funny all you North Louisiana boys are here. Dat Monroe newspaper is making my job easy."

Surprise Votes

Rep. Ford Stinson's bill to send a constitutional amendment before the public to appropriate $20-million to school teachers was defeated 52-32 in a final vote that featured several surprise votes.

Several legislators who have voted down the line with the Administration jumped the fence. Stinson's bill was not supported by the Governor and his leaders.

Voting for Stinson's proposal from the Monroe area were Lancaster, Napper, Peck, Downes, Faulk, Fields, Gibbs, Seaman and Wilson. Of those men, Lancaster, Napper, Faulk, Fields and Wilson voted against the gas gathering tax.

There have been several other indications that the Administration has lost ground.

Special Session

The Senate comes back in tonight with the House returning Monday afternoon. Both chambers will work through Wednesday.

It has been the custom in the past for the Legislature to convene shortly after midnight on the final day merely to adjourn. But Angelle told one reporter last week that a joint session will be held Thursday, the last day.

Angelle's statement indicated to some that the Governor will address a joint session Thursday at 10 a.m. The nature of his speech is expected to center around reasons for a special session and why the Administration will have to pass more taxes.

Gov. Luther Frazier said last week the special session will be called, more than likely the latter part of October or early November.

Unhappy Senate

There were some Senators a little disgruntled with the selection of J. D. Deblieux of Baton Rouge as the outstanding member of the Senate this year.

In making the selection the Press Corps picked George Tessier of New Orleans as the outstanding House member.

Deblieux opposed three of Sen. Willie Rainach's segregation bills, not on the basis of segregation versus integration but rather because of legal technicalities.

Therefore, some Senators were lead to believe that the Press picked Deblieux because he opposed Rainach. That is not so. The Baton Rouge Freshman was selected because he is a bill prober—an unpopular one at that.

Quiet Man

Quietest man in the legislature these days is Willie Rainach the segregation leader from Homer whose so-called investigation of LSU fizzled completely out.

In addition, Rainach let three segregation committee proposals die while the verbal blows struck by the Governor carried quite a punch.

We noticed at a dinner for the Senate and Press the other night that it was a long time before Frazier, acting Master of Ceremonies, got around to kidding Rainach.

Incidentally, the dinner was sponsored by the oil and gas people and Frazier drew laugh after laugh about the Administration and the gas gathering tax.

Said Frazier "I might be looking for a job in '60'."

The three focal points of Frazier's witty commentary were Sen. B. B. Rayburn the Senate floor leader, Bob Ainsworth the minority leader and Jim Sparks the Monroe Senator who is considered a "down the roader."

Maggie Dixon, managing editor of the Baton Rouge Morning Advertiser said in a feature story last Sunday that Rayburn, Ainsworth and Sparks who sit together in one corner of the Senate make up the "powerhouse corner."

With reference to the story Frazier asked "with Rayburn on one side and Ainsworth on the other, what I want to know is where Sparks stands?" he added, "He'll probably get more out of the legislature than anybody."

Sometimes the House has its kicks, Stumpy Jack Crane delivering a speech from a box was a riot.

Then Thursday afternoon the lawmakers were playful. Angelle appointed a committee of Buddy Napper, John Garrett, and Well-born Jack to investigate the contents of a paper bag on one of their colleagues' desk.

The committee escorted their fellow solon and his brown bag to the front of the House opened the sack and pulled out two pieces of women's underwear.

They belonged to the Legislator's wife.

Lincoln Peaches
Peaches from the orchards of Lincoln Parish were placed in nice cartons on each of the lawmakers desks in both the House and Senate Thursday.

Several times this session the legislators have been awarded with gifts from areas interested in pushing their product.

Buddy Napper's area proved to have one of the most popular products. Several cartons were stolen from the floor of the House.

could identify the victims.

He said H. E. Berryhill of the Berryhill Benefit Funeral Association in Woodville provided the tentative identification.

A Berryhill representative and relative of the dead were en route here last night.

Jordan said he understood the Reverend Davis was en route home to Shreveport, but said he was unable to determine the destination of the Mississippians.

The sheriff said he learned that Mrs. McCurley's husband did not accompany his wife and relatives, but was on a separate trip.

The scene of the fatal crash was in a gently sloping straight stretch of highway.

Three hours after the crash, two Negro men were injured when their huge tractor trailer dropped off an eighteen inch open road shoulder and ripped 224 feet down a muddy ditch before overturning. The truck mishap was nine miles further West of the fatal crash on U. S. 84.

One of the Negroes—believed to be the driver—was described as being in "fair condition." Hospital authorities said it is believed he would recover. The other Negro sustained head cuts.

Trooper Connor—in charge of investigations—was on the scene of the second mishap late last night. Exact official details had not been released.

Connor said he would complete his report as soon as possible.

was accompanied by his wife, Irene, 34, who is expecting a baby soon, and their 12-year-old son, David, according to State Police who investigated.

The momentum of the crash knocked the Thomas car backwards into an auto also going north, driven by Mrs. Opal Monk of Tallulah. She was the only person who escaped injury, and only the front section of her car was damaged, State Police revealed.

Baker was rushed to the Delhi clinic, and then taken to Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg. At the hospital last night, he was still unconscious, suffering from a broken jaw, cut tongue, possible brain concussion, and several cuts and bruises. He was reported as doing fair.

Car Demolished The new car which Baker was driving was totally demolished. The front and rear of the Thomas car were damaged. Thomas suffered a cut tendon in the left arm. The entire family was brought to Conway Memorial Hospital in Monroe.

At 9:30 last night Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were transferred to St. Francis Hospital. She was x-rayed and hospitalized with a laceration on the leg. Thomas immediately underwent surgery for facial lacerations.

Dr. Bernard Soto of Mer Rouge suffered four broken ribs early yesterday morning, when his auto collided with a pick-up truck one mile west of Mer Rouge.

Dr. Soto was brought to St. Francis hospital in Monroe where he was admitted. He stated that he was returning home on route 165, and did not see the truck until it was too late to avoid a collision. He added that it did not have any lights on.

Thrown By Impact He was thrown into the steering wheel by the impact of the crash. William B. Strange of Oak Grove was listed as owner of the truck. State Police investigated the mishap.

A total of seven traffic accidents in which two persons were injured occurred in Monroe from 6 a.m. Friday, July 4, to 4 p.m. yesterday.

Police officials said that on Friday, six accident involving two injuries took place. Twelve reckless driving tickets were issued, in addition to 11 tickets for running red lights and one for speeding.

Yesterday, one accident took place between 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. one ticket was issued for running a stop sign, and two for turning where prohibited.

A 29-year-old West Monroe man was injured at nine last night when a motorcycle he was riding went out of control on the Jonesboro Road eight miles from Monroe.

Timothy Wheat of Route three, Box 246, West Monroe, said

Writer Has Close Brush With Death

did pick up the finer points of the sport. The specks were doing pretty good out on Cheniere Friday afternoon and I stayed out in the brush and woods of the lake until dark. Had my bearings and started back to the boat dock when it happened.

As a further preface, it would be good to say that while fishing for white perch and specks, I sat in the front seat of a square-bow boat and pull with a short paddle.

Headed For Dock

After completing the afternoon's fishing, I headed back for the dock. In this type of paddling, you can gain more speed by sitting on one corner of the bow - something I have been doing all my life. But, that is exactly what almost cost my life.

In the darkness, the boat struck a partially submerged snag and the impact threw me off balance. Instinctively, I grabbed for the opposite side of the boat to steady myself. However, the off-balance momentum was too great and I plunged backwards into the dark water, still grasping the far side of the boat.

This pulled the boat bottom-side-up on me. Fully clothed, I shot straight to the water which was about 12 feet deep at that point. Fortunately, I had long ago adopted the habit of untying my shoe laces before going into a boat. While sinking, I kicked off the shoes, and after striking the muddy bottom, leaped upward. It was a struggle to reach the surface, but I made it and started looking around for the boat or something to hang on to. It was so dark, and I had spun around under the water, and couldn't locate the boat. But, there was this sapling in the dim distance, and I headed for it. My wet clothing showed me I couldn't make the 150 feet or more, so I took a big breath of air, went under again, and shook off the trousers - bilfold and everything in the pockets.

This enabled me to "dog-paddle" to the sapling which wasn't any too close to suit me. The effort was exhausting. After resting a moment, I started exploring with my feet and they touched a sunken log. It was slippery and slanting, but it was a footrest, and by maintaining a strong hold on the young tree, I could maintain my balance.

Water Warm The water was warm, thank goodness, but it came up to my shoulders, and the gentle waves would lap into my face. After regaining my breath and strength, I started yelling for help. But, nobody answered.

Although exhausted, I knew I had to stay awake, for when I would doze for a moment my face would drop into the water. I found that yelling every three to five minutes helped me stay awake. I could hear automobiles in the far distance, but the atmosphere being as it was Friday night, it was difficult to determine the exact location of the road.

I figured that since I had something to hold on to, I had better just stay there until daylight. Anyway, I had something to stand on.

It wasn't long before the cold started seeping into my body and the shivers started. I tried singing, and naturally, made up for whatever shortage of praying I may have been guilty of.

One of the most nerve-shattering phases of the experience occurred when I looked up - it must have been around 1 or 1:30 a.m., and saw two brilliant gleams circling above me. They appeared to be about tree-top level, but would swoop downward.

At first, I thought I was going out of my head, but I started shouting and splashing water, and the two gleams sped away a short distance, then, then would return.

It was an eerie sensation and didn't help my peace of mind in the least. Still haven't figured out what it was.

The long, long night soon eased into a faint gray dawn, and I spotted one corner of my boat which had drifted into the thickets about a hundred yards away. It was upside down, but it looked good to me, even at that distance. It was open water to the thickets, but the old Kentucky "mud-paddle" got me there, and I felt like I would make it then.

That was before I started trying to right the boat - a metal craft with air chambers under the seats.

Looked over during the effort and those little lights were heading my way again.

Just couldn't figure how I warranted one halo, much less two. The job of uprighing the boat

In her lifetime she certainly did all that she could for the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ.

May was ticketed on a charge of reckless driving. A fire plug owned by the city of West Monroe was damaged in the collision. Both vehicles were towed away.

was too much at the time, so I crawled onto the bottom and started paddling. Couldn't make any progress that way, so got a good hold on a small tree and worked the boat back onto its bottom. Naturally, it was filled with water, and there was nothing with which to bail it out except my two hands. Couldn't sit on the seats because of the uncertain balance of the boat filled with water, so sat on the floor and hand bailed.

I don't know where the paddle went, but I couldn't find it anywhere, but did find a middle sized dead limb which I broke off, hoping it would reach bottom, but it was too short. It was paddle with the pole or just sit there.

By that time, I didn't know north from south and vice versa, although the sun was coming up.

Cars started humming in the distance again and I struck out in what I thought was the direction of the sound.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning when I spotted a boat dock on Cheniere Dam Road, and during all those hours, I had not seen a person.

There were a number of people around the dock and there I was in nothing by my shorts and shirt, but I pulled up to the land.

Just about that time, two deputies from the office of Sheriff Bailey Grant drove up, looked me over and said that there was a report out on me.

They told me that the dragging crew was just about ready to start out to start searching for my body, but we all agreed that although I was just about ready for the undertaker, I thought we'd better put it off for that day at least.

The officers took me back to the boat dock where I had taken out from Friday afternoon and they were mightily relieved to see me alive.

So were my almost frantic wife and 11-year-old son.

I don't know what the moral to this experience is, and I'm not setting myself up to tell anyone else how to save their lives after this, but Little Danny chastised me, rather effectively when he said, "Paw, you know better than to turn over a boat like that!"

The folks at the office seemed relieved to see me still alive, but, after all, it did wreck a good story.

Enter Our Sizzler Contest Now

Cold cash in high temperatures... that's the theme of the Monroe Building & Loan Association's Sizzler Contest. When the temperature first hits 101 degrees above zero this summer—as shown by our Time and Temperature sign—winning parties will receive cash prizes totaling $650.00. Anybody can win. Just pick the day, hour and minute you think 101 degrees will hit, clip the coupon below and mail or bring it to us today. Remember, if you bring your entry to us personally you may win $25.00 additional!

ENTRIES

1. Anyone can enter, except employees of the Monroe Building & Loan Association and their families. There is no fee, nothing to buy. You do not have to be doing business with us to enter or win.
2. All entries must come in to us on a coupon, as shown below, or in case we sent you a notice of this contest in the mail—fill out the card and mail to us at your very earliest convenience.
3. You may enter as many times as you wish, but each estimate must be on a separate coupon or postcard.
4. All entries must be received at the Monroe Building & Loan Association, and stamped in by one of our employees at least twenty-four hours prior to the time estimated for the first 101 degrees.
5. In the event of a tie, the first prize will go to the entry received earliest.
6. The Monroe Building & Loan Association is not responsible for entries which are lost in the mails or misplaced.

JUDGING

1. Official source for the minute when the Temperature first reaches 101 degrees in Monroe for purposes of the SIZZLER will be the Time/Temperature clock on the front of our building at 106 St. John Street.
2. The clock has been wired to stop when the Temperature reaches 101 degrees on the clock's Thermometers which is high above the roof of our building. The clock will continue to flash the minute the 101 degrees was attained, until Monroe Building & Loan Association officials have it recalibrated.
3. Judges will be the officials of the Monroe Building & Loan Association.
4. The contest will close when the Temperature reaches 101 degrees, as certified by the judges. If the SIZZLER Temperature does not reach 101 degrees before Labor Day the contest will end on Labor Day, and the prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest temperature reached, based on weather bureau records.

WIFE'S DEATH

Dead Blacksmith Figured In Trial

BRADY, Tex. (AP) — A blacksmith shot from his horse and killed in a dispute over race horses Saturday was identified by his brothers as a principal in a sensational Nebraska death in 1953.

The victim was Joe Kuykendall, a tall, dark, half-Indian acquitted in 1954 of slaying his much-married wife, heiress to a 26-million-dollar trust fund.

Kuykendall died Thursday with 13 gunshot wounds at the hands of Jesse Harris Jr., who said he shot after fearing for his life.

The quiet-spoken Harris, dressed in blue jeans and a green sports shirt, walked out of jail Saturday under $5,000 bond put up by home town friends in Shreveport, La. He was met by his mother and his father, who is a Shreveport railroader.

But in this west central Texas town, the freeing of Harris was noted less than the positive identification of the blacksmith as the center of the Omaha, Neb., trial which began in 1953 and ended in 1954.

Kuykendall became the eighth husband of 30-year-old Ardath (Norie) Kuykendall after meeting her while training horses for the heiress' mother, Mrs. Jack McKinley, wife of a Dragoon, Ariz., rancher.

While at the races in Omaha, in 1953, Norie was found dead in the couple's luxurious house trailer. Death was caused by a skull fracture and brain hemorrhages.

Kuykendall said he could remember nothing from the time he poured a cup of coffee the afternoon his wife died until four days later when he found himself in jail.

In 1954 he was acquitted. The defense sought to show Norie could have been injured in a fall. It also built up in detail a story of excessive drinking and use of barbiturates and narcotics.

The Kuykendalls went to Omaha because Kuykendall had been barred for a time from Ruidoso Downs, N.M., on complaints of doping a horse. He later was reinstated but too late to reserve stalls for his horses.

Harris, looking younger than his 32 years, headed back to his Shreveport home after making arrangements for the race horse string he had here.

The body was claimed by his brothers, Marlin of Phoenix, Ariz., and Bill of Big Springs, Tex. Also claiming the body was Kuykendall's wife, Mrs. Jeanne Kuykendall of Abilene, Tex.

Apparently a compromise was reached. The funeral will be held at Big Spring with burial at Plainview, Tex. The day of the services was not set immediately.

Kuykendall was shot out of his saddle. Harris said he acted because Kuykendall "had a horse-shoe rasp drawn back to hit me when I started shooting."

The victim was shot 13 times from a nine-shot, .22 caliber target pistol. Harris apparently reloaded the weapon after emptying it.

Harris appeared outwardly calm at the examining trial before Justice of the Peace Joe Myrick Saturday. The bond was set by Myrick after Dist. Atty. David Morris asked bond ranging from $2,000 to $5,000.

The examining trial consisted mainly of entering a statement Harris made officers.

Kuykendall, said Harris, owed Harris $50 on a horse trade and became angry when he asked for it. He said the big man "jumped me, and some people pulled him off. He told me he was going to run me down with the horse."

It was then that Harris got his pistol, and said he fired when Kuykendall came at him with the rasp.

OUTLAW TRY

SEOUL (UPI)—The Republic of Korea's Home Ministry is trying to outlaw drinking and smoking for all persons under 20 years of age in an effort to maintain stricter discipline among the nation's youths. A draft bill is now before the National Assembly that would subject violators of the ban to a fine of 50 to 500 Korean won (10 cents to $1 at the official rate of exchange).

Call On U.S. For Action In Lebanon

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Southern Federation of Syrian-American Clubs Saturday called upon the United States and United Nations to take whatever action is necessary to guarantee the national independence and integrity of the republic of Lebanon.

The resolution, drafted by Judge Kaliste J. Saloom Jr. of Lafayette, La., also called on the people of Lebanon to halt hostilities and restore peaceful democratic life so as to resume constitutional government and proceed with legal elections.

Copies of the resolution are to be sent to President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles, the UN, President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon, Pope Plus and religious leaders of Lebanon.

The federation, in general assembly, reelected Joseph H. Campbell of Shreveport, La., as president and chose Richard J. Ashy Jr., of Lafayette, La., vice president.

Those named to the executive board included Leo Todaro, Biloxi, Miss.; Mrs. T. J. Stoma, New Orleans; Mrs. Gabe Mitchell, Jackson, Miss.; and Nesib Nader, Shreveport, La.

The assembly will end Sunday. The 1959 convention will be held at Houston, Tex., and the mid-winter conference at Biloxi, Miss.

Airways Dispute Settled

DALLAS (AP) — A long dispute between Braniff International Airways and 2,300 clerical and passenger service employees was settled Saturday with pay raises that range from $35 to $50 a month over a two-year period.

The contract, agreed to after the second all-night session of a week of meetings with chairman Everett Edwards of the National Mediation Board, is retroactive to Dec. 1.

Edwards said the 62-page agreement covers some 30 to 40 job classifications, making an exact breakdown on new wage structures difficult. He said the first raise would be retroactive to last Dec. 1; the second will come next Jan. 1; and the third Dec. 31, 1959.

Raises for the first year will range from $15 to $25 a month per employee, and in the second year from $20 to $25 a month per employee, he said.

Negotiators for the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and the company had no comment.

Edwards, called it in a last minute to avert a threatened strike, termed the final agreement "most satisfactory to both parties," however.

He said the new contract also provides for a three-week vacation for 12-year employees, and includes changes in rules and working conditions.

Witness On Adams Issue Is Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo) said Saturday he understands House investigators know of another witness to controversial remarks about Sherman Adams that have been attributed to Bernard Goldfine.

Moulder spoke as a member of the subcommittee which is investigating whether Goldfine, a Boston industrialist, got favored federal treatment through his friend Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide.

Moulder spoke particularly of a May 10, 1955, incident at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel in Washington in reporting another ear-witness to a remark alleged to have been made by Goldfine in the presence of Adams, Goldfine's son Horace and John Fox, a business associate who later split with Goldfine, quoted Goldfine as having said that Adams never lets his friends down and wasn't letting Goldfine down that time. Goldfine had troubles then with the Federal Trade Commission.

Adams denied at the White House ever having made such a statement or hearing Goldfine make it. Goldfine's lawyers say both Goldfines deny the statement was ever made.

Goldfine gave a blanket denial of Fox's statements last week but was not quizzed on this specific point. He returns for more questioning under oath Tuesday.

Moulder said information about persons who could corroborate various statements by Fox was given by Fox himself in a document submitted while he was on the witness stand last Monday. The congressman mentioned no names.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) read part of the written statement submitted by Fox at the time, then barred Fox from reading it into the public record.

Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill) said the investigators also know of a person who can back Fox's allegation that Goldfine said he had bought a house in Washington for Adams to live in.

Mack said this person is reluctant to testify. Mack made plain he was referring to the quotation attributed to Goldfine, not the actual existence of a Goldfine-purchased house. There has been no serious contention that Adams does not rent a house in Washington. He says he does not and never has owned a home in Washington.

Moulder formerly headed the subcommittee. He said that when he was chairman he had received some mysterious telephone calls.

This disclosure was prompted by Harris' statement of last Thursday that his telephone may have been tapped and that investigators with possibly sinister purposes have been making inquiries about him in his home district.

Moulder said among the mystery calls he got was one late at night from a "flirtatious young lady" who may have been trying to trap him into saying something indiscreet for a telephone recording.

Man Under Water For 23 Hours

HAMBURG, N. J. (AP)—Bernie Camoli was in the midst Saturday of the latest—and wettest—fad: to see how long you can stay under water.

So far Bernie, 19, of Cresskill, has been under 23 hours. He's shooting for what he says is the record of 28 hours and 58 minutes.

Bernie donned a skin diving apparatus Friday afternoon and slipped into 15-foot deep Allen's Quarry. At the 10-foot level he sat down on a submerged platform and has been there ever since.

OUTNUMBERED
FURLINGTON, Vt. — (UPI) — Vermont residents continue their battle to outnumber dairy cows in the state. The Extension Service reports the state population at 376,000 and dairy cows at 301,000, but there are 422,000 young dairy animals.

LOCK THEM IN!
STUTTGART, Germany UPI — Taxi drivers today demanded a pay - or - stay gadget to lock customers in the cab. They claim they need protection from customers who get out without paying.

VERMONT MILK
MONTPELIER, Vt. — UPI — Vermont dairymen sold 1.8 billion pounds of milk last year. The theme of the 1958 New York State Fair, to be held at Syracuse Aug. 29-Sept. 6, is "the years ahead."

435 House Seats Are At Stake

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Political party managers will give overriding attention to the 1958 campaign to 89 congressional districts which they consider the critical battlefields for control of the House in the next Congress.

All 435 House seats will be at stake, but the outcome of elections in the 89 districts will largely determine whether the Democrats retain or the Republicans regain control of the House.

These 89 are the marginal districts in which a 5 per cent shift in the vote from the 1956 results would give the House seat in each case to the other party. In congressional elections most but not all of the changes in which Democrats replace Republicans, or vice versa, occur in these "5 per cent districts."

Have Battle Ahead
Each party knows that it must fight to save its own members who were elected in the marginal districts. Generally, it also has its best chances to unseat members of the other party elected from those districts.

In contrast with Senate races, the underdog GOP has fewer vulnerable House candidates running in the marginal districts this year than the Democratic Party. Thirty-one of the Republicans elected in 1956 polled less than 5 per cent of the vote in their districts compared with 58 Democrats.

However, Democrats will expect to benefit from the normal political trend of the party in control of the White House losing congressional seats in mid-term elections when the presidency is not at stake. Since the Reconstruction years, this political pattern has prevailed in all mid-term elections except that of 1934.

Some Were Exceptions
Some of the House seats on which party labels were switched in 1956 were not among the districts listed as marginal after the 1954 elections.

In Kansas, for example, Democratic Rep. J. Floyd Breeding was elected in a district where former Republican Rep. Clifford A. Hope, who retired, had polled 64.9 per cent of the vote two years earlier.

Democratic Rep. Merwin Good was elected from an Iowa district which had voted 60.3 per cent for the Republican nominee in 1954.

In one of the most closely watched marginal district races, Gov. Joe Foss is trying to recapture the South Dakota First District for the GOP, which polled 58 per cent of the vote in 1954 but only 47.6 per cent in 1956.

Of the 89 marginal districts, 45 or roughly half are concentrated in these nine states: Illinois, Missouri and Pennsylvania, each with six; California, Kansas and New Jersey, with five apiece, and Indiana, Iowa and West Virginia, with four in each.

Georgia was the first state to require birth registration and to grant married women full property rights.

SUES FOR LAST MEAL

BATON ROUGE, La. UP—Clyde L. Middleton sued the Gail Post Restaurant for $4,700 Friday for the loss of his Christmas dinner.

He charged a rock in a plate of beans fractured his tooth, causing it to come apart Christmas eve so that he had to take "liquids such as are totally unbecoming a Christmas dinner."

Of the 71 new doctors recently graduated from the State University College of Medicine at Syracuse, N. Y., 52 per cent were married and 17 of them had children. There were two women in the class.

Princess To Visit Canada Next Saturday

LONDON (UPI)—Princess Margaret arrives in Canada next Saturday for her first official visit to America and, in her own words, "It's about time, too."

The pert little princess, in the midst of excited preparations for her month-long trans-Canada tour, made the remark to a friend in pointing out that she is the only member of her family yet to visit either Canada or the United States.

There is still much speculation in London whether Margaret will cross the border for a look at the U.S.A., something it is known she would dearly love to do.

But protocol being protocol there are complications, serious complications.

In Margaret's official itinerary, there is nothing indicated about an American visit, and even allowing for the diplomatic difficulties, this is found surprising in England.

Must Be Invited

The Princess cannot go to the United States without an official invitation. In the past, when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip and earlier the Queen Mother, announced Canadian tours, they have been promptly invited by the President to come to the United States as well. These invitations always have been warmly accepted.

Hence, London is wondering why a seemingly unusual procedure is being followed in Margaret's case, especially since she has made no secret of her own wishes in the matter. By custom, an invitation from the President would be preceded by a private inquiry as to whether an invitation would be welcomed—and in London a big question is whether President Eisenhower has, in fact, made a private feeler and been told by Queen Elizabeth that this was not the time.

Much Speculation

In some quarters it is suggested Elizabeth may fear that in the United States Margaret might run head-on into embarrassing questioning about Captain Peter Townsend, the man she renounced for church and state. Or it could be as simple a thing as a royal family belief that Washington in mid-July and August might be too hot for sightseeing and the official rounds such a visit would entail. Or, finally, that for some reason the time might be an awkward one for Mr. Eisenhower.

The whole question of whether Margaret will or won't extend her trip to the United States seems wrapped in mystery. All questions on the subject are turned away without comment.

Seven Persons Are Injured In Tex. Wreck

FORNEY, Tex. (UPI)—Seven persons were injured Saturday morning seriously when a truck stalled on a narrow bridge east of Forney causing a chain-reaction collision involving seven cars.

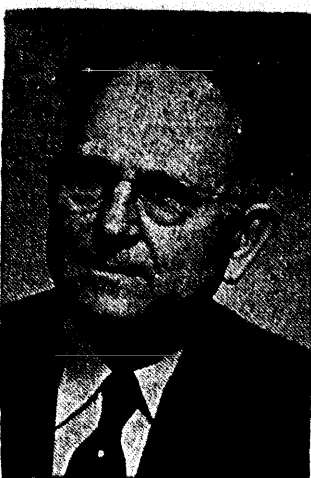

State Highway Patrolman Lonnie McIntire said the collision was touched off when the motor of a pickup truck operated by Fred Arch Greer died.

Four eastbound cars behind the pickup, unable to brake to a stop, crashed into each other.

The impact knocked one car into the left hand lane and set the stage for the collision of two oncoming cars.

McIntire said damage to the seven cars was estimated at $6,000.

Injured were Robert John Kuban of Dallas; Lonnie Rivers and Donald B. Davis, Fort Worth; Harry Allen and Charles Reed, both of Little Rock, AFB; Mary Ellen Murphy, Beaumont and Foster B. Walker, Forney.

Rural Letter Carriers Set State Meeting

The forty-second annual convention of the Louisiana Rural Letter Carriers Association to be held here July 10 through 12 is expected to attract over 500 conventioners.

The featured speaker at the gathering will be George A. Gray, first regional postoffice director ever appointed by President Eisenhower. Gray is responsible for the management of 2,400 post offices of the Dallas Postal Region.

The region comprises both Texas and Louisiana and entails direction of a vast transportation network and the many related functions of the postal service in this area.

Gray began his career in the Honey Grove Post Office, Texas as a substitute clerk in 1913 expecting to be there only temporarily. Finding the challenge of the post to his liking, he became a postal inspector.

In 1953, he was appointed Postal Inspector-in-Charge of the Fort Worth Division and two years later President Eisenhower named him the first Director of the Dallas Region. During his tenure as an inspector, Gray was assigned to special duty in Hawaii and Australia.

The convention gets under way with registration July 10 at the Virginia Hotel. The thirty-second annual convention of the Ladies Auxiliary will be held in conjunction with the letter carriers.

Death Toll In Texas Zooms Over Weekend

By United Press International Grinding collisions on jammed highways and blazing gunfire Saturday shot the state's death toll upwards as Texas celebrated an unsafe Fourth of July weekend.

A United Press International count started at 6 p. m. Thursday showed 32 persons dead, 15 of them in traffic. Murders, suicides and justifiable homicides took 10 lives. Seven persons drowned.

Barbara Grace, 14, died early Saturday in a car wreck north-east of Amarillo, and Albert Allen, 34, of Amarillo, died when a car struck his parked truck near Silverton.

Jack Allen Phillips, 18, of Fort Worth, died near Navasota when his car struck a pole.

Eluterio Ramos Guerrero, 32, of Woodsboro, drowned in the Gulf of Mexico off the public pier at Bayside.

Andrew Marker, 38, shot himself to death in San Antonio as his wife looked on, and James Lewis, 19, was stabbed to death in San Antonio.

North America has 60 per cent of all the world's telephones. Europe has 30 per cent and the remaining 10 per cent serve the rest of the world.

FOR RACKETS PROBE

Senate Agents Seek Witnesses

By G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP)—Agents of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee are combing Chicago's underworld for clues to the whereabouts of some men the group wants as witnesses.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said Saturday the committee plans to expose at two weeks of hearings starting here Tuesday what he termed an almost unbreakable grip held by mobsters on the Chicago restaurant industry.

McClellan said that with or without the missing witnesses the hearings will "present a revealing picture of the extent to which racketeers were able to control and operate this industry through fear, intimidation, and shake-downs."

Witnesses already subpoenaed to testify include Tony Accardo and Paul (The Water) Ricca of the old Capone gang.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, described the missing witnesses as lower echelon hoodlums. He named them as Sam Giancana, who also calls himself Tom Mooney; Gus Alexa, Joey Aiuppa, and Sam Battaglia. He said they are being sought by committee agents.

Kennedy said the witnesses will include Gustav Allgauer, whose restaurant was invaded by gunmen who put it to the torch on May 13. That was two days after Kennedy's investigators had talked to Allgauer. The loss to his restaurant was estimated at something like $750,000.

Kennedy has called this a clear attempt to prevent Allgauer and other witnesses from talking to the investigators but has declined to say whether he thought it might succeed.

20 Killed In Bus Accident

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI)—Twenty Yugoslav travelers were killed Friday night when a tourist bus smashed through a row of trees on a mountain road and plunged into a ravine 1,000 feet below.

The bus, en route from Pec to Andrejevica, near the Albanian border, carried no foreign passengers.

Reports reaching Belgrade said "many" of the estimated 40 injured were in critical condition and were not expected to survive.

A University of Illinois plant pathologist warns that treated seed oats left over from spring planting shouldn't be sold as market grain or fed to livestock. He explains that mercury used in the two compounds for treating oats makes such grain dangerous for livestock and human use.

Baby Show Is Held At Local Playgrounds

A baby show contest sparked the fourth week of the Monroe Recreation Department playgrounds. Attendance was listed as 3,312 children. The playgrounds are open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

According to the recreation department, Lexington School led the playgrounds with a total attendance of 404 children. Plum Street was a close second with 402 reported. Other schools and attendance were Georgia Tucker, 222; Barkdull Faulk, 358; Sherrouse, 344; George Breece, 197; Lida Benton, 230; Clarks, 211; Carroll, 278; Booker T., 277; and Carver Housing, 389.

Baby contest winners at the various playgrounds were: George Breece: Kyle Scott, J. D. LaDart, Chyrle Bass, Martha Roy, Charles Holly, Linda Holly, Kathleen Roy, Virginia Rizzo, Dorothy Conley, Linda Martin, Sandra Smith and Georgia Wallace.

Barkdull Faulk: Carolyn Boatright, Deanne Breedlove, George Berry, Frank Ferguson, Dianne Ticheli and Elizabeth Masters. Plum St.: Andrea Craven, Gay Warlick, Kay Warlick, Carol Holdsworth, Linda Willard, Kitty Shambro and Jo Ann Shambro.

Lida Benton: Dianne Perry, Patricia Doyle, Bruce Smith, Arthur Houston, James Ticheli, Bessie Sims, Rhonda Kapples, Georgia Tucker: Melissa Quillen, Lewis Frizell, Marvin Quillen, True Guerriero, Evelyn Baum, Dane Mingledorf, Deborah Hadad and Hilton Frizell.

Lexington: Elaine Henry, Lisa Halpin, Paula Zagone, Jan Taylor, Alicia Hyatt, Sharon Higgenbotham, Jan Ussery, Debbie Ussery and Kitty Bright. Lexington also had the children dressed up like "Mothers" and they brought their dolls dressed as babies. Winners for this event were: Beachey Semmes, Carolyn Garrett, Delores Schneider, Lin Garrett, Joy Hunter, Jan Grubbs, Diane Tonlinson, Gail Noland, Melona Robinson, Patricia Miller, Kathleen W'ly, Sally Higgenbotham, Randy Herrell, Shirley Medlax, Ann Portman, Joey Trichel and Kitty Bright.

Carroll High: Ike Watson, Wilbert Turner, Curtis Kindie, T. L. Lawson, Thelma Philtray, Geneva George, Ike Watson, Molly West-on, Bernice Turner and Essie Wallace.

Carver Housing: Dennis Decatur, Alvin Ballard, Pat Thomas, Julia Hill, Helen Decater, Jackie Johnson, Willie Ballard and Willie James.

J. S. Clark: Clote Buford, Troy Bealin, Fred Moore, Freddie Robinson, Turner Saulsberry and Vernon Hinkle.

This coming week all playgrounds will have a hobo party and horse shoe tournament. Parents are urged to send their children to the nearest playground.

Since 1820, New York has been the most populous state in the union. According to the 1950 census, 14,830,192 people lived in the state.

Accident Toll Is Listed In Mississippi

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of an elderly Laurel man, who was struck and killed by a train, and a Negro youth's drowning near Greenwood raised Mississippi's holiday accident toll to four Saturday.

The figure was well below the 18-violent deaths predicted for the Fourth of July weekend by the Mississippi Safety Council. Both the council and the Highway Patrol predicted 11 traffic deaths for the weekend, but only two have been recorded.

Police identified the Laurel train victim as Early Porter of ficers said he apparently fell asleep on the train tracks and was struck by the Gulf. Mobile and Ohio train Friday night. Eddie Pittman, 21-year-old Negro from Chicago, drowned in the Tallahatchie River near Money while swimming with his brother and friends. Sheriff Charles Lee said Pittman apparently ventured too far out into the river and was unable to return to shore. The body was not recovered because of the river's depth and swift current.

Charles Frank Smith, 25-year-old Kosciusko man, was killed and three others injured in a two-automobile collision north of Vaiden early Saturday.

The Highway Patrol said Smith was dead on arrival at a hospital. The injured were identified as Virginia Baily and Marvin Sharkey, both of Kosciusko and passengers in Smith's car, and Robert Pylon, 25, of Winona, driver of the other automobile.

Mrs. Versie Montgomery of Wesson was killed Friday in a car-truck collision in Brookhaven.

PEOPLE'S HOMESTEAD RESOURCES HAVE MORE THAN DOUBLED IN FOUR YEARS

Our Statement of Condition for June 30, 1954 showed resources of $8,941,476.23. It is with considerable pride that we present this semi-annual statement which indicates that we have more than doubled that figure in only four years. Our mission as a savings and loan institution is two-fold. First, to receive your savings and surplus funds, and give you a fair return in dividend earnings. For more than 21 consecutive years we have paid 4% dividends. We accomplish the other part of our mission when we invest your money wisely in safe, sound first mortgage loans to make home ownership easier for families of Ouachita Parish. We appreciate the confidence placed in us by savers and homeowners alike, thus helping us to enjoy the tremendous growth reflected in the statement below.

LEGISLATURE

Rep. Cole Hits PAR Suggestion

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Sen. F. E. Cole today challenged the Public Affairs Research Council for suggesting his bill may cause educators to tap school funds in order to maintain teachers' salaries.

The House passed his Senate bill earlier this week despite anti-tax warnings it would cause the special legislative session Gov. Earl Long wants.

Cole, Senate education chairman, nevertheless won strong House support for his proposal authorizing school boards to continue teachers and school bus drivers at present pay until the money runs short.

The bill is on the governor's desk, one of the top administration efforts of the 1958 session.

PAR, playing a key role in bringing information about state finances before the public, said the Cole bill might be interpreted to permit use of school lunch funds for payment of all school employees' salaries.

"Since all state laws in conflict with the bill would be repealed," PAR commented, "there is a question whether the school boards also would be required to use state and local school lunch funds to pay all school employees' salaries."

The senator from Many said: "I take issue with PAR that any specific appropriation like the school lunch program could be effected in any way by my bill."

"Bringing up a far-fetched idea like that," he added, "makes me speculate on the accuracy of the remainder of PAR's findings."

"Operational costs of schools are largely borne by local taxation which is not affected by this legislation," Cole said. He is an administration supporter.

The multi-million-dollar school lunch provision is a part of the 384-million-dollar general appropriations bill.

In recent, hard fighting weeks, Cole said, "the tempo of modern-day living and the worry and tension it often breeds. Under these conditions you may not eat right, become irregular simply due to lack of food."

A daily half-cup of good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran with milk provides this vital bulk . . . ends irregularity from this cause the safe, natural way.

So to prevent or break the laxative drug habit and to enjoy that regular feeling—try Kellogg's All-Bran with milk.

Most Grains Are Low For Past Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures prices were on their usual harvest-time slide this week, but with the brakes on, while most other grains had their strong moments before finally finishing lower.

Three of the wheat contracts hit new low prices for the season while as many oats deliveries hit new highs.

The wheat declines were steady except for an intermission on Tuesday when the strike of grain handlers against all but one of Kansas City's elevators brought out a good volume of short-covering and prices moved up about a cent a bushel.

The strike disclosed that much of the supply going into Kansas City was of high moisture content and some dealers said it could spoil in 10 days or so unless properly handled.

With railroad yards clogged by thousands of carloads of grain there, an embargo on further shipments into Kansas City was declared.

Wheat closed the week 1 1/4-4 1/2 cents a bushel lower, July $1.81-81 1/4; corn 1/4-1 1/4 lower, July $1.32 1/4-1 1/4; oats 1/4-1 cent higher, July 64 1/4; rye 1/2-2 1/2 lower, July $1.24 1/4-1 1/4; soybeans unchanged to 1/2 lower, July $2.24 1/4-3/4; hard 13 cents a hundred pounds higher to 15 cents lower, July $12.30.

Corn came under profit-taking with more liberal cash receipts this week and indications that much of the supply still on farms now will begin moving to market.

Soybeans withstood some of the weight of a big volume of government sales of surplus stocks on an improved market for soybean oil and meal.

The new export subsidy program for oats and rye which became effective on Tuesday may have imparted some help to those grains although both came under profit-taking from time to time.

War Trumpets Are Sounded At La. Meet

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — States Righters, angered at legislative rejection of a bid for voting privileges in Democratic primaries, sounded war trumpets today.

Robert G. Chandler, chairman of the third party state executive committee, called a special meeting Tuesday and said officials would forcefully recommend "entry of local candidates where the Democrats are weakest."

The States Righters sponsored legislation this session to open Democratic primary elections. They argued it would allow them to vote for local candidates, but still let them vote the States Rights ticket nationally. There were two bills. The house passed one, but the senate killed both.

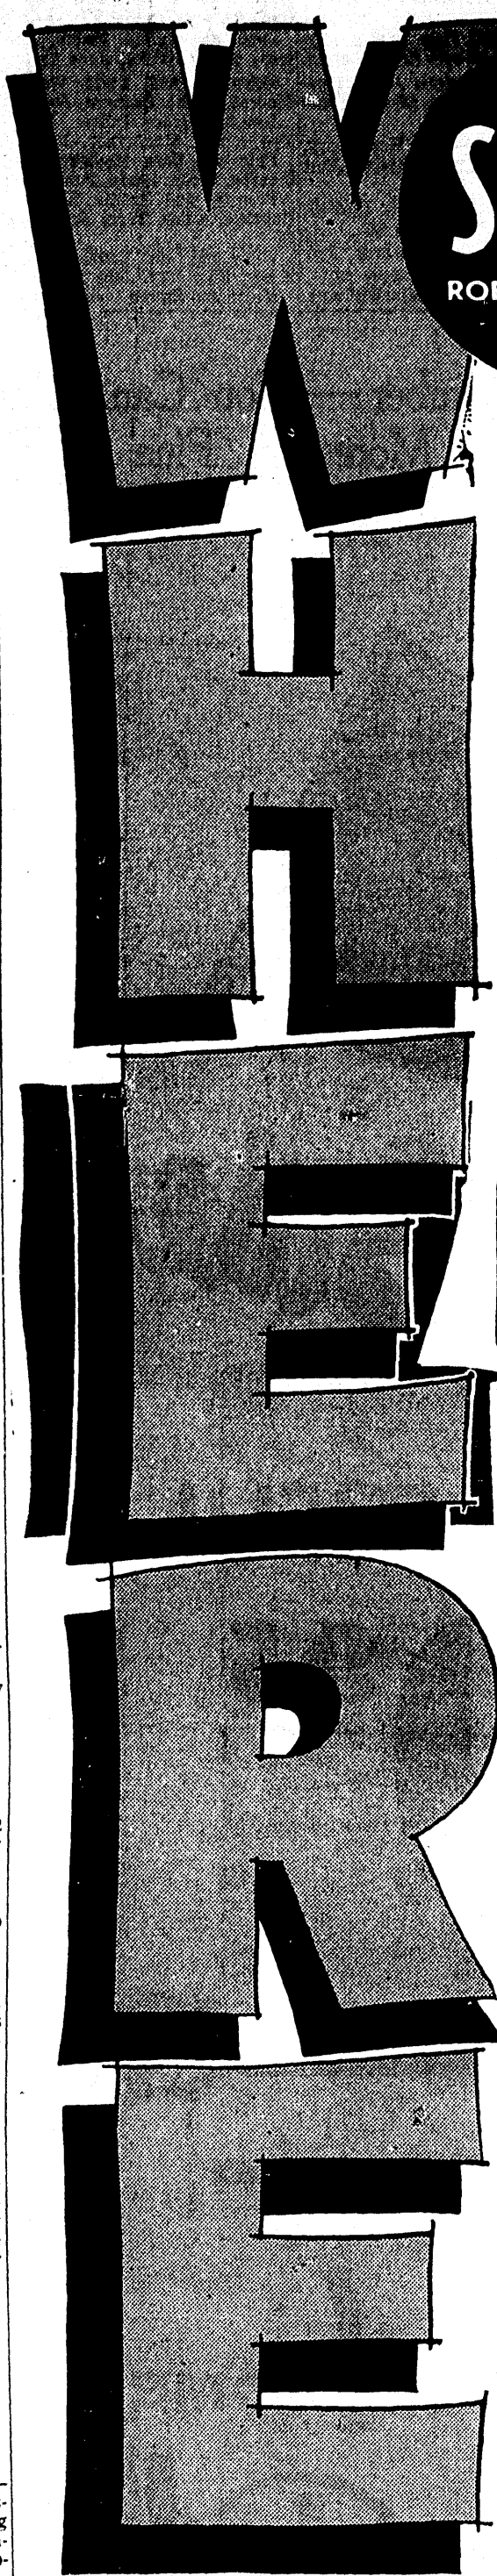

"We have nothing to hope for from the Democrats," Chandler said. He said the party would recommend entry of candidates for state, district, parish and city offices "whenever such posts are open for election."

"We will recommend that the Democrats be met at the polls wherever they are weakest," Chandler said. "We will urge that our people bring out our opposition at the polls to interests in the house and senate inimical to our own."

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Four of the sharpest young golfers of Monroe and West Monroe will participate this week in the state championship Jaycee Junior golf tournament at New Orleans, beginning Tuesday and running through Thursday.

Clayton Cole, No. 2 player in the district tournament here and son of Bayou DeSiard Country Club pro Winnie Cole, earned a chance in the state meet but has to pass it up. He can't get off from his summer school work.

But that's okay with Gene Adams Jr., the West Monroe youngster who ran fifth in the district and apparently just missed out on the New Orleans trip. Now Gene finds himself back in the picture as Clay's replacement.

Joe Thomas leads the New Orleans invasion as the district champ. Steve Henry, who was No. 3 in the district meet, actually takes over Cole's No. 2 spot, and Jim Harper, fourth in the district, moves up a notch and lets Adams into the No. 4 spot for the state tournament. They'll be facing some mighty good competition and may advance no further, but its such experience as this that builds future golf champions. Recent area graduates include Roy Nash, state amateur champion and Louisiana Tech golf captain; Jackie Rivers, classy L.S.U. golfer; Eddie Watkins, the former West Monroe state high school champ; and Bastrop's Don Sims who had his golf career spike for a while because of a traffic accident.

This Jaycee-sponsored golf program is complimentary to the American Legion's Junior baseball program, and right now Louisiana's Fifth District ace is drawing toward a close with Ruston, Columbia, and Monroe driving hard toward the league leadership with West Monroe and Farmerville pressing for the No. 4 spot in the district title playoffs.

The district junior baseball schedule is due to close next Friday. The playoffs will follow for the four leading teams after closing games Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

On the face of current standing, West Monroe appears to have the toughest road to travel. West Monroe must play the three leading clubs in the stretch drive—Columbia, Ruston, and Monroe. Farmerville, tied with West Monroe for the No. 4 slot, plays Bastrop, Rayville, and Ruston. Rayville, like Delhi, is out of the race, and one more loss would ruin Bastrop's slim chances.

A win over West Monroe could just about clinch first place for a Columbia team that would finish against Rayville and Delhi. Monroe, expecting a tough battle from West Monroe on Wednesday, must yet play Delhi and Bastrop.

Ruston plays West Monroe, Farmerville, and Bastrop; Bastrop draws Monroe, Ruston, and Farmerville; Delhi has Columbia, Rayville, and Monroe; Rayville takes on Farmerville, Delhi, and Columbia.

Monroe won the district and state title a year ago. The chances to repeat are considered shaky.

The West Monroe Athletic Club, operating out of Joe's Gym with A.A.U. membership, is needing more talent to round out a well balanced boxing team, and Joe Knighten, owner of the gymnasium on Jewell Street near the paper mill, is extending an invitation to any young men interested in boxing.

"We need more of the heavier boys in the middle, light-heavy and heavy-weight classes." Knighten revealed yesterday as he announced plans for a card next Saturday at Winnfield. "We could use some flyweights and bantams also. We look all right with feather, lightweight, and welter, but we would welcome any good boys in any classes."

"We want those Monroe boys to know they can join our club also," Knighten said. "We believe there are a lot of good athletes in Monroe who would like to box for training as my gym facilities are free to all interested and we're inviting them to join us. There is no charge of boys from 16 to 24 years of age who want to work with us. Their only requirement will be that they join the A.A.U. in order to appear on a fight program once we feel they are ready after sufficient training."

Pierce Hurls 8-1 Win Over Tigers

CHICAGO (AP)—Southpaw Bill Pierce settled down after a shaky first inning Saturday night and hurled the Chicago White Sox to an 8-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers before a crowd of 23,025.

Fine defensive work by the Sox in the first inning helped Pierce get out of a jam with only one Detroit run scoring. However, the stylish southpaw regained his form and cruised to his eighth victory and 10th complete game.

Jim Landis, continuing the hot pace he has set since the first of June, drove in three Chicago runs with a pair of singles. Landis capped a three-run rally in the second with a bases-loaded single and then singled home the first of two runs in the seventh which clinched the issue.

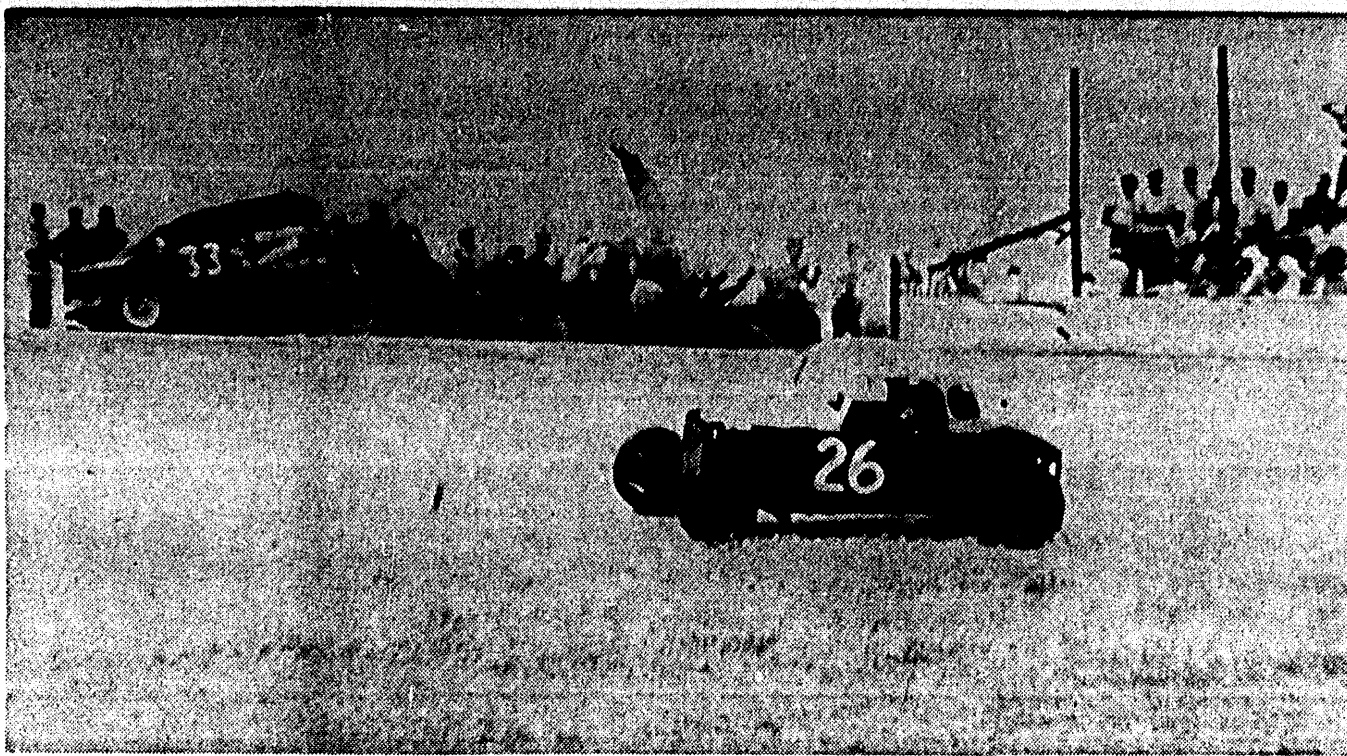

The Sox scored three more in the eighth on Nellie Fox's two-run triple and a wild pitch by reliever Billy Hoef.

Harvey Kuenn opened the game with a single to center and was forced at second when first base-

American League Stars Are Tuesday's Favorites

BALTIMORE (AP) — Casey Stengel's American League squad, loaded with nine New York Yankees is favored over the strong National League team in the 25th All-Star Game to be played Tuesday at Memorial Stadium.

Except for an occasional fleeting glimpse on television, National League players are strangers in Baltimore which has been back in the majors for only five years and never has seen an All-Star or World Series game.

Playing in friendly surroundings in a familiar park as the home club, the Americans have been made a 13-10 man-to-man choice.

The National, however, has won six of the last eight games, whittling the American's series margin to 14-10.

They used to call the All-Star Game Stengel's jinx for he had won only once in six attempts until last year. The 1957 game at St. Louis went to the Americans 6-5 with each team scoring three times in a wild ninth inning.

The silver anniversary game is sure to draw a capacity crowd of about 47,000 with 60 per cent of the gate receipts and 60 per cent of the radio-television money going to the player pension fund.

The game will be beamed on network, NBC, radio and TV across the nation as part of the five-year contract by which baseball gets $3,250,000 per year for the All-Star and World Series rights.

Game time is 11 a.m. C.S.T. with a series of alternate starting times in the event of a postponement. If it should be rained out Tuesday afternoon they would play Tuesday night 8 p.m. C.S.T. If it rained again, the game could be played Wednesday morning or afternoon.

Everybody expects Manager Fred Haney of Milwaukee and Stengel of the Yankees to go with base after giving up three runs, three hits and a walk. The loss was his seventh in 12 decisions.

Vernon's sixth homer of the season came with Bob Avila on first with a leadoff walk. A double by Doby and a single by J. W. Porter produced another run and two were out and that was all for Terry, who was replaced by Ray Herbert.

Colavito greeted Herbert with a double, Porter stopping at third. Porter and Colavito scored when first baseman Preston Ward fumbled Billy Hunter's grounder and then threw wild to Herbert covering first. Hunter was out trying to take second.

The Athletics scored in the fourth when Roger Maris beat out a hunt to third base, went to second on an infield out and came home on a single by Hector Lopez.

Singles by Doby, Minnie Minoso and Porter produced another Cleveland run in the fifth.

Doby's homer in the seventh was his fifth. Colavito's blast in the eighth was his 13th.

Kansas City scored in the ninth on singles by Maris, Harry Simpson and Frank House.

Vernon Stars As Indians Top A's

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mickey Vernon hit a two-run homer to spark a five-run first inning rally by the Cleveland Indians as the Tribe beat the Kansas City Athletics, 8-2, Saturday night in the opener of a two-game series.

Larry Doby and Rocky Colavito also hit homers for the Indians with the bases empty.

Right-hander Ray Narleski gave up seven scattered hits and struck out five in winning his 10th game against five losses.

Ralph Terry, a 22-year-old right-hander started for Kansas City, but was lifted in the first with two out and a man on first.

Jones, Watkins Lead With 73s In Kraft Golf Tourney

Ex-champion Bill Jones and former state high school titlist Eddie Watkins Jr. shot one-over par 73s for the first round lead in the 24th annual Kraft Paper Golf Tournament at Bastrop's Morehouse Country Club yesterday.

Bastrop's Don Sims, a member of the LSU golf team, and New Orleans' Bill Dodson followed the leaders into today's final 36 holes with 74s while defending champion Jackie Rivers of Monroe was tied with three others at 75. Tied with Rivers were Bert Burdick, Butch Baird and Irving King Jr.

Jones, a Monroe golfer, won the Kraft crown in 1950. Watkins won the state prep title in 1955 while playing for West Monroe High School.

Tough greens kept scores rather high with Tommy Woulf, who shot a 67 for medalist honors Friday, soaring to 82, 10 over par. Behind the four tied at 75 each

Fine defensive work by the Sox in the first inning helped Pierce get out of a jam with only one Detroit run scoring. However, the stylish southpaw regained his form and cruised to his eighth victory and 10th complete game.

Jim Landis, continuing the hot pace he has set since the first of June, drove in three Chicago runs with a pair of singles. Landis capped a three-run rally in the second with a bases-loaded single and then singled home the first of two runs in the seventh which clinched the issue.

The Sox scored three more in the eighth on Nellie Fox's two-run triple and a wild pitch by reliever Billy Hoef.

Four Local Boys In Jaycee Meet

Four young local golfers, led by local champion Joe Thomas, will compete in the Louisiana Jaycee Junior Amateur Golf Tournament at New Orleans' Audubon Park course next Tuesday through Thursday.

In addition to Thomas, Steve Henry, Jim Harper, and Gene Adams will participate in the state tournament. Runner-up Clayton Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winnie Cole of 1700 Emerson, will be unable to attend the tourney and will be replaced by Adams.

Thomas, son of Mrs. Alta Thomas of 2206 North 10th, won the local Jaycee title with a 155 total over 36 holes. Cole was second and Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Henry of 2301 Jasmine, was third. Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Harper of Point Drive, was fourth and Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Adams of 211 Mallard Drive in West Monroe.

Gene Ridings, chairman of the local tournament, will accompany the boys to New Orleans.

The Junior Golf program, as conducted by Junior Chambers throughout the country, is considered "The Nations Number One Junior Golf Event." Last year over 35,000 teen-agers representing over 1,100 communities took part.

The top four contestants at the New Orleans State Tournament will join other contestants from the 48 states, Washington, D. C., Hawaii, Canada and the Canal Zone for the International Jaycee Jr. Golf Tournament in Tucson, Arizona on August 18th. The International Finals are scheduled to be played on the famous El Rio Golf Course, at Tucson.

State Junior Golf Champions will receive trophies presented by Louisiana Coca-Cola Bottling Company of New Orleans. Co-sponsors are The Athletic Institute, The National Golf Foundation, and the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Housing for the contestants will be in the dorms of the Tulane University. A banquet will be given for all the contestants on July 8, 1958, at Jimmy Merrad's Restaurant.

Shoemaker Rides Shoe For Victory

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The Shoe and Jockey Willie Shoemaker teamed up Saturday to win the $37,200 Cinema Handicap and pose a threat for the approaching $100,000-added Westerner for 3-year-olds at Hollywood Park.

Leaving the favored Hillsdale to run out of the money in a disappointing race, The Shoe, who was named for his rider, beat out Strong Bay and El Cajon in a tight photo-finish.

The Shoe paid $4.80, $3.30 and $3.10; Strong Bay $7.90 and $4.80, and El Cajon $4.90.

The time for the mile and one-eighth feature, raced before 48,000 fans, was 1:49.3.

Carrying 117 pounds, to 125 for Hillsdale, The Shoe took the lead from Aliwar at the far turn, then beat back a challenge by Hillsdale, and battled on down the stretch to win the $20,900 winner's share.

It was The Shoe's first stakes victory but no great surprise to his owner, Rex C. Ellsworth, and trainer Miah Tenney.

The Shoe was the second betting choice to Hillsdale, C. W. Smith's Indiana colt who was seeking his third stakes triumph of the meeting.

Coloneast First In King Philip

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — For the second successive day at Narragansett Park a long shot, K. D. Smith's Coloneast, Saturday won the feature. The 4-year-old Colony Bay colt scored by half a length in the $16,500 King Philip handicap at 29-1.

CURFEW HALTS PLAY

Yanks, Red Sox Deadlock In 10

NEW YORK (AP)—The Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees played to a 3-3 tie Saturday night when the 11:59 p.m. Saturday night curfew rule halted play in the top of the 11th inning after the Sox had scored two runs which were nullified by the curfew.

Under American League rules the score reverted back to the previous full inning and goes in the books as a tie game. All performances through the 10 innings count in the records. The game will be replayed at a later date.

Mickey Mantle sent the game into extra innings when he led off the Yankees' half of the ninth with his 20th home run. Until then Boston's Dave Sisler had yielded only one hit—a seventh inning single by Jerry Lumpe—after the second inning.

The Sox picked up their two 11th inning runs off Zack Monroe and Tom Surdiant as Manager Casey Stengel called on seven pitchers. There were two out and one strike and two balls on Gene Stephens when the curfew bell rang.

It was the first time in American League history that a night game at Yankee Stadium was halted by the curfew. American League rules do not provide for suspended games.

NEW YORK (AP)—Idun, the 1957 champion 2-year-old filly, scampered to an easy three-length victory Saturday in the $28,800 Mother Goose Stakes at Belmont Park closed its 48-day meeting before a crowd of 222,222.

Bill Hartack rode Mrs. Charles Ulrick Bay's champ, who was making her first stakes start of the campaign after suffering an earlier illness.

The Foxcatcher Farms' Lopar finished second, a length and a half ahead of Charlton Clay's Lea Moon. Fourth, another half length back, was the Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort.

He eased her up inside the final 16th after looking back over his shoulders trying to locate some opposition.

Idun, a bay daughter of Royal Charter-Tige O'Meara, was the odds-on favorite and paid $2.90, $2.50 and $2.30 in winning her 11th race in 12 starts. She won eight of eight last year and earned $220,955, a record for a juvenile filly.

Lopar paid $5.80 and $3.80. Lea Moon returned $3.20.

Gibson Repeats Singles Triumph At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (AP) — Althea Gibson, the pride of Harlem, established herself more firmly as the queen of women's tennis Saturday by smashing Angela Mortimer of Britain 6-2, 6-2 for her second straight Wimbledon championship.

The 30-year-old Negro star teamed with Maria Bueno of Brazil to capture the women's doubles crown also but her bid for a rare Wimbledon "triple" was shattered when she and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark were beaten in mixed doubles by a pair of dark-horse Australians, Bob Howe and Lorraine Coghlan.

Nevertheless, it was Althea's day on the revered center court at Wimbledon and the crowd of 17,000, including the Duchess of Kent, gave her a standing ovation when she left the arena at the close of the long, hard day.

The Harlem girl who once had a reputation for becoming unnerved in critical spots showed her mettle by twice coming from behind to beat Miss Mortimer, a statesque blonde who can threaten the line with a backcourt drive from either side.

Suffering what she called "center court jitters," Gibson fell behind 0-2, 2-4 and 3-5 in the first set and had one set point against her before her powerful, manlike service pulled her out of trouble.

Eleven times in that first set a footfault was called against her and five times she served double faults.

Miss Mortimer also jumped into the lead 2-0 in the second set, while the partisan British crowd cheered wildly, but Althea reversed the trend and, with a magnificent show of pluck and tennis stroking, reeled off six games in a row.

Althea and Miss Bueno defeated the American team of Mrs. Margaret du Pont of Wilmington, Del., and Margaret Varner of El Paso, Tex., 6-3, 7-5, for the women's doubles championship. But in mixed doubles played in the Wimbledon twilight, Howe and Miss Coghlan defeated Althea and the big dane, Nielsen, 6-3, 13-11.

Miss Gibson, although tall and sturdily built, was so near exhaustion at this stage that her shoals had lost much of their original bite.

Another major surprise — the biggest of the tournament — was unfolded in the men's doubles final. Two unseeded Swedes, Sven Davidson and Ulf Schmidt, knocked off the top-seeded Australian Davis Cup pair, Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6.

Davidson and Schmidt levelled their attack at the weaker end of the Aussie axis, left-handed Fraser, and played like a pair of berserk Vikings in pulling off one of the big tennis surprises in years.

Cooper had won the men's singles title by beating Fraser in the Australian final Friday, clinching a dreary campaign for America's once proud forces.

But on a side court, Uncle Sam's younger element gave promise of a brighter future by capturing both the junior boys and girls championships.

Earl Buchholz Jr., 17-year-old Davis Cup hopeful from St. Louis, won the boys title by crushing P. J. Le of India 6-1, 5-3. Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., captured the girls crown with a pair of triumphs.

Miss Moore first defeated Pat Balling of Denmark 6-0, 7-5 and then took the measure of Anna Dmitrieva of Russia 6-2, 6-4. It was the first appearance at Wimbledon for the Russians.

It looked like a losing battle for Gibson in the first set, particularly when she fell behind 4-5 and 30-40, with Miss Mortimer serving.

At this point Althea saved the day with one of the finest shots of the match. She sent a forehand drive steaming at Angela's feet and the British girl could only net it weakly.

Then Althea started going. She served powerfully to hold and then broke Miss Mortimer in the 14th game for the set.

The strength of Althea's service is reflected in the fact that in the last four times she served in the first set the British girl got only four points.

Miss Mortimer also was helpless against Althea's crackling delivery in the second set. "I knew I had her when my first serve started going in," Althea said. "But she was tough."

Giants Rally In 9th, Beat Cards

By JACK STEVENSON
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants rallied for two runs in the ninth inning, paced by Ray Jablonski's triple Saturday, to beat St. Louis 5-4. The Giants thus moved ahead of the Cardinals into second place, just a game off Milwaukee's National League pace.

The heave-hitting Jablonski earlier rapped a double and home run and figured in four of the Giants' runs.

With 22,679 on hand, Willie Mays singled with one out in the ninth inning off St. Louis' Lindy McDaniel.

Reliever Larry Jackson came on to be greeted by Jablonski's triple. The next two batters were walked purposely, Bob Schmidt fouled to the catcher, and with two out, pinch hitter Willie Kirtland worked Jackson for a walk to score the winning run.

The victory went to 19-year-old left-hander Mike McCormick, who gave up six hits including a two-run homer by Don Blasingame in the fifth inning.

He notched his fifth victory against a single loss, with Jackson taking the defeat, making him 5-5.

St. Louis loaded the bases in the ninth and scored a run on a sacrifice fly by pinch hitter Joe Taylor to take a 4-3 advantage. Mays' single was his only hit of the day and left him still second.

Cable Approves
Piston Contract

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons Saturday signed their third player, forward Barney Cable of Bradley.

Cable sparked the Bradley team to the 1957 NIT championship. His teammate, Shellie McMillon, already has signed with the Pistons of the National Basketball Assn.

to the Cards' Stan Musial in the league batting race. Musial singled in the fourth for his only hit in four trips to the plate.

McDaniel in 8 1-3 innings gave up six hits, struck out 1 and didn't issue a walk. McCormick fanned 4 and walked 3.

After the first nine San Francisco batters went down in order, the Giants collected two runs off an infield out and reached third ahead of shortstop Eddie Kasko's throw on a grounder by Mays. Jablonski doubled in one run and Daryl Spencer's sacrifice fly accounted for the other.

St. Louis surged back in the fifth. Up to that point, Stan Musial's single had been the only hit off McCormick.

With one out, Hal Smith singled and Kasko doubled, Smith stopping at third, Alou caught McDaniel's long foul fly. Smith scored after the catch. Then Blasingame blasted his first home run of the season, 350 feet into the right field bleachers, scoring Kasko.

Wall Holds Three-Stroke Lead In Rubber City Golf

By FRITZ HOWELL
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., scored his third straight subpar round Saturday, a 68, for a 54-hole total of 200 and a three-stroke lead in the $22,000 Rubber City Open Golf Tournament.

Wall, the 34-year-old 6-foot graduate of Duke University, hasn't won a tournament this year but has finished second three times. He has held or been tied for the lead at the end of each 18-hole round in this 72-hole medal play test in which 45 of the 60 professionals hit the three-quarter mark under par.

Wall, who has scored 34 holes-in-one and grips his club as he would a baseball bat, has had rounds of 63-67-68 over Firestone Country Club's 6,620-yard, par-71 course.

He had his fingers crossed about winning the $2,800 first prize despite his three-stroke lead. He recalled he had a five-stroke edge over the field at the end of three rounds in the Panama Open this year but was beaten out by a stroke by Bob Watson of Ardley-On-Hudson, N.Y.

Three strokes back going into Sunday's final round were Mike Souhak of Grossinger, N.Y.; Frank Phillips, the Australian champion from Sydney; Jack Fleck of Rochester, Mich.; and Bob Goolby of Darien, Conn. Goolby shot the best round of the quartet, a 66.

Tommy Bolt, the National Open champion from Paradise, Fla., matched par for a 204 total which tied him with Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who carded a 69.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, 18-year-old amateur who ripped the course apart with rounds of 67 and 66, soared to a 76 for a 209 total, by far the best of the amateur contingent.

William Hal Bishop, one of the nation's top thoroughbred trainers, started 100 horses during the 29-day Laurel, Mo., spring meeting.

Vet. 2 Rookies Sign Contracts With Pro Lions

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions received signed 1958 contracts from veteran fullback Tom Tracy and a pair of rookies who will be trying to take his job.

Dan Lewis of Wisconsin and Ken Webb of Presbyterian, both first year backs will report to the National Football League club's training camp at Cranbrook July 22.

by an injured left ankle, finished third with 18-11 and just missed making the team. She was edged by another Tennessee State girl, Annie Smith, who cleared 19-2 1/4.

A rhubarb developed in the 880-yard run when Lillian Green, a 17-year-old Hunter College freshman from New York, was disqualified after finishing first. The victory went to Flo McArdle of New York, who had finished second on times.

Mrs. Francis Kaszubski of Cleveland, the meet referee and chairman of the women's National AAU track and field committee, disqualified Miss Green because a teammate paced her for the last 220 yards by running on the inside of the track.

Connie Ford, coach of the New York PAL for whom Miss Green runs, protested the disqualification. The women's AAU committee said it would meet later to rule on the protest.

Grace Butcher of Cleveland was moved up from third to second. Miss Green had been timed in 2:26.4, Miss McArdle in 2:26.7 and Miss Butcher in 2:28.9.

Barbara Jones of Tennessee State defended her 50-yard title in six seconds flat but lost her 100-yard crown to Mathews.

Jones and Daniels each broke the American record by one-tenth of a second with 5.7 (clockings in a heat. But these times were disallowed by the officials because some of the watches broke down.

Other winners crowned included: Bertha Diaz Cuba, 80-meter hurdles, 11.1 seconds; Olympian Marjorie Larney, New York, javelin, 153-7 1/2; and Christine McKenzie, England and New York, 440-yard run, 61.6 seconds.

Georgia Negro Tops Women's AAU Meet

By MURRAY ROSE
MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Margaret Mathews a lithe 21-year-old Olympian from Tennessee State, broke the American record for the broad jump and won three gold medals Saturday to make major honors in the women's National AAU track and field championships.

The 5-5 1/2, 127-pound junior from Atlanta cleared 20 feet, 1 inch on her final leap for her broad jump victory, and earned herself a trip to Moscow. She later also won the 100-yard dash in 11.1 seconds and anchored Tennessee State's flashy 440-yard relay team to a meet record victory in 46.9 seconds.

Mrs. Earlene Brown, 226-pound Olympian from Los Angeles broke meet records in the discus (152-5 1/2) and the shot put (47-5 1/2) and won another trip abroad.

In all 20 places on the U.S. team, which will meet the Russians in a dual meet in Moscow July 27-28, were decided by the championships on Memorial Field. The team will be announced Sunday.

In most cases the top two in each event, except the 50-yard dash and 440-yard run, will make the team.

Five championship meet records were shattered. One American record was bettered (the broad jump) and another was tied. That was in the 220-yard dash when Olympian Lucinda Williams of Tennessee State beat defending champion Isabel Daniels, a teammate, by two yards in 24.3 seconds.

Mathews' jump eclipsed the mark of 19-11 3/4 set by teammate Willie White in finishing second in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne. White, hampered

Thomson Claims 4th British Open

By STERLING SLAPPEY
ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, England (AP) — Peter Thomson of Australia beat big Dave Thomas of Wales by four strokes in a bitter 36-hole playoff Saturday and won his Fourth British Open Golf Championship for a place beside the immortals of the game.

The poised, 28-year-old world traveler from Melbourne, emerging from an 18 months' slump, shot rounds of 68 and 71 over the Royal Lytham and St. Anne's Course for 139. Thomas, struggling from behind most of the long, gray day, fired 69-74-143.

The two had finished the regulation 72-hole tournament Friday tied at 278-ten strokes better than the lone American threat, 56-year-old Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N.Y.

In winning his fourth British Open in five years, Thomson (AP) — Peter Thomson of Australia beat big Dave Thomas of Wales by four strokes in a bitter 36-hole playoff Saturday and won his Fourth British Open Golf Championship for a place beside the immortals of the game.

Thomson, who hones his game on the rugged American pro tour, has the phenomenal record of having finished 1-2 in the last seven British Opens. He put three on a string in 1954, 1955 and 1956 before Locke, the putting master from South Africa, dethroned him last year.

After his 1956 victory in Britain, the Australian went into a mysterious decline, failing to win another major tournament until now. He was even beaten for Australian titles last year.

RITA CORTEZ

Girls, Tag Bout On Kallio Card

The well-known "Mexican Spitfire," Rita Cortez, returns to Kallio's Arena Monday night against popular Judy Grable in the semi-final on a card headlined by a return Southeastern tag team championship match between littleholders Jack Curtis and Charley Lave and King Albert.

The girls match will have an hour limit with two falls to win and the main event a 90-minute limit. Both will take two falls to win.

Rita, who seemed such a lady in her first matches here, showed her claws in her last match on the local mat, winning the bout but losing friends. The buxom Latin beauty, a native of Mexico City, likes the "Mexican bounce," not the latest dance step from south of the border but a wrestling hold.

Miss Grable, a Miami lass, favors the drop kick and uses it to devastating advantage. Judy has appeared here on several occasions and has always conducted herself like a lady except, of course, when scorned.

The tag team opponents fought to a draw last week when the time limit caught them. Champions Curtis and Strong kept their tag team trophy but Lave and His Majesty King Albert are planning to take it home Monday.

Charley and King make good partners. Both are peroxide blondes, both are veteran grapplers and both like to play rough. Everybody thought Charley knew all the tricks but King Albert, evidently no relation to the Prince taught him a new one last week. The "rily monarch would, on occasion, pull his own flowing blonde locks or act as if they had been pulled, sometimes even giving up a hold, just to confuse the referee. What will these boys think of next?

MIGHTY BAT — Dick Stuart poses with bat which has hit 31 homers in Pacific Coast League to give him chance in majors. He has been called up by the Pittsburgh Pirates from Salt Lake City. He hit his 31st homer, two doubles, and a single in a double header against San Diego Friday. (AP Wirephoto)

12 INNINGS

Phils Use Error To Trip Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jerry Lynch dropped a fly ball with two out in the 12th Saturday and it opened the way for the Philadelphia Phils to score three unearned runs for an 8-5 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Lynch's error, on the fly by Rip Repulski, let Ed Bouchee score from second and Repulski then tallied on Eddie Kasanski's triple. Relief pitcher Dick Farrell got credit for the victory and Willard Schmidt, the third Cincinnati pitcher, was the loser.

The error-marked finish came after the teams took turns in the eighth and ninth innings at taking the lead or tying with home runs by Bob Thurman of the Redlegs and Repulski and a double by Smokey Burgess of Cincinnati being the big blows.

The fireworks started when Thurman got a pinch hit homer in the eighth to put the Redlegs ahead at 4-3. Then in the ninth, Repulski drove his homer out of the park with Bob Bowman, who had singled, on base.

The 5-4 Phil margin stood up only until the last of the ninth when pinch hitter Burgess doubled home the tying run. Don Hoak, who had walked and been sacrificed to second, scored.

Both starters, Harvey Haddix and Jack Meyer, had opening inning trouble but then neither allowed a hit until the fifth.

Chico Fernandez' first home run of the season put the Phils ahead in the first inning but the Redlegs tied it up with an unearned run in their half. A single by Jerry Lynch and the first of Ed Bailey's two doubles put men on second and third with one out.

Lynch was cut down at the plate, however, trying to score after Stan Lopata let a pitch get by him. Bailey scored a moment

Minden Hosting Big 8 All-Stars

RUSTON, La. (Special) Billy Jack Booth, Northwestern's star athlete, playing for Bernice, continues to lead Big Eight League batting with a .438 average after 25 hits in 57 times at bat. Bernice also claims the leading pitcher, Larry Williams of Ole Miss, who has a 4-0 record, and the same Union parish club also has the home run leader in Ben Carroll who parked five hits out of parks.

Minden's Red Birds, league leaders, with a three-game margin over their nearest rivals as of July 3, will host the league's annual All-Star game Tuesday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Milford Andrews manages the host team. Billy Henderson of the Ruston Ramblers will skipper the All-Stars.

League managers selected the All-Star squad as follows:

Pitchers—Allen Koch (2-0),

Homer; Larry Williams (4-0), Bernice; Red Parker (2-3), Ruston; Tommy Wells (2-1), Bastrop; Don Stahl (2-1), El Dorado.

Catchers—Butler Powell, Ruston; Bob Loftin, Bastrop.

Infielder — Jackie Moreland, Homer; Jimmie Williams, Ruston; Billy Jack Booth, Bernice; Bill Carr, El Dorado; Andy Bourgeois, Ruston.

Outfielders—Al Doggett, Homer; Dale Alexander, Bastrop; Tommy Bell, Homer; Carl Trepanier, Ruston.

21 Of World's Finest Racers In Grand Prix

RHEIMS (AP) — Twenty-one racing drivers — the world's elite, including four Americans and Juan Manuel Fangio, defending world champion — Sunday match wits and speed in the Grand Prix de France.

Drivers will cover 50 laps of the flat, asphalt surface, laid out in the form of a triangle over roads normally used as highways, for a total distance of 415.087 kilometers (257.8 miles).

Stirling Moss of Great Britain is leading the race for the world's driving championship, with 15 points. Mike Hawthorn is second with 14, Luigi Musso of Italy is third with 12 and Harry Schell, an American transplanted to Paris, is fourth with 11. Schell is driving a BRM.

Other Americans in the race are Phil Hill of Los Angeles; Carroll Shelby of Dallas, Texas, and Troy Ruttman of El Mirada Calif. They are driving Maseratis.

Canada Will Face U.S. In Zone Finals

TORONTO (AP)—Canada qualified Saturday to meet the United States in the final round of the American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

The matches are scheduled July 10-12 at the Toronto Cricket Skating and Curling Club.

The Canadians clinched the finalist berth when Bob Bedard and Don Fontana won a doubles match from Raul Karman and Adolfo Minoso of Cuba 6-2, 6-2, 6-4. This gave the Canadians a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series and made the two final singles matches a mere formality.

The American team, headed by Captain Perry Jones of Los Angeles, will assemble in New York Sunday.

TO FACE RUSSIAN

Johnson Again Cops National Decathlon

By ED CORRIGAN

Associated Press Sports Writer PALMYRA, N.J. (AP)—Rafer Johnson, the muscle-man from UCLA, won the national decathlon title Saturday to set up a face-to-face meeting with Russia's Vasily Kuznetsov later this month.

Johnson scored 7,754 points, far below his own listed world record of 7,985 and Kuznetsov's pending mark of 8,016. They'll clash in the U.S.-Russia meet July 27-28 and Johnson's coach, Ducky Drake, said his charge will smash the Russian's performance to bits.

Yang Chuan-Kwang of Nationalist China, the Asian Games champion, was second with 7,825 points. Dave Edstrom of the University of Oregon was third with 7,154.

Edstrom will accompany Johnson as a member of the U.S. team that tangles with Russia.

Defending champion Charlie Pratt of Palmyra, the home town favorite, was fourth with 6,922 points and Bob Lawson of the Southern California Striders fifth with 6,550 points.

While Johnson failed to break Kuznetsov's mark he still can head off the Russian's getting his name in the record book. All Rafer must do is better 8,016 in the U.S.-Russia meet. Then the Russians would have to submit his mark to the International Amateur Athletic Federation for approval when it meets next month.

By the time the final event of the gruelling two-day, 10-event program rolled around, it was apparent that Johnson had missed whatever chance he had to set a record. The last test was the 1,500 meters.

He would have had to run it in 4:37.4, far faster than he ever had before, in order to get past Kuznetsov. He finished in 5:14.7, barely making it to the line.

"I didn't break the record, so I'm not going to worry about it," he said, while huffing and puffing after the 1,500 meters.

Johnson, the studious president of the UCLA student body, tossed the javelin 201 feet, 9 inches, far off his usual performance. During the spring, he got off a heave of 240 feet. As a matter of fact, Yang had the best javelin throw, a 208-7 effort.

Johnson started the day badly. He was clocked in 14.8 for the 110-meter higher hurdles. That, too, was sub-par for him and placed him squarely behind the eight-ball in his race for the record. He had a 154-11 discus throw, average for him, and a 12-6 pole vault, also under his best.

Yang turned out to be more competition than Johnson bargained for. Going into the 1,500 meters, the tall Chinese had had a chance to pull it out. But he's not much of a distance runner, either, and was timed in 4:51. Had he been able to get down to a more respectable time, he could have won.

Edstrom, a 19-year-old sophomore, still has a lot to learn and will have enough to push past Pratt, who is no slouch.

Paramount Is Showing Film On Army 'Life'

One of Broadway's most successful comedies and the movie that Cosmopolitan magazine calls "The funniest army picture in a dozen or more years" starts today at the Paramount Theatre.

"No Time For Sergeants," the laugh-crammed picture stars Andy Griffith in a story about the peace-time air force's hilarious unsuccessful attempt to indoctrinate a naive Georgia farm boy, Co. - starting in the film will be Nick Adams, who has reached a leading role part after only two years.

AT DELTA THEATRE

'Bridge On River Kwai' Opens Soon

The Delta Theatre has been selected for an exclusive engagement in Monroe with this year's Academy Award winning picture, "The Bridge on the River Kwai". It was announced today by E. R. Edwards, city manager and Miss Myrtle Cole, manager of the Delta.

The extended engagement of the seven Oscar winning picture will open on Thursday, July 17. "The Bridge on the River Kwai" has won many awards and has been praised by Coronet Magazine to the extent that it "wins hands down as the best picture of the month, the year, and possibly all time. It is one of the screen's masterpieces, superbly acted and directed, and spellbinding throughout."

Included in the cast of fine players will be William Holden, Alec Guinness, Jack Hawkins, Sessue Hayakawa and Ann Sears. It is photographed in Technicolor and in CinemaScope.

The picture won seven Academy Awards including the best picture of the year, best actor award to Alec Guinness, best direction, best screen play, best color cinematography, best musical score and the best film editing. Sessue Hayakawa was also nominated for the best supporting actor of the year for his role.

The Delta Theatre, as will be remembered, was selected last year for the first showing in Mon-

The film is directed by Mervyn LeRoy who in 1955 brought to the screen the year's biggest money-maker, "Mr. Roberts." "No Time For Sergeants" is in the same group of great comedies as that film was in 1955.

Andy Griffith was the popular choice to recreate on the screen the role of Will Stockdale, the naive draftee. A graduate of the University of North Carolina, Griffith was teaching music and speech at the high school in Goldsboro, North Carolina until a few years ago.

He gave up teaching to entertain at nightclubs in the south. A recording of one of his comedy monologues, "What It Was—Was Football," sold 800,000 copies and paved the way for his stage debut in "Sergeants" on Broadway where it ran for three laughing years. Andy left the east to make his first motion picture, "A Face in The Crowd."

Things Always Come In Circle

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—If you stay around long enough, things always come full circle.

It seems like only yesterday (all right, it was 27 years ago that Flo Ziegfeld imported a South Seas beauty named Reri to animate a grass skirt in his last edition of the "Follies.")

And who should be in town now but another sun-tinted native of the South Pacific who has been enticed, for the moment, into the ways of American show business.

Ramine is her name, and she is an 18-year-old Polynesian of engaging smile and graceful movement, who is featured in the forthcoming "Cinerama - South Seas Adventure," fifth production in this pioneer big-screen process. Its world premiere will be at the Warner Theater here July 15.

Naturally, Ramine dances in the film. But not the hula of Hawaii with which most Americans are familiar.

"It is the hula of Tahiti," Ramine explained in her laudable but French-accented English. "Much faster than Hawaiian hula. More active. And I do not wear grass skirt. Skirt is made from shredded bark of a tree."

The film covers most of the vast South Pacific, even to sequences in Australia. It has a stronger thematic thread than the preceding Cinerama films, although it is not an out-and-out plot-type movie.

Ramine enters into the proceedings as a champion Tahitian dancer, which she is, who is chosen by a journeying Frenchman as his Polynesian ideal in the tradition of the paintings of Paul Gauguin.

"My part was really filmed during Bastille Day celebration last July 14 in Papeete, Tahiti," Ramine explained. "Time of team dance contest. Teams come from many islands to dance for prizes. Picture is quite authentic."

And how does a Tahitian learn to dance the traditional movements, who instructs?

"No one," Ramine replied. "One watches the parents the grandparents. One learns by watching. I dance ever since I was little girl."

The method of Ramine's involvement in the movies must be unique. She was one of seven in the family Buchin on the coral island of Bora Bora. Two shipwrecked Americans landed there when she was three. They were Igor and Prudence Allen, who had worked in the field of child psychology at Northwestern University and then settled in Papeete.

Cautious About Future
Childless, they became attached to Ramine, and, in the Polynesian tradition of sharing, the Buchins let Ramine go to live with the Allens. They have since adopted her.

Allen has pursued a varied career in the South Seas, and American film-makers who have operated there often have used his many skills and knowledge of the region. Carl Dudley, who directed "Cinerama - South Seas Adventure," was the latest to employ him and, of course, he met Ramine. He hired her at once.

The shy but friendly Ramine and her chaperoning adopted mother are quite cautious about the girl's future as an entertainer.

"We have had a number of offers," Mrs. Allen said. "But Ramine has danced publicly, except in Tahiti, only at an entertainment at a hotel in Honolulu where we now make our home. She has never worked in a night club or a theater. I suppose there will be more offers now. We will have to think about the matter, and discuss it among ourselves."

Ramine said she hopes to become a good housewife.

The child's lymph glands were affected, and swelling in the arm and hand developed Friday, along with blisters on the finger from the lymph fluid. The finger was lanced, and since his arm did not improve yesterday, he was taken to El Dorado for medical consultation and treatment.

The finger was lanced again to release the fluid and he was given treatment. It will not be known until this afternoon if the boy will have to take the inoculation. Meanwhile, his arm and hand are still swollen, but otherwise, he feels well.

Report Negro Beaten; Dies In Hospital

WATER VALLEY, Miss. (AP) — Two Water Valley residents Saturday said they saw Sheriff J. G. Treloar repeatedly beat a Negro man who later died in a Memphis hospital.

The Negro, Woodrow Wilson Daniels, 37, died last Tuesday. His relatives contend death was due to injuries received in beatings at the Yalobusha County jail.

Treloar declined comment on the accusations made by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Vaughn.

"All I can say is that the case is being investigated," he said.

The Vaughns said they saw Treloar beat Daniels twice on the night of June 21 and again on June 22. They said they were in jail at the time on a charge that was later dropped.

Daniels was jailed the night of June 21 on charges of reckless driving and possession of whisky.

Grocer Maury Fly, who employed Daniels as a delivery man, said he tried to post a bond for Daniels on the night of June 21 and Treloar refused. Fly helped make bond the next day.

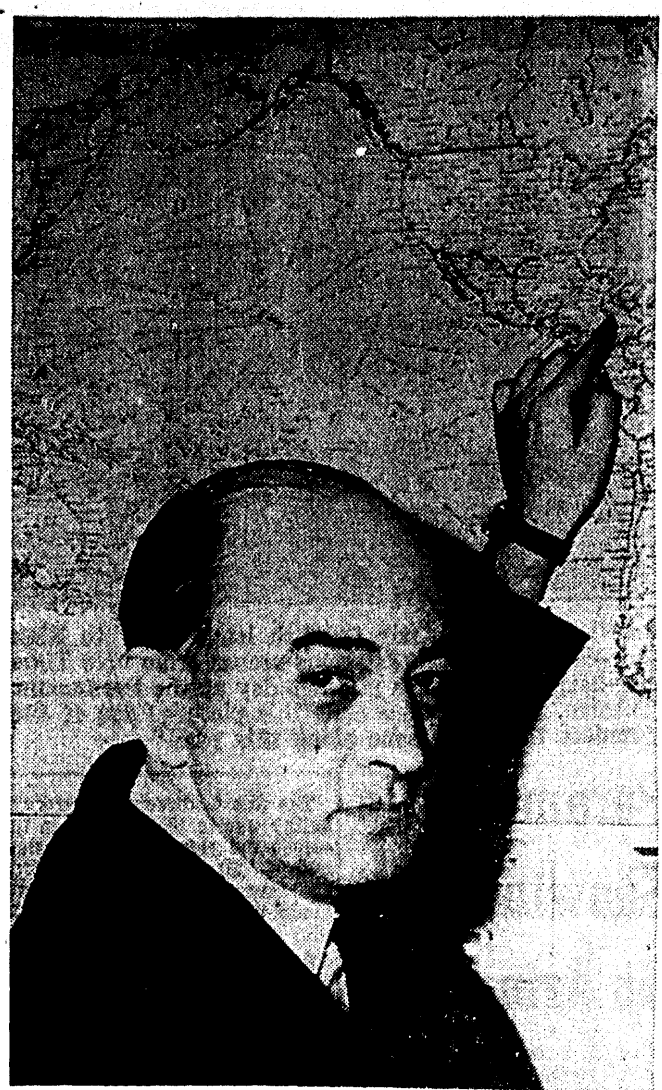

Daniels was admitted to a hospital at Oxford before he was taken to a Memphis hospital.

In Memphis, Robert Hardy, hospital administrator, said a preliminary autopsy failed to establish whether Daniels' fatal blood clot in the brain was due to his injuries or a stroke.

Hardy said the microscopic examination, still incomplete, may give more definite information.

Treloar asked the state to step in and investigate the case last Wednesday.

Theft Series Here Probed

Two cars were stolen, one tire on a third car was slashed, and an outboard motor was taken from a truck as part of the July 4 weekend criminal activity in the Monroe area.

An auto owned by A. J. Tiggel, 902 S. Second St., was taken from 502 Apple St. between midnight and 5 a.m. yesterday, but the owner later found it abandoned in West Monroe. He told Monroe Police that nothing was missing from the vehicle.

An investigation to find the thief is underway.

Police are also investigating the theft of a two-tone green 1956 four-door Chevrolet from the corner of Jackson and Wood Streets.

The auto, owned by Mrs. A. R. Robinson, 111 Lindberg St., West Monroe, was taken between 8 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. yesterday.

It is described as having large square rear view mirrors on the front fenders.

M. L. Potter, 1307 Adams, complained to police that he parked his car at the American Legion Hall at 12:15 a.m. yesterday, and when he returned at 12:30 a.m. the left rear tire had been cut.

A three inch slash was found in the outside wall of the tire.

Frozen Food Industry Is Big Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The frozen food industry has leaped in a few years to an annual output of more than nine billion pounds and an investment of more than five billion dollars.

The Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) estimates the industry from 1950 through 1958 increased its output by about a billion pounds a year. In 1956, the industry was producing nine billion pounds of frozen meats, fruits and vegetables, soups, seafoods, fancy desserts, foreign dishes, and prepared meals.

From the processing plant to the kitchen, more than five billion dollars have been invested in buildings, machinery, trucks, trains, warehouse facilities, retail storage equipment and home refrigeration.

The consumer is the biggest investor in the frozen food industry. He has put $1,800,000,000 into home freezers. This does not include the money that has been spent for refrigerators with freezer space.

The investment in the processing of frozen foods amounts to about a billion dollars, according to AMS. Facilities for zero-degree warehousing, refrigerated truck trailers, and frozen food lockers require an investment of 500 million dollars each.

The wholesale distributors' investment runs to 462 million dollars, and bulk storage and display cabinets in retail stores add up to 400 million dollars. Investment in mechanically refrigerated railroad cars comes to another 93 million dollars.

Wreck Victim Continues On Critical List

EUNICE (Special) — A 45-year-old Gilbert, La. man is still in serious condition following an auto accident Thursday which took the life of a woman.

W. Y. Cuney was reported progressing well in a local hospital after suffering deep facial cuts and chest injuries. Cuney, an active civic worker in Franklin Parish, suffered his injuries when he was involved in a near head-on collision in Elton.

There was no indication of the identity of the woman who was said to be from Longview, Texas. Meanwhile, four other area people were injured slightly in an accident near Arcadia the same day. Jo Ann Henry, 16, Winnsboro, escaped injury when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another vehicle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lemons, owners of the car, and their three-month-old baby were treated for slight injuries and released. The group was travelling to Springhill for a visit.

Pickets Seek Where-Abouts Of Lost Dog

NEW YORK (AP)—Those pickets wandering around Upper Broadway aren't involved in any labor dispute. They're just looking for a lost dog.

Their placards, in both English and Spanish, offer a reward for a 6-year-old mongrel, mostly terrier — named Lily. The employers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winkler were supposed to return home to Miami Beach last Monday but couldn't bear the thought of leaving Lily.

Lily disappeared from their hotel room June 27.

The Winklers are spending $75 a day—besides the platoon of placard carriers they've placed radio and newspaper advertising — to try to find Lily and have offered $1,000 reward. They are determined to continue the search as long as hope.

Navigation Prediction Made In Tex.

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP)—Rep. Wright Patman, Texarkana congressional veteran, predicted Saturday that Texas one day would have navigation from the Gulf of Mexico as far north as Dallas, Denison and Jefferson.

Patman spoke at the dedication near here of the Ferrell's Bridge Dam and Reservoir. The dam is 8 miles west of Jefferson and 30 miles north of Longview, on Big Cypress Creek.

Other speakers at the dedication included Gov. Price Daniel, U.S. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson and Gen. E.C. Itchner, chief of the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Patman said the project was "another milestone of progress for the great Gulf Southwest."

"This East Texas area," he said, "is destined to become one of the most important in the United States. The nation needs what we can produce here. Water will enable us to develop this great area to serve this need."

On the future role of navigation, Patman said "there is a definite possibility" of future development of water transportation in East Texas as far upstream as Jefferson, Denison and Dallas. There has long been talk in Texas and Washington of making the Trinity navigable as far north as the thickly populated Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The Ferrell's Bridge Reservoir and Dam, to be known as the Lake of the Pines, is part of the Red River development program. Cypress Creek flows into Calcasieu Lake and thence into the Red River.

Johnson said, "This is a dedication of a monument to toughness, diligent foresight and courage of the people of a great section, a people who would not take 'no' for an answer." He referred to the long fight to make the reservoir and dam near here a possibility.

Johnson described the project as a "revolution in East Texas that is only beginning."

"I want to build a dam a year on every river I can find," he told the crowd, "to impound water because water is the No. 1 problem in Texas." Gov. Daniel and Gen. Itchner also spoke at the dedication ceremonies. Earlier, Daniel, speaking to a luncheon at the Flying Fish Lodge near Jefferson, said the reservoir would add a water supply of 192 million gallons per day for a wide area of Northeast Texas.

Woman's Body Found In Lake

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The body of a white woman was found floating on Norris Lake, west of here Saturday night.

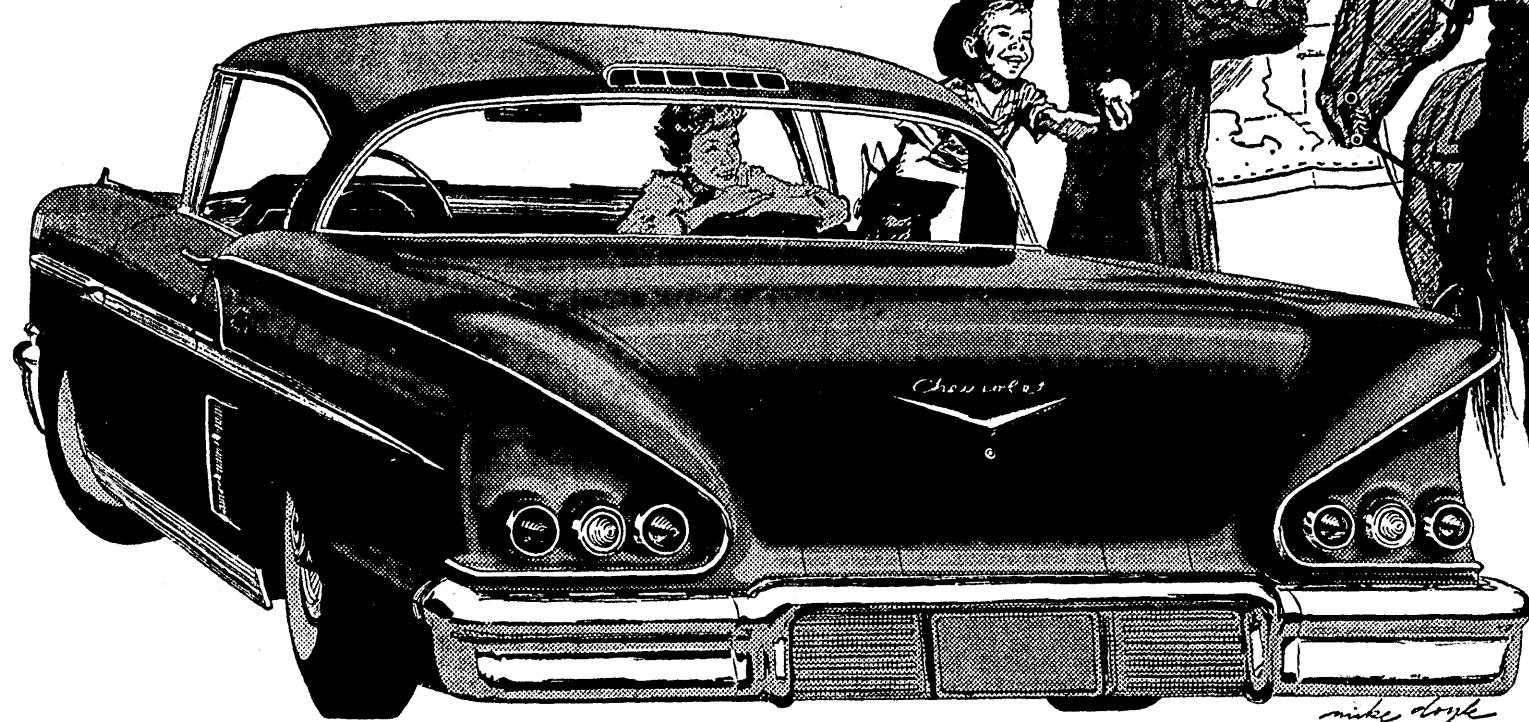

Sheriff Capt. Paul Baker identified the woman as Mrs. Jack D. Clark, 32, Shreveport, a nurse for a Shreveport doctor.

The circumstances leading to the death were being investigated by the sheriff's office.

Authorities indicated there is a possibility of foul play.

The woman's two children reported to police Friday night that she had left home and not returned.

Legal Tangle In Teacher Issue Seen

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — The legislature's frantic efforts to maintain teachers' salaries at present levels may have created a legal tangle that will have the effect of revising the 1956 minimum salary law.

The Public Affairs Research Council (PAR) today analyzed the effects of a bill concerning teachers' salaries authored by Sen. F. E. Cole. The measure instructs schools to make "adjustments" in pay of teachers and bus drivers "consistent with one-half of the increase" provided in act 3 of 1956.

PAR listed four other apparent effects of the bill:

- Authorize reductions from the salary level of last year to stay within available funds.
- Freeze local salary schedules, some of which are above the state minimum as applied last year.
- Require use of school funds for salaries ahead of such things as electricity, desks and supplies.
- Permit the use of school lunch funds for payment of salaries of all employees.

Cole's bill provides that school boards use all state, federal and local funds available to pay salaries. As originally written and passed by the senate, the bill would have required the closing of schools when funds were exhausted, but this provision was removed by the house.

The bill says nothing about any time limitation for its effect.

"Thus," PAR said, "the bill appears to provide for the application of an indefinite period of time of salary and bus operating cost schedules calling for one-half of the increases" in 1956.

"If this is the case," PAR said, the bill "would supersede the 1956 acts, and in effect rewrite the salary...schedules...in those acts."

In fact, the measure might actually authorize reductions in some places. The 1956 legislation provides that if the funds are insufficient for the full salary schedules, there shall be proportionate reductions.

The Cole bill calls for "adjustments" that are "consistent with" half the 1956 schedule.

So, since the 1956 acts called for reductions to fit the amount of money available, the Cole bill might be interpreted as calling for the same thing, PAR reasoned.

TEACHER PAY

Key Problem Still Faces Solons In Closing Days

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana lawmakers wind up the 1958 session Thursday with the key problem facing them May 12 — teacher pay — only partially solved after 60 days.

The Senate, with a stack of last minute work to clear up, comes back Sunday night for the ninth week. The House goes back to work Monday.

Gov. Earl Long whipped the House into a frenzy with rip-roaring committee appearances and floor lobbying in 1956 — one of the wildest sessions in Louisiana history.

The governor stayed quietly in his office this time, except for the traditional opening speech to a joint session and two lively committee hearings, but his midterm session didn't lack for controversy.

Traditionally, the second 60-day session during a governor's term is less productive, with lawmakers mainly pushing their drive for re-election.

However, the governor's tight money tactics, pushing for new taxes, snuffed out most of the lawmakers' pet money bills.

Many veteran legislators say the 1958 session is one of the least productive in many years.

The most important victory for the administration came when the combination of Long, the Louisiana Teachers Assn. and segregation leaders crashed the House tax barrier and sent a higher natural gas gathering tax through to final passage.

Segregation leaders, in turn, gained cooperation of school forcing winning approval of a program setting up machinery to close down public schools ordered to integrate by a certain date.

However, the one cent boost in the natural gas tax leaves teachers, school bus drivers and other school employees more than 12 million dollars short of the funds required to keep salaries at their present level.

A companion two cent constitutional natural gas hike — which would have provided a small surplus for the state general fund — was shot down as House anti-tax leaders rallied.

The constitutional amendment would have let the people decide on a permanent solution to the teacher pay problem. The one cent hike will remain in effect for only two years.

After the victory with the natural gas levy, tax foes closed ranks and throttled all other tax proposals.

As the session ground to a close,

Long's grip on even a 51-vote House majority appeared shaky. He never has had control of the two thirds majority required for taxes.

In the hectic rush for adjournment, Long's leaders carefully set the stage for a special tax-raising session — probably next fall.

They pushed through a bill directing school boards to continue the pay of teachers, school bus drivers and other employees at their present level as long as the money lasts.

When the money runs out, schools may close, school boards may dig into local pockets to keep them open, but most likely there will be a clamor for more money from the Legislature.

A large part of the uncertainty over fiscal affairs stems from the tideland dispute, still pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion announced federal concessions that could mean up to 50 million dollars for Louisiana. This came shortly before a vote on taxes.

Tax foes tossed in a series of schemes spending the money long before they even were sure the state would get it.

House members snapped administration control to tack an amendment to the general appropriations bill giving teachers priority for up to 12 million dollars in state surpluses, if any.

Sen. Robert Ainsworth of New Orleans termed it "insurance against a special session."

As the confusion mounted, Long told the Senate Finance Committee, "the budget isn't balanced yet.... let's wait five or six months. When things straighten themselves out, you can come back and work it out."

Long's Senate leaders swiftly removed the offending amendment and the governor made it stick in the House.

Other major developments of 1958.

1. The first significant opposition to segregation proposals. Sen. W. M. Rainach's legislative segregation group won approval of a school closing program and other bills, with only three awaiting Senate action Sunday.

However, for the first time three bills were abandoned in committee. One designed to force registrars of voters to stricter enforcement of vote registration laws was dropped in the face of a storm of opposition from registrars, aided by Gov. Long.

Also, the school closing program drew heavy opposition in committee hearings. A House hearing touched off a legislative probe of pro-integration sentiment at Louisiana State University after 66 faculty members signed a Louisiana Civil Liberties petition opposing the bills.

2. The sudden death of right to work. After stalling around for more than a month, the Senate Industrial Relations Committee rejected the labor-hated bill banning compulsory union membership and the Senate snuffed out an attempt to overturn the committee.

The 1956 Legislature had repealed the two-year-old law.

3. The Senate, with Gov. Long calling the signals, killed two schemes to shorten the 14-year terms of the LSU Board of Supervisors and also rejected Sen. Rex McCullough's proposal for a single board of higher education.

4. Long turned thumbs down on proposals for a 40 million dollar bond issue for LSU and 33 million dollars for state colleges and they died in the House.

5. Creation of seven new study groups, including the LSU probe, a broader seven-man investigation of alleged subversive activities at LSU and the state colleges and groups to study election laws, school lunches, retirement systems, sex crimes and governmental efficiency.

6. Passage of the first overhaul of Louisiana's system of judicial review in 60 years. Voters will ballot next fall on creation of a new southwest appeal circuit, addition of 10 new appeal judges and limitation of appeals directly to the state supreme court. The proposal was drafted by state bar and judicial groups to lighten the caseload of the supreme court and speed up the wheels of justice.

When the Senate goes back to work Sunday night it has a heavy calendar with several touchy items remaining. They include:

1. A Long-backed bill to place the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and secretary of state under budget control. This is opposed by Atty. Gen. Gremlion and Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr.

2. Segregation committee bills to provide for voluntary bus segregation, final step in a three-bill package designed to sidestep federal orders ending segregated seating in New Orleans; to designate the attorney general legal advisor for registrars of voters facing federal court action and directing that registrars called away from their duties by federal intervention continue to receive their pay.

The House has less to do, but two items promise to stir angry debate:

1. Rep. Ford Stinson's constitutional amendment to earmark 20 million dollars in surplus funds to dodge a tax-raising special session.

This final effort by tax foes to thwart the governor's plans for a special session failed 53-31 to get the required 67 votes on its first try.

2. Rep. Holman Donaldson's resolution to address out of office state Forester James E. Mixon. Donaldson gave no reason for the proposal, promising to tell the House when it came back for the final week.

Baileys Return From Workshop On Eco-education

O. K. Bailey, principal of the A. L. Smith Junior High School, and Mrs. Bailey, second grade teacher at the school, have returned from the Louisiana Workshop on Economic Education sponsored by Tulane.

Teachers, principals and supervisors of 23 Louisiana parishes attended the workshop. The Baileys represented Ouachita Parish.

Other area representatives were Mrs. Ethel Belser, Lake Providence, Mrs. Ruth Chapman, and Robert Wayne Phillips of Ruston, Marjorie Smith and Mrs. Frances W. Taliferro, Jonesville, Luther Hollingsworth, Mrs. Alice L. Pen-ton, and Mrs. W. C. Thomas, St. Joseph and Philip Pfoz, Bastrop.

The objective of the workshop is to give school teachers and administrators a clear, overall view of the structure and function of the American economy and a review of the issues involved in some important current economic problems. Workshop participants are brought into direct contact with professional economists from the academic world, with men of affairs from business, with representatives from organized labor and with specialists from government and research groups.

NATIONAL BOOK AWARD WINNER

Story Teller Never Been Anything Else But One

By W. G. ROGERS

AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the novelists I interview started out in life, they obligingly inform me, the hard way: Peddled papers, shined shoes, washed dishes, shoveled ashes, laid bricks, drove a truck, swabbed decks and hoed potatoes until — at last — the book was sold, fame and fortune won.

Now I've met a story-teller who has never been anything else but: John Cheever, winner of the National Book Award with "The Wapshot Chronicle."

In fact Cheever, now nearing his mid-40s, was in a certain sense a writer almost before he could write; and what is more, he had an enthusiastic, devoted audience that simply couldn't get enough of him.

"When I was in 6th and 7th grades," he explained, "I used to make up stories in class. I told about exploring voyages, or 'My Trip to the North Pole,' that sort of thing. Sometimes the teacher asked me, but it was generally on the understanding that the class would behave while I was at it."

"Naturally the class behaved. The longer I could stretch out a story, the more reading and writing and rhythmic lessons we all got out of."

It was a kind of Scheherazade and the Sultan on a less deadly level; nobody would cut off Cheever's head if he ran dry, but he and his classmates would have to go back to work.

A man with this training in rambling on and on was easy to interview, and he raved on with his story to me: "I soon was writing, actually writing, verse plays and other ambitious things. Then in prep school, where I was undoubtedly an intractable student, after lasting four years and having only one more to go, I was expelled."

"At once I wrote a story, 'Expelled,' and sold it to The New Republic magazine for $85."

"How long did you have to wait before you earned that much again?" I asked, expecting the answer would be a decade or two.

On the contrary, he promptly sold stories to Hound and Horn, the Yale Review, the Atlantic and other publications while still in his teens.

He has been at it ever since. He figures he has done about 100 short stories or an average of perhaps four a year. Later they have all appeared in The New Yorker, and several of them formed chapters in the prize-winning "Wapshot Chronicle," his first novel. He lives in a New York suburb, has a wife and three children, is a member of the local volunteer fire department, and does his writing in an office all his own in Ossining, almost in the shadow of Sing Sing prison.

"It's an office without a telephone," he said. And in his acceptance speech at the National Book Awards ceremony, where he received a plaque and $1,000, he said of writing:

"It is a task that depends on solitude. The writer asks people to be quiet, to be left alone, not to be called to the telephone."

Of the general position of the novelist in America today, he said that he "benefits, I think, from the versatility and power of his language, from the breadth of his landscape, from the company of many brilliant, gifted and adventurous colleagues and from a group of readers who, beset with an unprecedented variety of diversions, continue to read with great taste and intelligence."

He uttered one emphatic warning during my talk with him:

"People should stop confusing autobiography and novels. My new book is laid in St. Botolph, and that is not in any way to be regarded as Quincy, Mass., the town in which I was born. If I wanted to write about my Aunt Annie, I'd do it. I wouldn't hide her under some other name. In labeling novels autobiographical, people belittle them."

"To be sure, the young writer inclines to be autobiographical and," he added, "illegible. He has been divorced, he writes about divorce; he has been to Burma, he writes about Burma. The older he gets, the broader the experiences he writes from. The thing I overheard 30 years ago, and the thing I overheard yesterday somehow combine to form still a third, non-autobiographical thing in the book."

Cheever has been represented in hard covers before by two collections of short stories, "The Way Some People Live" and "The Enormous Radio." He waited this long to do a novel, he said, because the piecemeal writing of short stories seemed to him, up to now, to reflect accurately the discontinuity of life; but at last he finds something more sustained. It's also true, he regretfully pointed out, that short stories month after month do bring in fresh money, but a novel is a risky long-term commitment — he spent six years on his.

BROADWAY

Backsides Of Reds 'Baggy' Claims Elsa

BERLIN (AP) — Elsa Maxwell came back from Soviet-run East Berlin Saturday declaring that the backsides of the Communists show "They haven't got it."

"Baggy pants, baggy pants. That's all you see over there from the rear," said the famous 75-year-old party giver. "You can always tell the strength of a man by his backside. And there is no strength in baggy trousers."

"Ever see a Spanish torero from the rear? Ah, there's something. Tight pants. Real strength," said Elsa, enthusiastically punching the air with her fist.

Elsa drove with a reporter through the Red-labeled Brandenburg Gate past respectful East German Communist guards who looked as if they had just seen a Stalin tank camouflaged in a black Shantung suit and a flower garden hat.

Elsa lumbered down Stalin-alle, posed before a statue of Stalin—"that old rascal"—and rubber-necked at the air raid bunker where Hitler died with his bride Eva Braun.

Elsa returned to West Berlin where she is attending the Film Festival, with a big sigh of relief, saying:

"Now look. There's a boy over there with his arm around a girl. Now, I didn't see that over there."

Negro Is Faced With 2 Charges

A Negro man who was unable to get into his locked home wound up in the city jail on charges of use of a dangerous weapon and disturbing the peace.

Airen Kent, Negro, 610 Marx St., told Monroe Police that her husband Louis Kent came home and attempted to use a crowbar to get into the house.

Failing at this, she said that he took a shotgun, blasted through the window, and destroyed a TV set.

He was arrested, posted bond and was released to appear in City Court later this week.

A 54-year-old Negro was arrested by Monroe police and charged with public intoxication and carrying a concealed weapon.

John Monroe of 1732 Short Flynn St. was apprehended on the charges.

Big Argument Is Going On By Musicians

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The big (and sometimes hot) argument among musicians right now is whether the business of awarding prizes advances either the cause of music or of the professionals who play it for the aesthetic elevation of the public and their own livelihoods.

The argument stems, of course, from Van Cliburn, the piano player from Texas of whom no one, aside from some fans of piano playing, had heard until he won a prize in Moscow. Then overnight he became the No. 1 long-hair performer of the world, with a stockpile of concert bids that'll take him years to get through.

You'll understand why this argument is mainly going on behind closed studio doors. No musician wants to be accused of displaying sour grapes or getting out a hammer for use on a colleague — in this case, Cliburn. You'll also understand that no musician argues that Cliburn isn't a terrific piano player.

Elman's View
The argument is that there are scores of other young musicians who'll never get a break and who'll probably play their pianos or violins or clarinets on the potato-chips-and-chicken salad circuit for years until they retire from exhaustion to make a poor living as teachers. When a Cliburn gets skyrocketed, don't untold numbers of also deserving young men get disheartened? And isn't this a loss for music?

So far only one top musical figure has lifted a public voice to support his widely held view. Mischa Elman, the venerable violinist who has been an international celebrated artist since childhood, came right out and said it was a bad thing for music, this business of prizes which make it appear that music has "champions" as do boxing and basketball.

Musica has no champions, he said in addressing the graduating class of the Combs College of Music in Philadelphia; each artist is an individual who may or may not send a particular listener, depending upon whether an emotional hook — up gets established between the two. Of course, said Elman, Cliburn is "enormously gifted."

On the other hand, I can give you the private thoughts of a world-renowned conductor, who would break his baton over my head if I connected his name with his private views, since they are quite unattractive. The Cliburn business has been a "circus" he told me.

More Circuses
"Let's have more musical circuses," he said. "Let's get into the concert halls all the people who possibly can, by whatever means. Let's expose those people to opera, symphony orchestras, chorales and even piano players, even if it takes a circus to do it. We can convert them to serious music (meaning non-pop) if we can ever get them to listen to it seriously. And that would be a wonderful thing both for music and musicians."

Elman cited the most famous of musical prizes, the Grand Prix de Rome, which has been awarded annually to a graduating student of the Paris Conservatoire for well over a century. Look at Camille Saint Saens, said Elman. He tried twice for it and was turned down twice. Yet he went on to become an esteemed composer.

Now, I don't want to play the wise guy with Elman, whose surpassing merits as a violinist are beyond praise. But look at Claude Debussy; he won the Grand Prix. Also Hector Berlioz who, with Debussy, ranks at the very top. Georges Bizet, who made himself immortal with the opera, "Carmen," won it. Even Charles Gounod won it, and his opera "Faust" certainly has lasted better than the one healthy surviving work of Saint Saens, "Samson and Delilah."

That's no contribution to the pro or circus side of the argument. It's only to show that big music prize-winners of the past frequently have gone on to long-enduring achievements.

Dissimilar Works, But A Similarity

MOSES, PRINCE OF EGYPT. By Howard Fast. Crown. $3.95. THE GREAT DAYS. By John Dos Passos. Sagamore. $4.50.

Moses, the pampered youth in the decadent court of Ramses II, before he enters on the straight and narrow path that leads to the wilderness of Sinai, is the subject of this new novel. A mystery about his birth — he will learn only later about the bulrushes — plagues his curiosity, arouses some animosity among his royal cousins bred with Oriental abundance by the virile Ramses, and sharpens his wits so that he asks the important questions and plunges into adventures which prove his courage.

A thoughtful picture of ancient days along the Nile and occasional stirring scenes of physical prowess do not keep this from being the sort of book you can lay down at quite a few stops, because Fast the scholar sometimes balks at the novelist.

Dos Passos may seem an odd writer to pair with Fast. The differences are considerable, as I'm sure each man would be pleased to point out. But there are at least superficial resemblances. Each has written a lot, each is appearing, I believe, under a new imprint, each may be suspected of a slight movement away from the political Left, Fast having just publicly renounced communism and Dos Passos having in earlier years had a more liberal look than he has now — a change which he denies.

Moses is as remote a subject as a novelist could choose, but Dos Passos' theme is contemporary and political. His "Great Days," a mocking title, are the days when VIPs are a finger in every pie and every pie tasted the worse for it. Ro Lancaster, famous foreign correspondent on his uppers, tries with young Elsa to recapture his youth and cash in again on talents he has squandered. Speaking, I assume, for Dos Passos, he deplores the fact that a man formed of "the superiority of Grotto, the indifference of Harvard — the fad for public service" and of Hyde Park background found it possible "when the time came to run up a butcher's bill and sit there drinking blood with the rest of them."

In another place Ro wonders whether this Hudson River gentleman and his cabinet wouldn't have had as hard a time escaping punishment at a Nuremberg trial, GOSPEL, ORIENTAL STYLE: The Shinnai ballad company of composer Bunya Okamoto presents the premiere performance of the Gospel according to St. John. Okamoto, seated at left, adapted the story of the adulteress to the ancient Japanese art form.

Oriental Ballad Master Interprets The Bible Story

TOKYO — Samisens twanged. Singers in formal silk kimono squatted stiffly on the tiny stage. And the premiere performance of the Gospel according to St. John, in traditional Japanese ballad style, opened to a tiny but select audience.

Reception was mixed. But the Shinnai version of the Holy Scriptures will be repeated many times through Japan.

It was composed by Bunya Okamoto, the nation's master of this ancient and highly sophisticated art. Because of this, the 100 select pupils of Okamoto and their students, numbering many hundreds, will add it to their repertoires.

Okamoto's Shinnai ballad is taken from the eighth chapter of the Gospel of St. John and centers on the theme, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

The composer acknowledges it was at least partially inspired by the anti-prostitution drive.

"The government is doing practically nothing to afford relief to these poor women (who must find other means of livelihood when brothels close April 1," Okamoto declared. "I think a musician is entitled to express a protest."

The Shinnai performance opens with a recitation of the Gospel by one of two female singers to the accompaniment of two samisens, a three-string instrument which sounds something like a lute.

"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her," (a woman accused of adultery), the alto singer chants.

The soprano follows with a declamation asking the audience to define adultery. The declamation gradually changes into a scherzando, as if mocking at all males.

Presently she introduces a modern street walker, a widow with a son.

One of the two male singers joins in, taking the role of a passerby who mocks the street walker.

The street walker responds with a pathetic and passionate aria, the most beautiful piece in the whole work.

The other man approaches the street walker, identifies himself as a police detective, and tries to arrest her. She tries to escape. As she breaks away, a racing motorcar hits and fatally injures her.

The woman dies crying for her son as the singers join in a requiem. The music ends with a stern declamation by the first woman:

"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

History Gripping But Impersonal

A HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH-SPEAKING PEOPLES, Vol. IV: THE GREAT DEMOCRACIES. By Winston S. Churchill. Dodd, Mead, $6. Englishmen exhausted after the Napoleonic wars, in a dismal period of "stagnation," under the thumb of a court "stiff, narrow, fusty" — with this dun-colored picture Churchill opens this last volume of his history. He ends it proudly and happily with a Britain, after 100 trying years largely under the guidance of Queen Victoria, "carried to the leadership of the world."

There is of course a frequent glance across the Channel, first at the "amiable, dreamy" Napoleon III, as Churchill with unexpected forbearance characterizes him, at the wars in Italy, the Low Countries, against Austria and France.

"There is also the story of English-speaking peoples not only near home, in Ireland, but those who scattered to distant places bearing the sublime burden of their country's traditions and institutions."

But mostly he is concerned with the succession of political figures who governed his country, and with us and our presidents, generals and wars, in particular the Civil War, "noblest and least avoidable of all the great mass-conflicts" up to then, he says benignly.

At home — over there — he lists George III and IV, William IV, and then Victoria; Canning, Castlereagh, Wellington, Palmerston, and to close the era, Disraeli and Gladstone. Disraeli gave Britain the Suez Canal; and Gladstone, enjoying a career described as "the most noteworthy of the century," was "the greatest popular leader of his age," a man "hardly equalled in his power to move the people on great moral issues."

At home — over here — Churchill devotes most of his space to the Civil War. He is inclined to regard McClellan as a better general than Lincoln thought him; he is somewhat chary of praising Grant; and he underestimates Lincoln, or does not fully appreciate him. But it was a great war and he expands on it enthusiastically. He follows McClellan south toward Richmond, recounts the two battles of Bull Run, Harpers Ferry, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, the campaigns in the West and Sherman's March to the Sea.

These two last volumes, more than the first two, have pointed up the areas in which Churchill is particularly interested, the areas in which he has worked out his own historic career. Here are not the English-speaking peoples but their leaders only. To be sure, he mentions Croft and Poor Laws, but only as they influence the grand chiefs. This is only part of our world: battlefields, courts, chancelleries and parliaments. It reads grippingly, but you never enter a home, never meet a man-in-the-street, never hear what the common English-speaking people spoke about; you don't know that any book was written, music played, philosophy developed, or even any picture painted — and Churchill a painter himself! One actor does, it is true, got into these pages, a demented one, who shot Lincoln. But he isn't even named.

DISCOUNT CONFESSION

Reds Stick To Mystery Letter

LONDON (AP) — The Russians Saturday night held to their mysterious version of a threat to drop an A-bomb off the English coast — discounting a confession by a disgruntled former British airman that he invented a hoax.

The British Foreign Office was playing cagey, a spokesman saying:

"While the matter is under investigation, it would be not appropriate for us to comment."

Whales' claims, the Russians said, "have no grounds whatever and are imaginary."

A British spokesman confessed "we were shown the original letter and there was no indication of Whales' name or address."

Whales, who was ousted I.R.A.F. a year ago as an unstable, was a question Ipswich police for almost hours Saturday afternoon walked out of the police and told newsmen:

"I made a statement pages long dealing with my father's farm being over, and how I came to be a letter."

No charges were placed on him.

The Russians disclosed "we (are Thursday night) received an anonymous letter, whooping up a Communist campaign to force Americans out of England."

Whales are extremely doubtful about the possibility of a dental nuclear bomb and the publicized letter effect of frightening them even more.

CAROLYN CUMMINGS

Initial Plans

Set For State

De Molay Meet

The sweetheart of the Order of De Molay, Miss Carolyn Cummings, will head a meet of local sororities and other organizations Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to make plans to secure dates for the state convention of De Molay.

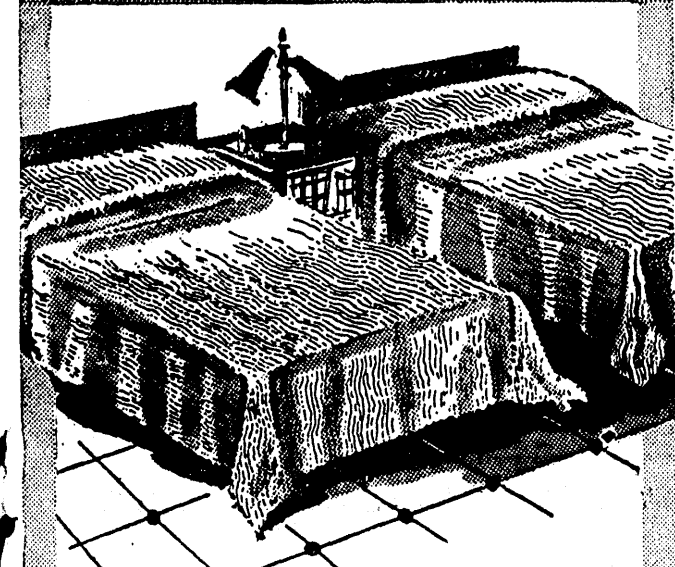

The state convocation will be held in Monroe on August 28 through 30. The job of the date committee will be to secure dates for between 500 and 1,000 young men from over the state who will attend, the convocation, Miss Cummings said.

A graduate of Neville High School, Miss Cummings was elected sweetheart of the local chapter of the organization earlier in the year. She has been sponsored by the local group to run for state sweetheart for the coming year.

Thursday night's meeting will be held in the West Monroe Masonic Temple.

OTHER WAY AROUND ALAMAR, Colo. UPI. Democratic State Sen. Wilkie Ham denied allegations by the state party newspaper Friday that he had voted with the opposition 26 times during the 1957 Legislature. "I never voted with the Republicans," Ham said. "They voted with me."

The engagement of Miss Sophia Rogers Leach to Edsel Faulkner Blanks Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Faulkner Blanks of New Orleans, formerly of Monroe, is announced by her grandmother, Mrs. Hudson Garland Wolfe Sr., also of New Orleans. Miss Leach is the daughter of Neal McCann Leach and the late Mrs. Caroline Wolfe Leach. An early fall wedding is planned.

Mrs. John P. Noel Jr. of Port Arthur, Texas, and Mrs. Frederick W. Fisher of New Orleans, are among the many summer visitors here with their families. Their sons, John P. III, and Frederick Jr., are seeing each other for the first time. Mrs. Noel is the former Miss Ann Shaffo and Mrs. Fisher was Miss Francis Black.

A black and white photograph of a domestic scene. On the left, a woman with dark hair, wearing a light-colored sleeveless dress, sits on a wooden chair holding a baby. The baby is looking towards the camera. In the center, a young child with light hair, wearing a patterned shirt and shorts, sits on the floor. To the right, another woman with dark hair, wearing a dark sleeveless dress, sits on a wooden bench, looking towards the left. Behind them is a wooden cabinet with four doors, each featuring a circular handle. A large potted plant with dark leaves hangs from above, partially obscuring the cabinet. The floor is covered with a patterned rug.

Pan-Hellenic Association Plans A Tea

The Monroe City Pan-Hellenic Association is completing plans for a tea to be held Thursday, July 24, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Bayou de Siard Country Club. Guests for the afternoon will be all girls planning to enter colleges where there are national sororities. Not only girls from Monroe and West Monroe are invited, but also those from surrounding communities of Ouachita Parish will be given a cordial welcome.

Mrs. G. Foster Wallace, president of Pan-Hellenic, requests girls residing outside the Twin Cities to contact Mrs. D. W. Griffin, 1302 Milton, FA 2-1946, if they plan to attend.

A special invitation is extended to all alumnae of national sororities residing in this parish who are interested in becoming affiliated with the Pan-Hellenic Association. A very nominal fee may be paid at that time which will entitle them to membership for the coming year.

A style revue and skits are being planned as part of the afternoon's entertainment.

Late Afternoon Ceremony Unites Amy Lou Smith And James Grey Traxler

In an impressive double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. John F. Gibson of Delhi, Miss Amy Lou Smith became the bride of James Grey Traxler. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bailey Smith of Delhi, and Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Traxler of Delmita, Texas. The wedding took place in the First Baptist Church, Delhi, La., at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, July 5, 1958.

Magnolias intertwined the length of the altar rail and in the background were arrangements of white stock mixed with Majestic daisies, and softly burning tapers that illuminated radiance from the tiered rows of gold candelabras. White satin streamers centered with white majestic daisies, marked the pews reserved for the members of the families.

Mrs. J. B. Smith, Jr., played nuptial music which included "Claire de Lune," "Traumerie," "To a Wild Rose," "Salut D'Amour," "Oh Promise Me," and the traditional wedding marches, accompanied Mrs. Elizabeth Ballard, soloist, who sang, "Through the Years," "Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "Oh Perfect Love."

The brides attendants were Mrs. C. B. Cutler, sister of the bride, matron of honor, and Miss Sue Smith, sister of the bride, maid of honor, both of Delhi. They were identically attired in waltz length pastel yellow and mint green dresses of silk organza. The brides were styled with deep, square necklines edged in matching satin and empire waistlines encircled in the satin. The full princess waltz-length skirts featured full panels of the silk organza extending down the back of the gown. Upon their heads were laticed garden hats of yellow and green horse hair braid which featured around the crown of the hat a tiny crown of daisies in matching color. Matching slippers and a takedown pearl necklace completed their ensembles.

The brides attendants carried garden baskets filled with yellow and green painted daisies in matching colors of their dresses. Billy Ray Traxler, brother of the groom, Nederland, Texas, isiana State University, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in journalism. He is a member of the "I" Club and Phi Eta Sigma, honorary fraternity. He is a native of New York state and served two years in the United States army.

The couple plan to make their home in Beaumont, Texas.

taffeta and tulle cloth caught up at the corners by white satin bells which fell from clusters of pale pink satin ribbon. At either end of the table were the punch bowl and the three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in all white, around the base of the wedding cake were placed miniature white, silver and pink tulle rice bags, topped with miniature bows and flowers.

Serving cake were Mrs. J. G. Waters, Oak Grove, La., and Mrs. Sam Antony, of New Orleans. At the punch service were Miss Mary Bondurant, and Miss Carrice Russell both of Winnsboro, La. Miss Billie Sue Swindall, Freeport, Texas, Mrs. John C. DeVanie, Delhi, assisted in the reception room and welcomed the guests.

When the time came for the bride and bridegroom to leave on their wedding trip, Little Misses Susan Ann, Connie, and Carrice Lou Cutler, and Sandra Gay Smith, nieces of the bride, circulated among the guests, presenting them with dainty rice bags.

The bride changed to a pale blue suit and donned a hat of white raw silk. Her other accessories were in matching blue. Following a wedding trip to Alabama and Florida, the couple will make their home in Houston, Texas, where Mr. Traxler is employed.

Use one part of catchup or chili sauce to three parts of mayonnaise when you are making Russian dressing, then add minced green pepper, pimiento - stuffed olives, capers and pickle relish.

MISS SHIRLEY FA KILPATRICK's engagement to Irvin F. Barnes, son of Mrs. Q. Barnes Sr., of Calhoun and the late Mr. Barnes, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kilpatrick of Bastrop. The wedding will take place on July 10, in the Sec Baptist Church of Bastrop.

When lamp shades and bulbs are dusty and dirty, you can cut down the light getting by as much as 20 percent. Bulbs should be wiped with damp cloth and then gon olives, capers and pickle relish, with a clean dry cloth.

Miss Panquin, G. McDonald Exchange Vows

TALLULAH — Miss Betty Ann Panquin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Panquin and George McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter McDonald were united in marriage at the Willow Bayou Baptist church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Lucian G. Conway officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The church was beautifully decorated with masses of magnolia blossoms and cathedral candles forming the background. On either side of the altar were tall white baskets of white gladioli and daisies and in each window was a single magnolia and foliage. The reserved pews were marked with white ribbon bows and magnolia buds.

Mrs. B. L. Kuhn played the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Doris Kuhn who sang "Because" and at the conclusion of the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer."

The maid of honor, Miss Ruth McDonald and bridesmaids, Miss

Shirley Keyes, Miss Louise Kayser and Miss Merl Sullivan wore identical dresses of ice blue, crystalline over taffeta with fitted bodices, V shaped necklines, short sleeves and full waltz length skirts. Their matching headresses were trimmed with flowers and they carried nosegays of pink carnations. Linda Panquin, the flower girl was dressed in blue nylon of the same shade and flowers similar to the maids.

The bride, escorted by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of embroidered net over taffeta, fashioned with high round neckline, brief sleeves, princess style bodice closing in the back with tiny buttons. Her bouffant skirt over hoops was floor length and the finger tip veil fell from a band encrusted with pearls and sequins. She carried a purple throated orchid on a white prayer book.

Frank McDonald served his brother as best man and the groomsmen were Charles Edward Powell, James Panquin and Jimmy Sturdivant. Little Davis McDonald Jr., was the ring bearer. Mrs. Panquin chose for her daughter's wedding an orchid colored silk and Mrs. McDonald, the groom's mother wore pale blue silk. Their corsages were white flowers.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception at the American Legion Home which was decorated with seasonal flowers.

Miss Norma Jean Bingham invited guests to register in the guest book. The lace draped refreshment table was centered with a bowl of daisies and crystal candelabra holding white tapers on either side. At one end was the tiered wedding cake served by Mrs. Thelma Sessions and Miss Betty Jean Herman and at the opposite end Miss Leona Trim presided at the punch service.

When the couple left for a trip to Shreveport the bride was wearing a light pink sheath dress with white accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

erson of Monroe and the late Mr. Patterson. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. H. L. Hammons of Downsville and the late Mr. Hammons. The groom - elect is a graduate of Downsville High School, attended Louisiana Tech and is a student at Northeast State College.

Pan-Hellenic Association Plans A Tea

The Monroe City Pan-Hellenic Association is completing plans for a tea to be held Thursday, July 24, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Bayou De-Sard Country Club. Guests for the afternoon will be all girls planning to enter colleges where there are national sororities. Not only girls from Monroe and West Monroe are invited, but also those from surrounding communities of Ouachita Parish will be given a cordial welcome.

Mrs. G. Foster Wallace, president of Pan-Hellenic, requests girls residing outside the Twin Cities to contact Mrs. D. W. Griffin, 1302 Milton, FA 2-1946, if they plan to attend.

A special invitation is extended to all alumnae of national sororities residing in this parish who are interested in becoming affiliated with the Pan-Hellenic Association. A very nominal fee may be paid at that time which will entitle them to membership for the coming year.

A style revue and skits are being planned as part of the afternoon's entertainment.

Late Afternoon Ceremony Unites Amy Lou Smith And James Grey Traxler

In an impressive double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. John F. Gibson of Delhi, Miss Amy Lou Smith became the bride of James Grey Traxler. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bailey Smith of Delhi, and Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Traxler of Delmita, Texas. The wedding took place in the First Baptist Church, Delhi, La., at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, July 5, 1958.

Magnolias intertwined the length of the altar rail and in the background were arrangements of white stock mixed with Majestic daisies, and softly burning tapers that illuminated radiance from the tiered rows of gold candelabras. White satin streamers centered with white majestic daisies, marked the pews reserved for the members of the families.

Mrs. J. B. Smith, Jr., played nuptial music which included "Claire de Lune," "Traumerie," "To a Wild Rose," "Salut D'Amour," "Oh Promise Me," and the traditional wedding marches, accompanied Mrs. Elizabeth Ballard, soloist, who sang, "Through the Years," "Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "Oh Perfect Love."

The brides attendants were Mrs. C. B. Cutler, sister of the bride, matron of honor, and Miss Sue Smith, sister of the bride, maid of honor, both of Delhi. They were identically attired in waltz length pastel yellow and mint green dresses of silk organza. The brides were styled with deep, square necklines edged in matching satin and empire waistlines encircled in the satin. The full princess waltz-length skirts featured full panels of the silk organza extending down the back of the gown. Upon their heads were latticed garden hats of yellow and green horse hair braid which featured around the crown of the hat a tiny crown of daisies in matching color. Matching slippers and a tardrop pearl necklace completed their ensembles.

The brides attendants carried garden baskets filled with yellow and green painted daisies in matching colors of their dresses. Billy Ray Traxler, brother of the groom, Nederland, Texas, isiana State University, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in journalism. He is a member of the "L" Club and Phi Eta Sigma, honorary fraternity. He is a native of New York State and served two years in the United States army.

The couple plan to make their home in Beaumont, Texas.

taffeta and tulle cloth caught up at the corners by white satin bells which fell from clusters of pale pink satin ribbon. At either end of the table were the punch bowl and the three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in all white, around the base of the wedding cake were placed miniature white, silver and pink tulle rice bags, topped with miniature bows and flowers.

Serving cake were Mrs. J. G. Waters, Oak Grove, La., and Mrs. Sam Antony, of New Orleans. At the punch service were Miss Mary Bondurant, and Miss Carrice Russell both of Winnsboro, La. Miss Billie Sue Swindall, Freeport, Texas, Mrs. John C. DeVanie, Delhi, assisted in the reception room and welcomed the guests.

When the time came for the bride and bridegroom to leave on their wedding trip, Little Misses Susan Ann, Connie, and Carrice Lou Cutler, and Sandra Gay Smith, nieces of the bride, circulated among the guests, presenting them with dainty rice bags.

The bride changed to a pale blue suit and donned a hat of white raw silk. Her other accessories were in matching blue. Following a wedding trip to Alabama and Florida, the couple will make their home in Houston, Texas, where Mr. Traxler is employed.

Use one part of catchup or chili sauce to three parts of mayonnaise when you are making Russian dressing, then add minced green pepper, pimiento - stuffed olives, capers and pickle relish.

MISS SHIRLEY FA KILPATRICK'S engagement to Irvin F. Barnes, son of Mrs. G. Barnes Sr., of Calhoun and the late Mr. Barnes, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kilpatrick of Bastrop. The wedding will take place on July 10, in the St. Baptist Church of Bastrop.

Miss Panquin, G. McDonald Exchange Vows

TALLULAH — Miss Betty Ann Panquin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Panquin and George McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, were united in marriage at the Willow Bayou Baptist church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Lucian G. Conway officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The church was beautifully decorated with masses of magnolia blossoms and cathedral candles forming the background. On either side of the altar were tall white baskets of white gladioli and daisies and in each window was a single magnolia and foliage. The reserved pews were marked with white ribbon bows and magnolia buds.

Mrs. B. L. Kuhn played the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Doris Kuhn who sang "Because" and at the conclusion of the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer."

The maid of honor, Miss Ruth McDonald and bridesmaids, Miss

Shirley Keyes, Miss Louise Keyes and Miss Merl Sullivan wore identical dresses of ice blue, crystalline over taffeta with fitted bodices, V shaped necklines, short sleeves and full length skirts. Their matching headresses were trimmed with flowers and they carried nosegays of pink carnations. Linda Panquin, the flower girl was dressed in blue nylon of the same shade and flowers similar to the brides.

The bride, escorted by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of embroidered net over tulle, fashioned with high round neckline, brief sleeves, princess style bodice closing in the back with tiny buttons. Her bouffant skirt over hoops was floor length and the finger tip veil fell from a band encrusted with pearls and sequins. She carried a purple throat orchid on a white prayer book.

Frank McDonald served his brother as best man and the groomsmen were Charles Edward Powell, James Panquin and Jimmy Sturdivant. Little Davis McDonald Jr., was the ring bearer.

Mrs. Panquin chose for her daughter's wedding an orchid colored silk and Mrs. McDonald, the groom's mother wore pale blue silk. Their corsages were white flowers.

The bride's parents entertained

MRS. JAMES E. SMITH, JR.

Miss Edith Marie Donald And James E. Smith, Jr. Exchange Wedding Vows

The wedding of Miss Edith Marie Donald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Donald of West Monroe, and James E. Smith, Jr., of Tullos, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Smith, was solemnized in Chapel Hill Baptist Church in West Monroe on Sunday, June 22, with the Rev. Harold Cook officiating.

Entwined vines and greenery formed the background, with high arches of lighted tapers directly back of the wedding party. Tall baskets of gladioli and greenery were placed on either side of the altar, with satin ribbon marking the pews for the families of the wedding party.

The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Vivian Staples of Calhoun, and Miss Betty Miller of Winnsboro was soloist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Simon Donald of San Antonio, the bride wore a gown styled with a square neckline, short cap sleeves accented with tulle lace, with a bouffant floor-length skirt of embroidered tulle and a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil cascaded from a pearl encrusted Juliet cap which was shaped in points over her forehead and she carried a bouquet of tiny white stephanotis blossoms encircling a large white orchid with tiny bows on satin streamers.

Attendants
Miss Ginger Henry of West Monroe, the maid-of-honor, wore a most becoming gown of blue crystalene with cap sleeves and a full walk-length skirt, her shoes and wide picture hat were of matching shade. Her bouquet of white carnations were surrounded with white net bows, all on a background of simulated pink leaves.

The bridesmaids — Misses Elsie Garrett of Springhill, Mrs. Jane Jay Caterel of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. Betty Smith of Alexandria, wore identical dresses to that of the maid-of-honor.

Donna Lou Shocum of Shreveport, and Sandra Sue Staples of Calhoun, cousins of the bride were the candle lighters. The little flower girl, also the bride's cousin, Debora Nolan of Monroe, was dressed in blue with blue slippers. Rickey Smith of Alexandria, nephew of the groom was ring-bearer.

The groom chose his brother, Richard Smith as best man. The groomsmen were: Dr. Albert S. Donald of West Monroe, brother of the bride; Otto Smith of Alexandria, brother of the groom, and Tip McKnight of Columbia.

Mrs. Donald, the bride's mother, wore a sheath gown fashioned of shantung fabric with accents of rhinestones on the bodice, with white accessories. Her corsage was a large purple orchid. The groom's mother, Mrs. James E. Smith was becomingly dressed in a pink linen dress with white accessories and she wore an orchid corsage.

Reception
The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in

Miss Oliver And Sebron Sowell Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Oliver, 4401 Jackson Street, are today announcing the wedding of their daughter, Joyce Loraine to Sebron Russell Sowell. The wedding took place at the Church of Christ, on Jackson Street, with E. C. McKenzie officiating, on Monday, June 23.

The bride was lovely in a sheath dress of sky blue linen with insets of blue lace with white accessories and her only piece of jewelry was an antique pearl necklace, a family heirloom.

Only members of the family attended the ceremony, which was followed by an informal reception at the home of her parents.

Joyce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Oliver, Jr. and the granddaughter of Mrs. Bertha Oliver and the late James M. Oliver, Sr., and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pittman of Rayville, La. Mr. Sowell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sowell of Alexandria, La.

Miss Spruill And Joseph Pankey Exchange Vows

One of the loveliest summer weddings was the marriage of Miss Carolyn Spruill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lee Spruill of St. Joseph, to Mr. Joseph Harry Hamilton Pankey, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton Pankey of Ferriday. The impressive ceremony took place on Sunday, June fifteenth at four o'clock in the afternoon at the St. Joseph Baptist Church. Rev. Ray E. Prager officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Vows were exchanged before a background of waxed magnolia leaves and softly burning white cathedral tapers that illuminated radiance from the tiered rows of wrought iron candelabras. Also gracing the altar were baskets of white gladioli and soft willowy greenery.

The nuptial music was presented by Miss Pat James of Shreveport at the piano, who accompanied Miss Marcia Ford of Natchitoches in beautiful vocal renditions of "With This Ring" and "Serenade." At the close of the ceremony Miss Ford sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Lighting the candles were Messrs. Bill Plunkett of Winnsboro and Roger Zettler of Ferriday.

Ushering the guests to their seats were Messrs. Tommy Martiny of St. Joseph, Leo Young and Donnie Daye of Ferriday, and Maxie Almond of Coushatta.

The bride given in marriage to her father was radiantly lovely in a gown of hand clipped Alencon lace and tulle over white bridal satin. The bodice of the lace was enhanced with tiny seed pearls at the sabbina neckline and the long fitted sleeves of the lace ended in lily points at the wrist. The voluminous skirt was fashioned with tiers of the tulle edged with a wide panel of the hand clipped lace; each tier was graduated and dipped a little in the back to form the chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of imported tulle fell softly from a queen's crown of the starched lace encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent embroidery. Her cascade bouquet was centered with a white orchid surrounded by white roses and lilies of the valley.

At the first notes of the prelude the bride's entourage entered. Miss Willie Mae Spruill, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Her dress was of shell pink silk taffeta. The basque waist was fashioned with a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. The bell shaped petal skirt was caught in front with a large butterfly bow at the waistline. Her satin slippers were of a matching hue; and she wore a tiny headband of the silk taffeta with a pale pink face veil. She carried a nosegay bouquet of pink carnations surrounded with blue tulle and tied with blue satin ribbon streamers.

The bride's attendants were Misses Carolyn Smith, Jeri Comer, and Jane Clarke of St. Joseph and Miss Kahne Diapola of Baton Rouge. Serving as junior bridesmaids were Miss Edith DeWitt of Newellton, cousin of the bride and Miss Marylon Gailman of Rayville, cousin of the groom. Their dresses were of an ice blue silk taffeta and made identical to the maid of honor's. They carried nosegay bouquets of the blue carnations surrounded with the pink tulle and tied with the pink satin streamers.

Little Miss Mel Lathan was the flower girl. She wore a floor length white organdy dress fashioned like the brides' dress and she carried a basket of pink roses. Ring bearer was Master Tommy Daves of St. Joseph who was attired in a white linen suit.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Mr. Joseph Pankey of Winnsboro. The groomsmen were Messrs. Don Horton of Ferriday, David McCarty of Rayville, Charles Morgan of Pine Bluff, Ark. and Billy Jack Booth of Farmerville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Spruill chose a white lace sheath over pink taffeta fashioned with a pink taffeta cummerbund which fell in a panel to one side. She wore white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Pankey, chose a light blue lace dress over matching taffeta, with accessories of the same color and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse K. Cowan, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The bride's table was overlaid with an exquisite heirloom drawn-work line banquet cloth, centered with a handsome arrangement of white gladioli and fernery flanked by white tapers in silver candelabras. On one end of the table was placed a crystal punch bowl and on the other end was the traditional tiered wedding cake, decorated with sugar spun roses.

Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Bill Poe of Newellton and Miss Nancy Albright of Monroe. Cutting the cake were Miss Alice Hulls of Newellton and Mrs. James A. Harp of St. Joseph. Tea girls were Misses Faye Reardon and Johnnie Mae Webb.

Mrs. Harrison C. Miller, III and Miss Sue Ware of West Monroe presided at the guest register. Others assisting in the courtesies and serving as floating hostesses were Mrs. Sprague DeWitt of Newellton, Mrs. Jesse K. Cowan of Natchez, and Mrs. W. A. Spruill of St. Joseph, aunts of the bride.

Smith-Holmes Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

WINNSBORO — The Temple Baptist Church was the setting of the beautiful wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Carolyn Holmes of Winnsboro and Glenn C. Smith of Monroe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holmes of Winnsboro and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emile Smith of West Monroe.

The Rev. Paul Kolb performed the impressive double ring ceremony on June 22, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with three tall baskets of gladioli placed before a background of fern and palms. Five branched candelabra held the white cathedral tapers which glowed over the wedding party.

Mrs. B. O. Robertson presented pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Clyde Gandy who sang "Because."

The bride was a picture of loveliness as she entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a full-length gown of imported Chantilly lace and crystalite. The bodice was fashioned with lace and enhanced with iridescent sequins at the neckline, and the sleeves were short. The bouffant skirt, accented with lace panels, swept to the floor in a train. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her bouquet was arranged of four white orchids which she carried on a white Bible.

Miss Carolyn Peoples served as the maid of honor. She was gowned in a yellow cotton satin model fashioned with a gilded bodice and a full ballarina length skirt with overskirt of matching sheer crystalite. Her headdress was of matching satin with tiny pearls attached to the tiara. She carried a green carnation bouquet.

Misses Sondra Faye Garcin and Francis Robinson were candlelighters. They wore gowns of pale green cotton with gilded bodices. The full skirts were enhanced with a sash of matching chiffon. Their corsages were yellow carnations with matching satin ribbon.

Wayne Huff served as best man at the wedding.

Serving as ushers were Dale Smith, James Robinson, Courtney Hatten, and Arnold Ray Hendrix.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Holmes wore a navy shantung with matching lace trim, white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Smith was wearing a pretty rose lace model with complementary accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church parlor following the service. The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth over green. Pink carnations and pink tapers were used in the centerpiece for the table. The wedding cake and the large crystal punch service were placed at opposite ends of the table. Mrs. Dorothy Parker served the punch, and Mrs. Elmer Wilson and Mrs. R. H. Garcin, Jr., alternated at the cake service.

Following the reception the young couple departed on their wedding trip to points of interest in Tennessee.

For traveling the bride wore a beige dress with complementary accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride graduated from Winnsboro High School and Louisiana Business College.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Harrisonburg High School and attended Louisiana Business School.

Miss Watts And Earl Sullivan Exchange Vows

A wedding of simple elegance and exquisite beauty marked the exchange vows on Saturday evening, June 21, when Miss Emma Joe Watts, of Start, became the bride of William Earl Sullivan of West Monroe. The six o'clock ceremony was performed by Rev. Cecil Mims at the Crew Lake Methodist Church, in the presence of a great concourse of friends and relatives.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Watts of Start. Mr. Sullivan is the son of Mrs. Roy Sullivan and the late Mr. Sullivan of West Monroe.

Preceding the ceremony, James L. Sullivan of Bastrop rendered at the piano the beautiful "Chopin Nocturne" and portions of "Scene Nocturne" and portions of "Scenes from Childhood." He accompanied Cecil Watts as he sang the immortal "Because" and "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Awaiting the entrance of the bride at the altar with the groom was his best man, his brother, Gerald Dean Sullivan of Shreveport.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and fern formed a lovely background. The low chancel rail was entwined with garlands of ivy interspersed at intervals with clusters of white gladioli. A mass arrangement of Shasta daisies adorned the piano.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were the ushers John Myrich Watts and Johnnie Montgomery. Following was Mrs. Cecil Watts, the bride's only attendant in a frock of Nile green cotton featuring a bouffant, pleated skirt. A white picture hat and accessories completed her ensemble. Her colonial nosegay was of pink carnations with streamers of white satin ribbon.

The bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father. She chose an alluring gown of white orlon organza with a low scooped neckline, modeled along empire lines. A billowy skirt featured the new deep hem. Her fingertip veil of allusion was of nylon tulle and cascaded from a tiara of nylon leaf clusters and pearls. Her bouquet was a white orchid amid clusters of white French carnations, tulle and ribbons on a white Bible.

Immediately after the ceremony was a reception in the home of the bride's parents. The wedding party and the mothers of the couple stood in the receiving line.

Mrs. Watts chose a blue cotton ensemble with white accessories and she wore a corsage of white

MR. AND MRS. JERRY FLEMING

A Candlelight Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Hankins, J. Fleming

An impressive double ring ceremony united in marriage Miss Carolyn Hankins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin Hankins, and Jerry Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ennis H. Fleming, all of this city.

The Rev. Leon Ivey performed the candlelight ceremony before an altar decorated with shasta daisies, lilies and gladioli. Green plants added to the beauty of the meeting.

Mrs. Elwin Williams was the soloist who sang "Oh Promise Me," and "Because," accompanied by Mrs. Phillip Kulcke at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gown in white lace over taffeta which had a round neckline and extended bodice. The voluminous skirt of lace extended into a court train. Her veil of illusion fashioned in two tiers fell from a tiara of lace and seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls at her neck. The bouquet was an orchid surrounded with stephanotis and garlands of ivy leaves and bridal pearls.

Mrs. Lorraine McKisler served the bride as matron of honor. She wore an aqua lace gown and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Billy Ezell served the groom as best man and the candlelighters were Jimmy Stapleton and Jackie Tanner.

Mrs. Hankins chose to wear for her daughter's wedding a blue suit with a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a blue chiffon accented by a white carnation corsage.

Reception
Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The reception rooms were artistically decorated with lilies, shasta daisies and other white summer blossoms.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and held at one end, the three tiered wedding cake, where Mrs. Louis Tanner presided. Miss Linda Trewett presided at the crystal punch bowl at the other end of the table.

Registering the guests was Mrs. J. W. Hankins.

The bride chose for travel, an eyelet sheath model with a corsage of pink carnations at her shoulder.

The couple will be at home in Jackson, Tenn.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast State College.

The groom is a graduate of Lake Providence High School and of Northeast State College.

BLUE FOR BICYCLES

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(UPI)—Police Chief Harold F. Kelly has ordered that all owners and riders of unlicensed bicycles be issued blue tags. He says more than 10,000 persons fall in that category and are in violation of a city ordinance. The blue tickets also are a boon to police in identifying owners of stolen or misplaced bicycles. There is no fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Berry of Bastrop, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Bennie Faye Berry, to Erle Edwards Barham of Oak Ridge.

The wedding will take place on August 24, at the First Methodist Church of Bastrop.

FIRE CHIEF SETS FIRE

NARA, Japan —(UPI)— Volunteer fire chief Masayuki Onishi, angered that citizens in his small farming village refused to donate money for a new water tank, set fire to the barn of the leader of the opposition, sounded the alarm and then directed the fire-fighting. Police found him out.

A Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple

A double ring ceremony of beauty and simplicity united in marriage Miss Gertrude Caldwell and Arnold L. Fisher in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Carpenter.

The bride is the daughter of

"ALL'S FAIR IN..."

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Jim Fair may not be playing fair when he begins his campaign to unseat elderly Jerry Carter as a member of the state railroad and public utilities commission. The young businessman intends to prove his physical fitness for the post by campaigning on a bicycle.

Mrs. Mattie Caldwell and the late U. M. Caldwell Sr., of West Monroe. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Fisher of Columbia.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Carpenter before a background of greenery and floral arrangements.

The bride was attired in a blue linen dress designed with a square neckline accented with white embroidery. Her white hat was enhanced with tiny seed pearls. At her shoulder was a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Jewel McCorkle, the bride's only attendant, chose a beige linen dress with white accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow mums.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Tommy Fisher.

After a wedding trip to California, the couple will be at home post by campaigning on a bicycle.

MRS. ARNOLD L. FISHER

MR. AND MRS. JONATHAN SIMS CROSS of Ferriday announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elva Jo to Samuel Dill Pierce, son of Harry Lynwood Pierce of Ferriday and Mrs. Harold Almon Marron of Dallas, Texas. The wedding will be at four o'clock in the afternoon on Friday the fifteenth of August at the First Presbyterian Church of Ferriday.

DEAR ABBY

Lack Of Understanding Makes Poor Marriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband used to tell me that he had to sleep in another room because my snoring kept him awake at night. Like a fool I believed him until a friend of mine told me that she saw my husband out one night in a little town near here, folk-dancing until two o'clock in the morning. I stayed up four nights and nothing happened, but on Friday night after he went to bed I heard him take the screen off, and caught him climbing out the window, all dressed up. We had a big fight about this, but he won't admit anything. How can I get him to confess?

CAUGHT HIM

DEAR CAUGHT HIM: What is there to confess? If he is so crazy about folk-dancing — learn how, and go with him. P.S. Get back in your bedroom, too.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a boy to ask a girl for her measurements?

DIXIE

DEAR DIXIE: Not unless he's knitting her a sweater.

DEAR ABBY: If people complain about eating around dogs they should have had my experience at a counter in a snack-fountain yesterday. A lady came in and sat beside me on the fountain stool and ordered a glass of milk. She had a bag of fig bars in a sack, so she ate them with the milk. The seeds must have got under her plate because she took them out (uppers and lowers) and proceeded to wash her plates in her glass of drinking water. Did you, Dear Abby, ever hear of a dog taking out his store teeth and washing them in a glass of water? Some people are disgusting!

DEAR ABBY: Do you suppose there is something the matter with me? I've got two fellows who want to marry me, but I don't care for either of them. My mother is having a fit. She says, "Name me one thing that is wrong with either of them!" And, Abby, I can't name one thing wrong with either of them. I am 22 years old, have a good job and am not worried about being an old maid, but my mother is driving me crazy. Please tell me what to do?

NOT READY

DEAR NOT: Your mother had the privilege of picking out ONE husband in the family—hers. Tell her you'd like the same privilege and not to rush you.

MRS. CHARLES ANDREW PAPE

Miss Elinor Mae Sandborn And Charles Andrew Pape Exchange Marriage Vows

The first Methodist Church of Crossett was the scene yesterday, at 10:00 a.m. of the wedding of Miss Elinor Mae Sandborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Thompson Sandborn, and Charles Andrew Pape, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Pape, of Fort Smith.

The Rev. John B. Hefley officiated at the double ring ceremony before a background decorated with white garden flowers and ivy. Mrs. W. B. Anderson was organist, and Miss Elaine Wallace of Dallas, Texas, soloist, sang "At Dawning," prior to the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Swiss embroidered organdy. The long stemmed bodice, square scalloped neckline, and brief shirred sleeves were complemented by matching organdy mitts. The floor length skirt was composed of cascading tiers of embroidery. Her veil of imported illusion fell from a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms to her finger tips. She carried a small spray of daisies, lily of the valley, and dwarf ivy.

Miss Susanne Sandborn, of Fort Worth, Texas, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Her white dress was patterned with blue and green roses, and softly pleated at the waist and neckline. She wore a white picture hat with brilliant blue streamers, and carried a spray of daisies and dwarf ivy. Bridesmaids were Miss Gerry Sue Hartman and Miss Cynthia Smith, of Dallas. They wore dresses similar to that of the honor attendant, and identical hats and flowers.

Marian Moore and Deborah Conner served as flower girls, in white organdy dresses with sashes and headbands of brilliant blue velveteen. They carried baskets of white garden flowers and ivy.

The groom chose Jack Smithson, of Fort Smith, to serve as best man. Groomsmen were William Robert Pape, Jr., of Oklahoma City, brother of the groom, and Arthur Ruback, of Dallas. Philip Snedecor and Douglas Jarvis, both of Dallas, served as ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a willow green silk shantung dress with matching hat and white accessories. A white orchid corsage was pinned at her shoulder. The mother of the groom was dressed in beige and wore a brown-throated orchid corsage.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception in the Church Social Hall immediately following the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. James Kline, of Oxford, Mississippi, Mrs. Fred Hudgens Jr., and Mrs. Allen Cameron, Miss Laurie Hastings gave miniature rice bags to the guests.

Following a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Dallas, Texas.

Well, let's face it—summer is for children. Or as they used to say about the circus, for children of all ages, seven days to 107 years. Swimming, boating, model airplanes, ball games . . . even going to the movies becomes a "picture show party" if you take along some friends.

A Fourth of July theme was used in the decorations for MIKE SAGER's sixth birthday Thursday. Fourteen little friends joined Mike for a swim in the Bayou de l'Est club pool, followed by ice cream and cake. The table was centered with flags, and the plates and napkins echoed the patriotic motif. The white cake was trimmed with red candles and a big red firecracker.

MARGARET BEACHAM, daughter of the DAN BEACHAMS of New Orleans, is here visiting her grandmother, MILDRED JACKSON. JOHN and JENNIFER JACKSON honored their cousin with a luncheon and picture show party. Guests attending were ALICE SMITH, SHERRY DICKENHORST, MARY POLK, LELA GODWIN, LYN LOFLIN, NELSON WARNER, and THOMAS USERY.

Wednesday CAROL MADDEN was hostess to Margaret and her cousins at a luncheon and picture show party. . . . On Thursday DORIS FRAZIER and her sons JIM and DON PAT invited the cousins and the grown-ups to a spaghetti meal at the Italian Village.

Celebrating her seventh birth-

SUE STUBBS' black marquisette sack, worn over a black silk sheath. . . . JUNE HOLMES' spring green sheer cotton with a panel back. . . . and ALINE GUTHRIE's white batiste with rows and rows of tucks and lace insertions.

MARY ANN DIXON wore a white hat with her aqua overblouse suit. . . . TRUE HUDSON was in dark royal blue. . . . Side ties at the neckline accented ASHLEY HAMILTON's black silk chemise. . . . With her spring green cotton, SALLIE SHARTO wore a flower hat made entirely of lilies of the valley. . . . JOYCE KELLOGG's cartwheel hat was a gorgeous blend of orange and green straw. . . . With a white lace dress, MILDRED EDWARDS wore a white hat trimmed in pale blue roses. . . . FRANCES HALE's white linen sheath was embroidered with pink flowers. . . . In an orange and yellow checked linen overblouse chemise was MAXINE BOARDMAN. . . . A white lace cummerbund emphasized the high waistline of HELEN THEUS black polished cotton. . . . Hostesses for this party were MARIE BERNSTEIN, HILDA M'DONALD, DOT BREARD, and NANCY WEAKS.

The RUDY MINTYRES left Wednesday to make their home in Winnsboro. Before their departure, several informal parties were held. Using a fictitious name, members of Nell's church circle called and made an appointment to look at the house. They came in with refreshments and all the fixings for a little surprise party. A beautiful hand-painted tray was Nell's going-away present.

BETSY OSBORN and ELLENOR RUTH POLK honored Nell with a dessert bridge. Three tables played. Prize-winners were PETE KELLEY, first; and KATHY M'DUFFIE, second. The honoree's gift was a milk glass serving piece.

A back yard fish fry Monday night was the PAUL NEAL's compliment. Also attending were MRS. W. H. TURRENTINE of Pollock, and the VAN ODOMS. With the children of the three families, the guests numbered fourteen. Also complimenting the M'intyres was the party hosted by MILDRED and GRADY M'DUFFIE at their home on Francis Place.

Several hundred elegantly dressed ladies attended the tea honoring AINSIE SNELLING Saturday. Denise spied dozens of lovely outfits such as the younger ANNOUNCEMENT is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Delores De La Salle to Jerry T. Pender. She is the daughter of Mrs. Charley M. De La Salle of this city and the late Mr. De La Salle, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Pender of Bosco. The wedding will take place on July 24, at seven o'clock in the evening in the Bosco Baptist Church.

The meal was a complete Indonesian dinner — chicken curry with rice, chutney, toasted almonds, coconut, and other trimmings for curry. . . . Bridge followed the dinner, with SAM SAVASO winning the prize. . . . Creme de menthe parfait was served later in the evening.

Another interesting dinner party was that hosted Thursday night (should we say July the Fourth Eve?) by the FRED COTTONS.

This affair was held on the porch of the Bayou de l'Est Country Club, with about fifteen couples attending. The table was covered with a green cloth and centered with majestic daisies used in a crystal centerpiece. The seasonal motif was carried out with place cards decorated with tiny flags. Out of town guests attending were NANCY WILSON and the W. F.

COTTONS, SR., of Alexandria.

Saturday night the BURCHALL LILES entertained in honor of BENNIE FAY BERRY of Bastrop and EDWARDS BARHAM of Oak Ridge. Daisies were used with grape vines one one of the two dining tables. The other table was centered with an arrangement of fresh fruit and grape vines on one of the attended the dinner party.

Guests of the WALTER ERNSTS for about two weeks are MR. and MRS. WALTER ERNST, SR., and the KELLER FILBERTS of Cincinnati, Ohio; and PHYLLIS STOCKLAND of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin. The Filbert children, DAVID, DONNA SUE, and DIANA LYNN, remained here while their parents went to New Orleans for a few days.

Reporting a wonderful time on the Gulf coast were the DWIGHT HANSENS, who returned from a week at the Edgewater Gulf. Sons STEVE and MARK enjoyed the children's activities planned in connection with the conference for their parents. . . . MR. and MRS. CALVIN DOELL of New Orleans were here for a short visit with the BEN JOHNSTONS last week end.

The GEORGE LEWISES entertained half of a family reunion last week end, when four of her eight brothers were here. SGT. and MRS. A. R. MANGHAM and their three children were passing through en route to his new station in California. Here for a visit with them were MR. and MRS. L. E. MANGHAM and two children of Baton Rouge; the M. A. MANGHAMS of Gulfport; and the P. B. MANGHAMS and their three children of West Monroe. . . . All eight brothers and one sister will gather in Gulfport for a week end in July.

Blue carnations by the dozens were used throughout the Highland Park Country Club last Saturday when an open house and semi-formal dance marked the official opening. Among the several hundred guests and members we spied MARY ELIZABETH JACKA in black chiffon. . . . MARGIE ROBERSON in blue brocade with rhinestone clips. . . . MRS. F. E. MAXWELL in black lace. . . . EARLINE HAYNES in powder blue.

SHIRLEY HAMILTON's toast colored shoes were dyed to match the flowers applied on her white voile skirt. . . . Scattered rhinestones trimmed NANCY FLUKE's red lace. . . . BONNIE PASSMAN chose a pink cotton with balloon skirt. . . . With the TOMAS GILHULAS was their guest, MARTHA HAMILTON OWENS of Lima, Peru. Martha was wearing a white lace sheath with a flounce at the knees. . . . In green taffeta was VAL NICHOLS. . . . MRS. GORDIE RAY was in white with cabbage roses. . . . JUNE RICHARDSON's red chiffon was fashioned with a harem skirt. . . . Rows down the front trimmed JANIE EINHORN's white pique. . . . LAINE MAHONEY was in white organza, while LEORA LACEY chose strapless white lace.

For the Fourth of July week end, what could be more suitable than the words on love of country, from Sir Walter Scott's "Lay of the Last Minstrel":

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said:
"This is my own, my native land?"
Whose heart hath ne'er within
As home his footsteps he hath turned From wandering on a foreign strand?
If such there breathe, go mark him well;
For him no minstrel raptures swell;
High though his titles, proud his name,

Boundless his wealth as wish ear claim,
Despite those titles, power and pelf,
The wretch concentred all in self
Living, shall forfeit fair renown
And doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored, and unsung.

Cutting Roses Easy On Bush

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now that it's rose cutting time, remember that it's cutting time—not "breaking." Always cut roses with a sharp knife or sharp garden scissors to avoid injury to the bush. Breaking or twisting them off damages the wood and opens it up to disease. Too much cutting can starve the plant and thus affect its growth and future bloom. The vogue for long-stemmed cut roses has caused many home gardeners to weaken their bushes by removing too many leaves. This is especially hard on plants during their first season of bloom but holds, also, for those that are well established. A good rule to follow for rose cutting is: Leave at least two leaves between the cut and the main stem. Flowers that are not cut should be removed after the petals fall to encourage continued blooming. Clip off flowerheads just above the topmost leaf. For best keeping and best color cut in the late afternoon and cut the bud just before the petals start to unfold.

Farm Bureau News
Congratulations to Mabel Anderson on being elected as the new chairman of the women's organization, Ouachita Farm Bureau. Pearl Bower will serve with her as secretary for this year. We know that the organization will make great progress under your capable leadership. The first activity planned by this group is the queen and talent contest July 7th at 7:30 p.m. at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe. A queen will be selected to represent Ouachita at the state meeting in New Orleans in July. John Philholl, Fred Huenefeld and Paul Ransom, enthusiastic farm bureau members, were on hand to help the group with plans.

Book Shows Plants Grown In Containers

All the tricks and know-how for growing plants in anything from a window box to a roof garden are explained in great detail in the 76-page Handbook titled Gardening in Containers, recently published by the Brooklyn Botanic Garden. This book was released in conjunction with the garden's gold medal winning exhibit demonstrating the use of container-grown plants, staged at the International Flower Show in New York's Coliseum.

Boxes

Container culture of plants has extended far beyond the window box stage in recent years. Twenty different subjects, fully illustrated with over one hundred pictures, are discussed in this handbook. Pictures and instructions for making containers of warm-colored woods, modern synthetics and even sisal rope covered with liquid plastic form one important section. There's an article, too, on how to care for hanging baskets in home and municipal settings.

Under gardening in window boxes are included such matters as selecting or making suitable window boxes; best soil mixture; planting methods, feeding and watering; and the best plants to use. How to make a self-watering window box is shown in step-by-step pictures.

The vertical garden, or moss-wall, introduced from Switzerland, offers exciting possibilities both to the experimentally minded gardener and to others seeking novel ways to decorate indoor or outdoor walls, patios or lanais with plants growing either against a wall or as a free-standing wall. Norbert Schindler, landscape architect of Frankfurt, Germany, devotes eight pages to pictures and text explaining how to make wall containers of wire mesh, stuffed with moss, and planted to make "living pillars" and walls having exotic beauty and amazing loveliness. Any number of plants, early tests have shown, are suitable for these portable containers, including wax begonias, petunias, aluminum plant (Pilea cadieri), small flowered marigolds, geraniums, verbenas, coleus, asparagus fern, dwarf fuchsias, wandering Jew, "Baron Solemacher" strawberries, Sweet alyssum, and numerous herbs.

Select Lilies For Purpose

By MILDRED SWIFT

Daylilies are at the height of their bloom now, so this is a very good time to select the ones you want for your garden. With the large number of daylily growers here in Ouachita Parish, one should have no trouble finding the varieties desired.

Use
If you're interested in the landscape value, you'll certainly want a number of plants of the same variety that bloom at the same time. For instance, if you're covering a slope or other spot in your garden, you don't want a spotted appearance or if you're defining a property boundary or driveway or walk, you want a continuous line of bloom. You'd not be as interested in quality as in quantity.

The hybridist, however, would seek the newest, most unusual to combine with his collection. The flower arranger wants varieties that stay open late; the collector, the "most talked about" varieties that no one else has.

If your garden is small, you'd want a few well grown clumps and not a scattered ill-sorted group. If your house is red brick, you'll want more reds or certainly you'd want to keep the yellows in the background.

Blooming Time
Daylilies are grouped into three categories — early, mid-season, or late. So — you'd probably like to have some plants from each grouping. Some daylilies have the happy faculty of blooming more than one time in a season. Some seem to have almost a continuous bloom, though there is no continuous bloomer listed in any catalogue.

When Buying
Since daylilies can be transplanted any time of the year (unless the ground is frozen or flooded) it's best to buy when the plants are in bloom. Then you know you're getting what you want. The seller can describe a variety to you, but often words don't portray the picture. You can order from pictures, but again it's next to impossible to mix a paint the same colors as Mother Nature produces.

I'm quoting from one of our large daylily catalogues, some points to keep in mind when making your selections.

1. Profuse bloom, over a long time. (The clump with repeating scapes assures that.)
 2. Good foliage — an asset in itself when the plants are not in bloom.
 3. Vigorous growth. We a k growers are soon crowded out.
 4. Erect scapes — blossoms lying on the ground have no garden value.
 5. Quick shedding — blooms that hang on are unsightly.
 6. Roots easily contained.
 7. Good substance — a bloom should hold color and form throughout the day.
 8. Good branching — blooms held at different levels, not bunched and crowded together.
 9. Clear, carrying colors — no muddy or dull blooms.
- Here and There
Now, after years of research, tanners have developed a process which makes leather in high colors as washable as dungarees. After being put through the washing machine they come out as soft and bright as new, requiring no special care.

Leather gloves in all colors, which can be tossed into the washing machine, are the big news in the glove collections. They'll come in nine colors and styles.

One of the newest vacuum cleaners requires only a light touch for a variety of operations, thus eliminating stooping. When the proper pedal is stepped on, a 21-foot self-winding cord disappears automatically. The on and off switch also works in the same manner. The machine requires only light pulling. It has three tiny wheels on the bottom.

There are a number of little tricks which will enable you to give an old frame a new look and new use. Old picture frames really have many uses. They can be made into wall shadow boxes, for example. If the frame is large enough, it can be converted into a coffee table with the addition of a leg at each corner and a base and glass top.

Table Linens
The habit of starching table linens probably was inherited from a great-great grandmother, before we learned that starch in linens: (1) Encourages mildew. (2) Breaks down the fibers causing rot. (3) Gets the object out of shape. (4) Causes tablecloths to "buck" in the center when ironed. (5) Hides the beautiful luster and weave of the linens.

Now that we've disposed of the starch, let's do some folding. The crease in napkins is never ironed in. They are folded according to the napkin and use (and that's another subject), but this fold is never pressed. Neither should a crease be ironed in table cloths. Of course it's best to roll the table covers, if possible. The cardboard roll that's used for bolts of material is ideal. Stores will be glad to give you these.

When laundering napkins with the lipstick stains, first use a grease solvent cleaner. Remove all the stain possible with this. Lipstick has an oil base. Often this is "set" in the napkins when they're immersed in water without first removing the oil.

Announcements
Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Kathryn Hoyt will show us some summer hair styles; Tuesday, no program. You'll see the All-Star Baseball game, Wednesday, Mary M. Jardine will bring you the flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, marketing and food preparation with Mildred.

Yes, I know what you're going through this summer, because "summer is the time of the year when the children slam the door they left open all winter." See you next Sunday.

Spring Rain Starter For Summer Ills

The rain, rain that didn't go away in many sections of the country this spring may be plaguing tens of thousands of trees now and throughout the summer. Incessant downpours early in the growing season can be the springboard for a whole host of fungus ill, including anthracnose, scabs, mildew, leaf spot and rust. All are caused by spores that germinate quickly under moist conditions, says W. C. Tauck, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co. Nature normally provides a control of such maladies. That's when the sun comes through.

Spores wither and die in bright sunshine. Conscientious gardeners who applied remedies of fungicide sprays in April and May found little reward for their efforts. Bordeaux mixture, sulphur and iron or zinc compounds were likely to wash away before tree friends could get any significant benefit. It's not too late to save trees and valuable shrubs from parasitic types of infection. The home owner, however, will find no pat remedy. The kind of spray to use depends upon several factors, as does the frequency with which it should be applied. Among the things to be considered are the type of host plant, weather conditions at the time of application and, naturally, the type of disease to be controlled.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Sun And Sand Club Displays

By MARY M. JARDINE

A colorful flower show was presented at the Garden Center this week by members of the Sun and Sand Garden Club of Monroe. One of the most interesting things about flower arranging is that it is a hobby of many facets. Each individual arranger interprets a design and color scheme and combination of plant materials to suit her own personality and of course, a place for the design in her home.

Mrs. H. A. Malone's arrangement for a small chest or bookcase illustrated the use of one flower in a design. Her container was a small black bowl rectangular in shape and placed on a black base. The triangular linear pattern was created with glossy ab-pale yellow, green, chartreuse or gray. Mrs. W. T. Gattis and Mrs. M. S. Pickett combined their talents in a very colorful design of greens and orange-reds. Patsy Pickett made the lovely container herself in a ceramics class. Free-form in design it had a green glaze over yellow. The right-angle triangle design was composed of green aspidistra leaves with sasanqua foliage for contrast in color and texture. Following the established line were the bright orange blooms of montbretia. Summer poinsettia with the orange centers surrounded the focal flowers — orange-red canna blooms.

Bird Prints
The Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club has presented the Garden Center with twelve beautiful Audubon Bird Prints. You will be seeing these on display from time to time. Don't forget to provide water for our wonderful song birds this summer. Your water container or bird bath need not be expensive, the simplest container will do. Just place it in a safe place where the birds can drink and not be molested by cats. Our garden at present is a symphony of sound and color with all the summer visitors in the bird world. We are fortunate in having many trees and shrubs both berried and flowering. Do invite the birds to your garden, you will be well rewarded.

The Wisner Garden Club has recently planted a living memorial, a pine tree, in memory of Mrs. Henrietta Kennerly who was a charter member of the club. This is a wonderful way to provide a lasting memory of our departed friends.

Orchids
The Garden Center library has received another very welcome gift. Dr. Katherine Foster has presented us with a file of American Orchid Society Bulletins. There is a wealth of information in these books and we hope you will take advantage of reading and studying them.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Plan Now For Seedling Bed

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Raising a few plants from seed is a fascinating experience. We say "a few plants" advisedly because more than a few at this time of the year can be too much of a good thing. Nevertheless, you can get a great deal of pleasure from a small seed bed located in a spot where there is shade for part of the day. During July, when the ground is very warm, most seeds will come up in a very few days and grow off to sizeable plants in short order.

Biennials
July is the time to raise the biennial plants from seed. If they are planted at this time in the south, they will have time to grow to maturity and flower next spring and summer. As we have noted lately in the column, many of the handsome biennials have disappeared from southern gardens in favor of annuals and perennials. Biennials are plants that come up this year and bloom next year just as the perennials do, but biennials usually die after they flower.

Almost all biennials seem to be prolific seed producers, however, and, once you have got them started, they will sow themselves each year. All one usually has to do is to transplant them to the spots where they are wanted and put up the unwanted ones. Only in Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, Mobile, New Orleans and in the gardens of the coastal area do we see the old-fashioned

CASSINI'S NO-BELT SHEATH FLOWS IN GENTLE CURVES

PRINTED PATTERN A 686 by Oleg Cassini

PROMINENT DESIGNER — Oleg Cassini — designer to Hollywood's most glamorous stars—puts his signature on a subtly curved sheath that makes you look slim as your own shadow. The neckline is scooped, the silhouette flows softly in a plastron effect over waist and hips, tapering at the hem. Intense black linen with a stark white bow was the designer's choice. Sparkling shades of silk — baratheia, shantung, bengaline — are also among the beautiful possibilities. Expect rave reviews from your audience when you arrive in your "Cassini"—true to every dart and detail of the Original.

Printed Pattern A686 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 3 yards 39-inch fabric. Girl Scout News

Monday's the day many girls have looked forward to all summer — the opening of Day Camp at Pine Wood. 165 of you have completed registration procedure for this session, leaders and program aides have taken training, and the campsite is in readiness. Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, camp chairman, and Miss Annis Klie, camp director, have announced. They say remind campers to put their names on lunches, bring drinking cups and sit-upon. The latter articles should be left at camp during the ten-day camp.

The first day of camp is indeed a busy and exciting one. Buses arrive, everyone lines up for colors, in charge of the program aides the first day. After the flag is raised and a few announcements made, campers are divided into units and go to their unit site to make their home in the woods. They quickly string up lashing cord in a shady place and fasten their lunches with clothespins, safe from insects and dampness. The campers make name tags and begin to get acquainted. They divide into patrols, choose a unit name. They will make a cup tree, lash a tripod to hold a wash pan, dig a trench for waste water. They will put cord around a bar of soap and tie it to a tree nearby. That way it won't fall on the ground. With paper toweling strung similarly, a waste paper box and a bucket of water nearby complete handwashing facilities. Someone has already made a kaper chart, with descriptions of duties of water boy, packer, housekeeper, and cleanup patrols. This is soon posted on the unit bulletin board and patrols draw for the first day's kapers. They will, of course, rotate each day. During the morning each group will take time to have a welcome snack and to have a unit meeting, with everyone having a share in making plans for the ten days.

The "outdoor good turn" will be the basis of the camps this summer, with the girls looking forward to activities that will improve their own campsite. In that connection, too, some units will visit a fire tower and work with forestry people, the entire camp, in small groups, will visit the fish hatchery, the conservation and the three badges have been chosen by Intermediate Scouts. On a rainy day they will see films appropriate to the camp theme. Living in the Japanese Imperial Majesty Is Greatly Changed

By KAY TATEISHI
TOKYO (AP) — The middle-aged, soberly dressed Japanese gentleman stepped from the airplane onto a soaked red carpet, holding an umbrella against a pelting rain.

A few steps behind him came his wife, a chubby, matronly woman, holding a parasol of her own.

A cheering crowd, shouting "ten thousand years," surged forward. A handful of dignified officials bowed low at the head of the carpet.

They were welcoming home their imperial majesties, Emperor Hirohito — the 124th descendant of one of the world's oldest ruling dynasties — and Empress Nagako from a two-week tour of Kyushu, Japan's southernmost island last April.

It was Hirohito's 30th trip — their 10th together — of the four main islands since he began leaving his moated, walled palace in February, 1946, to mingle for the first time with his stunned and war-ravaged — but still adoring — subjects.

There were no palace functionaries to dash out and hold umbrellas for the imperial couple as they would have done 12 years ago.

It was a sign of the change in the status of the man who had lived a divine being's life for so many years behind the chrysanthemum curtain.

When the Allied occupation began in September, 1945, advisers close to the Imperial Palace sounded out Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters to learn what was in store for the Emperor.

"Get him out among the people," was the reply.

Then, in an historic New Year's day broadcast in 1946, the Emperor divested himself of his divinity and debunked "the mythologically divine existence of the Japanese imperial household."

Soon afterwards he embarked on a series of extended tours that signalled a complete break with his prewar past. At first, he cut an awkward figure — clumsy, shabbily dressed and ill at ease. But with each tour he gained poise as he amiably smiled and waved his hand or raised his hat to the enthusiasm and resounding cheers of crowds.

There is great stamina in the 5 foot, 6 inch, 140-pound Emperor.

Masaru Sakamoto, governor of Hyogo Prefecture, commented after the Emperor and Empress completed a visit to western Japan in 1956: "I cannot understand how they survived their gruelling schedule. When I was groggy, their majesties kept standing erect like steel ramrods without a pause, and kept waving and smiling at the crowds lining up everywhere they went."

And the weak eyes behind the spectacles belie another kind of strength.

The story goes that after Japan's surrender, the question was raised whether the Emperor should be tried as a war criminal. MacArthur is reported to have told war crimes prosecutor, the late Joseph B. Keenan: "Don't call the Emperor into court. If you do, he'll probably offer to assume all the blame himself, he's that kind of man."

People who claim to know say he is a selfless person — and frugal almost to the point of the ridiculous for a person of his position.

Not long ago, the Emperor's shoemaker reported he had put a new pair of shoes on 10-year-old oxfords owned by his majesty and that Hirohito had hardly any shoes made since the end of the war.

This is a far cry from pre-war days when it was unthinkable that the divine son of Heaven should wear a pair of shoes more than a few times.

There are a lot of other unthinkables that have become commonplace in postwar Japan.

In prewar days it was mandatory for the nation's press to refer to the Emperor with such circumlocution that it almost represented a language in itself. A freely translated example might have gone "His imperial majesty today designed to grace Parliament with his august presence."

Now, the press still treats the Emperor with respect but with far more down-to-earth language.

Before the war it was a sacrilege for a commoner to look directly at the Emperor or down on him from a higher level. In fact, the tower of Tokyo's Metropolitan Police Board was chopped short when it was discovered original plans provided it be built to a height from which persons could look down into the Imperial Palace grounds across the way.

Today, Japanese still bow low before the Emperor — but they also cheer him as a man.

Hirohito's consuming interest is marine biology.

An academic associate reports that next year Hirohito will author his third book, about rare crabs he collected himself near his summer villa not far from Tokyo. He has already written two books since World War II on rare Japanese sea mollusks.

There are numerous episodes shedding light on the changes that have come about in the man who was formerly a god.

In August, 1954, during a tour of Hokkaido, a group of Japanese news cameramen asked the Emperor to hold a pose while peering through field glasses at some marine growth in Akan Lake. He willingly complied and later told palace newsmen, "Frankly speaking, my posing was a bit theatrical, wasn't it?"

How does he live now behind the ancient walls of his palace in the heart of Tokyo?

According to intimates, the Emperor, now 57, rises at 6:30 a.m., dresses himself and has a breakfast with the empress at 8 a.m., consisting of oatmeal, milk, toast and tea. After breakfast he goes for a stroll in the garden, then settles down to read the newspapers — which are sterilized.

At 10 a.m. he goes to his office on the second floor where he reads bills and matters of state that await his imperial seal, although he has no voice at all in the government. He also grants audiences to cabinet ministers, important personages and visiting foreign dignitaries.

At noon, he has a simple lunch with the Empress, then reports back to the office in the afternoon and calls it a day about 3 or 3:30 p.m. Before supper he walks about his small garden. After supper he and the Empress usually spend a quiet evening listening to the radio or watching television.

Sunday is family day. He and the Empress are usually joined by Crown Prince Akihito, Prince Yoshi and Princess Suga and five grandchildren of three other married daughters.

One of the happiest days of the week for Hirohito is Saturday, which he spends in his marine biology laboratory meticulously cataloging his specimens.

In recent months there has been persistent talk that court officials are gradually pushing Hirohito back to his old, aloof role away from his subjects.

Palace officials have repeatedly denied this and point to the Emperor's active role in public ceremonies connected with the recent Asian Games. Although the Emperor's prewar and wartime imperial military guard has never been revived, there has been a noticeable increase in the swarm of police posted between Hirohito and the people whenever he appears.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's Conservative government has been studying ways and means of revising the postwar Japanese constitution. One major revision in mind is renaming the Emperor the head of state — as Britain's Queen Elizabeth — rather than the present "symbol of state" — deriving his position from the will of the people. This would give him a more active role in the working of government.

Old-Fashioned War Against The Spanish Is Highlighted

By LARRY STUNTZ
The Spanish American War which was resolved 60 years ago this month was short, but besides providing a generation of Fourth of July orators it also produced far more than a normal share of American folk sayings.

Out of it came "Remember the Maine," "The Message to Garcia," "You may fire when ready, Gridley," "Also the Cuba Libre and 'There'll Be A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight,'" both still popular.

Its heroes were Teddy Roosevelt, whose Rough Riders did not take San Juan Hill; Hobson, who sank the block ship in the wrong place; Adm. George Dewey, who did everything right; and Walter Reed, who whipped yellow fever.

European fleet for the Western Hemisphere. Nobody knew where these ships were going. Citizens wired their congressmen to send a battleship to protect their beach cottage.

Luckily, about then the Havana office of the Western Union notified the U. S. navy in Santiago de Cuba, Lt. Richmond Hobson went out with a U. S. coal ship to scuttle it in the harbor entrance and bottle up the Spaniards. But his ship sank in the wrong place.

Gen. William Shafter and 17,000 other soldiers sailed from Tampa so fast they left most of the ambulances and supply wagons behind. They landed at Siboney, which baptized a dance tune, and at Daiquiri, which named a cocktail.

Shafter, with Wheeler commanding the dismounted cavalry — it hadn't been able to bring along the horses — skirmished up to the outskirts of Santiago.

Adm. Cervera led his fleet out of the harbor and it was destroyed July 3 by the U. S. fleet under Capt. William T. Sampson.

Feuds Outlast War
Adm. Winfield Scott Schley, who generally commanded the fleet, missed the battle because he was away conferring with Shafter. He never forgave Sampson for getting the glory, and their resulting feud raged for years. So did the feud between Shafter and Nelson A. Miles, his commanding officer, which arose along the way. Also the feud between Miles and the secretary of war and the one between the army and navy. All these lasted a whole lot longer than the war did.

Roosevelt took his Rough Riders up Kettle Hill outside Santiago while the infantry stormed San Juan Hill. Both objectives were taken. Time out was called while the Spanish army commander consulted his home government.

Meanwhile, yellow fever had broken out in the U. S. lines. The race was whether American soldiers would starve without their supply wagons; die of yellow fever; or receive the Spanish surrender. Surrender came first.

Later on Walter Reed, an army doctor, cleaned the yellow fever out of Havana and became famous.

Out in the Philippines, Adm. Dewey had sunk the Spanish fleet with a famous firing order and without losing a man. However, he lost an hour when he withdrew in the middle of the battle so his crews could have breakfast.

More Than Dogs End Up At Animal Island

By ART LENEHAN
Pascific Herald - News
CLIFTON, N. J. (AP) — The dog days bring more than dogs to the Ellis Island of the animal world.

As hot weather arrives in force, so do such four-legged immigrants as gnus, duikers and greater and lesser kudus.

The expensive animals are brought here by zoos and game farms during the summer on the sound theory that there is less chance of a tropical-bred okapi catching his death of cold in warm weather.

Their first American stop is the U. S. quarantine station in Clifton where Dr. B. C. Swindle, a veterinarian, and his staff of four inspect them daily for disease and bugs that might harm American livestock.

Most animals stay for 30 days. And most come good without a hitch. But, like the Ellis Island that once served immigrant people, the quarantine station has its share of red tape.

Take the giraffe that a commercial game farm in Boca Raton, Fla. tried to import.

After farm operator Jack Pedersen bought the beast, the federal government told him he couldn't keep it because his farm wasn't federally authorized. He went to court and lost. He appealed.

Meanwhile, the giraffe spent the winter at the quarantine station while workers struggled manfully to heat one of its barns to something approaching African temperatures.

Before the legal battle was over the giraffe had broken all records for a long run. It spent 18 months at the station, running up a $2,100 room and board bill which the government, loser in court, had to pay.

The giraffe had a big kiss for its owner when it got out of the redogewog.

A rare okapi (pronounced o-cappi) and described as a sort of a shortlegged giraffe that Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus tried to bring in ran into a similar problem.

The circus folks lost the legal fight when the court ruled it was too dangerous to let an animal from the germ-ridden Belgian Congo travel freely about the country. The okapi wound up in a zoo.

A poignant story goes with another okapi, once a resident of the station.

Ten years ago, there was only one okapi in the United States, a male named Congo who lived the life of a bachelor at the Bronx Zoo. He hadn't seen a girl okapi in 13 years.

The New York Zoological Society got a chance to buy a male for Congo. Society members went to Africa to pick up the prospective bride. Natives brought the animal to them covered with straw.

"To keep the sun off," explained the natives.

It wasn't until the zoologists arrived in New York and tenderly removed the straw from the okapi that they learned the "she" was just another "he."

Not long afterward, Congo died, some say from disappointment.

Okapi — wise, things are much better in the United States today. There are eight of the rare Central African animals now in the country. Five are males and three are female.

Some beasts have proven quite a burden to station workers.

There was the markhor goat that earned the title of "The Athlete." The wild-eyed lead from the mountains of Afghanistan could take a runner and carom off three walls in his station cell before he hit the floor.

Then there was the trio of saiga antelope. One of these hunkers of horned — lightning from the steppes of Central Asia parted a station worker from a good portion of the seat of his pants.

Other station headaches have been provided by wisents, European bison, duiker, boks, tiny antelope, gnus, particularly ugly antelopes, and greater and lesser kudus more antelope of varying size.

But the station has its gentlest residents, too.

Contented cows from the Jersey Islands and big bulls from Ireland pass placidly through the station with nary a ripple.

The number of animals that stop off at the station varies. The average for a year is 400. But, if there is an outbreak of hoof and mouth disease in Africa, for instance, no animals may be received for six or eight months.

IN COLOMBIA Bandit Gangs Are Killing 1,000 Persons Monthly

By LARRY ALLEN
BOGOTA (AP) — In a spreading wave of violence, bandit gangs sweeping through the heart of this country's richest coffeebelt are slaughtering men, women and children as though they were cattle.

In the last 10 years, more than 280,000 Colombians have been killed. The monthly average runs around 1,000.

The indiscriminate, mass slayings are now centered in the rugged mountainous Tolima Department, 120 miles southwest of Bogota, but are spreading into the adjoining Valle Department, of which Cali is the capital.

In addition to the killings, bandit raiders are forcing tens of thousands of Colombian peasants to flee from their farmlands and coffee plantations into nearby towns and cities.

with infants in their arms.

The horrible specialty of the raiders is using the machete to decapitate victims. Others are clubbed or shot to death.

All of this happens within six hours by air from Miami, and less than a half hour's flight from Bogota, often called the "Athens" of South American cities because of its European-style customs, architecture and intellectual centers.

Colombians, generally, don't appear to be excited or alarmed over reading in their newspapers every day of scores, or sometimes hundreds of people being killed. They seem to have accepted the killings in Tolima and adjoining areas as a daily institution.

The gang killings usually hit their highest peak at the time when a coffee crop is about to be harvested, or has just been garnered. Then there's the wholesale butchery of peasants and thousands flee to towns and cities. The raiders scoop up the coffee crop and somehow sell it as contraband to be shipped abroad.

When President Lleras' takes office, he has already announced, ending of the widespread violence will be his immediate objective.

Lleras suggested, and the military junta named, a special commission on violence to determine its direct causes and devise a plan of action to end it. The commission hopes to have a plan of action in the next few weeks.

Meantime, the mass killings continue unabated.

FACES EXTINCTION Stately Stork Makes Last Stand

By ALVIN STEINKOPF
LONDON (AP) — The stately stork may be making his last on-legged stand on the high chimneys of continental Europe.

He faces extinction — no one knows why. But a group of British experts has reported "a calamitous decrease" in the number of white storks in Europe.

Egged on by the serious plight of the picturesque creature, bird lovers of the world are uniting in a save-the-stork drive.

Storks, as is well known, bring babies.

Also, it is widely believed, they bring good fortune to the man on whose land they choose to live. Happy is the family who has a stork on the roof, rattling its red beak, performing awkward dances and fishing for frogs in nearby ponds.

A stork, as far as is known, has never hurt a soul. And it gives a touch of black and white charm to the European skyline. Consequently, ornithologists are rushing to its rescue.

Men and women traveled all the way from Argentina, the United States and Japan for this year's session in Finland of the International Committee for Bird Preservation, which has sections in 45 countries. High on the agenda was the stork.

"We need more precise knowledge of the tragedy which is befalling storks," says Miss Phyllis Barclay-Smith, secretary of the British section of the committee. "We have some suspicions, but not enough facts yet, to make governments and men indignant, and move them to do something about it."

Storks may be dying out from eating poisoned locusts. Storks migrate to northern, central and eastern Africa for the winter. They fly into locust country, in which international agencies spread long swarms of insects. Storks regard grasshoppers as a delicacy, and possibly they eat too many of the poisoned ones for their own good.

"There is conflicting evidence," says Miss Barclay-Smith. "Locust eradicators must, of course, do their work, and most of them insist that they do everything possible to protect innocent life. Many say their poisons, or at least some of them, should not injure birds.

"But we aren't sure, and what we need is hundreds and hundreds of autopsies on storks which die in Africa to determine whether poisoning is an important factor. If it is, we all have to ask our friends, the chemists, to produce more selective insecticides, and locust hunters to devise other methods."

Shooting, particularly in France, Spain and Lebanon, accounts for the destruction of some storks.

"A big stork, maybe three feet tall, flapping around in a lumbering fashion, is a tempting target to a hunter who may be looking for something else," says M. Barclay-Smith. "But legal protection of storks is being extended, and shooting can't be the complete explanation of the sharp decline in numbers."

Some ornithologists think storks are not very bright and they have curious prejudices. They don't, for instance, like the British Isles. The last free stork, according to the record, was spotted in Britain in the year 1416, nesting in a tower of St. Giles Cathedral in Edinburgh.

British feeling is that storks won't fly over stretches of open water and the English Channel is too wide to suit them. This theory seems to be supported by their migratory route to Africa. They cross exclusively in narrow air corridors at Gibraltar and the western end of the Red Sea instead of going over the central Mediterranean Sea.

"We also need a census of storks, and a dozen European, African and Asian lands are co-operating with us in taking one," Miss Barclay-Smith says. "Storks are easy to count, and because they stick close to their nests in the breeding season it isn't likely that one might be counted twice."

"Then they can be given some direct help if they can't find corridors at Gibraltar and the of the Netherlands are setting platforms on high poles on which they can nest. Storks are beautiful, and then they move in, rattling their beaks like castanets."

"And I don't know why they stand on one leg."

POWER PLANT One At Niagara Will Be Unique

By DICK WHALEN
NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — Think of a hydro-electric power plant and you probably picture a gleaming white dam and a huge reservoir.

Most power generating plants do look like that. But not Niagara. Yet when it's finished four years from now, it will be the biggest in the United States and the biggest in the world outside of Russia.

No dam will span the Niagara River and there will be no need for a huge reservoir. The upper Great Lakes provide one of the largest and most stable supplies of water in the world.

Much of this water has been spilling unused over Niagara Falls, captured only in photographs by legions of honeymooners and tourists.

To put it to work making electricity, the Niagara project will draw water from the river two miles above the falls, carry it in tunnels and canals around the falls and pour it down through turbines and back into the river five miles below the falls.

The Lewiston powerhouse, largest single item in the $25 million dollar project, is being built into the side of the gorge.

The New York State Power Authority acquired a license to develop Niagara power last January after a hasty seven years' long. Work started in March and will hit a peak next summer.

The Niagara project will be one of three in the world that use an unusual water storage system.

Most of the electricity will be generated at the main powerhouse by the constant flow of water. However, late at night when the demand for electricity is low, huge pumps will be used to fill a reservoir four miles square. During the day the pumps will operate in reverse and the stored water will generate extra electricity to meet peak demand.

The other two plants that use this system are the Sir Adam Beck No. 2, almost directly across the Niagara River, and a plant near Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The 13 generators at the main Niagara powerhouse and the 12 smaller units at the pump-generating station will have a total installed capacity of 2,190,000 kilowatts. This will be second only to a Russian plant on the Volga at Stalingrad, which is expected to provide 2,300,000 kilowatts next year.

At present, the largest hydro plant in the United States is the Grand Coulee in the State of Washington. It has a capacity of 1,974,000 kilowatts.

The Niagara project will boost the generating capacity in New York State by about 25 per cent and make the Niagara region the largest producer of hydro — electric power in the world.

Power officials say homeowners will not notice much of a drop in their electric bills, because the cost of transmission and maintenance form the larger part of the price.

Junior Law Big Help In Missouri

By ROBERT L. McBEE
Kansas City Star
LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — A fugitive from the law doesn't have much chance in these parts. He can't even trust the kids playing hopscotch in the neighborhood.

At least not since the badge-toting junior deputies, ages 8 to 15, appeared on the scene.

In Clay County recently a sheriff's officer made several attempts to serve a warrant on a man who was never home when he called. The officer asked to raid from junior deputies who lived nearby.

Just like on TV, the junior deputies "staked out" the house and went on playing their games. The man came home. The boys called the sheriff. The warrant was served: the case closed.

Case Closed
Three teen-agers from St. Joseph abandoned a stolen car near Polo in Caldwell county and hid in the countryside. A sheriff's posse found two.

At the end of the school day, the junior deputies joined the search. They quickly found the third delinquent in the barn loft already searched by the posse.

There are 1,200 members of the Junior Deputy League in Clay County. In rural Caldwell county, Sheriff M. L. Robison has sworn in 350. Plate county started a group five months ago and already has 250.

Sheriff
The National Sheriff's Assn., sponsors of the league, estimates that the number of junior deputies, including some juniorettes (girls), is in excess of 350,000. There are leagues in every state.

The junior deputies were formed in Clay county five years ago after an outbreak of vandalism at the Faubion School in Liberty. Sheriff Curtis F. Hay took badges and pledge cards to the school and swore in five junior deputies.

Within a year he had pinned on hundreds of badges and juvenile delinquency was down 70 per cent. Today, says Hay, juvenile delinquents in Clay county are a negligible problem.

Never Permits
Sheriff Hay never permits the boys to endanger themselves. They serve, he says, as "eyes, ears and examples of the law."

The programs at monthly meetings include instructions on how to use a bow and arrow safely, identification of poisonous snakes, first aid and firearm and bicycle safety.

Special events are a trip to the police circus in Kansas City, a visit to state prison, a meeting with the governor, a tour of state highway patrol headquarters and a major league baseball game in Kansas City.

The boys are busy in other ways too. They have a 22-member band, a 35-man baseball squad and a new diamond, a summer swimming program and a pistol and rifle club supervised by a holder of the congressional medal of honor.

Neighboring Platte county had a flurry of hubcap stealing that luckily coincided with the organization of its junior deputy program. The sheriff's office worked with the new Jay Dees and soon was talking with 15 youths who admitted stealing or buying the hubcaps.

Later, some of the boys joined the junior deputies — and there have been no more complaints filed about stolen hubcaps.

1958 HIGH

Stock Market
Plugs Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market plugged ahead doggedly high for 1958.

Prices completed a consolidation phase since achieving the previous peak on June 17. Their upward progress this week was an irregular affair.

The moderate advance of the Blue Chips which make up the average had considerable competition from the lower-priced, more speculative issues which once again took a prominent place among the list of trading favorites.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.30 to $175.60, topping the previous '58 peak of $175.40. This was a very narrow penetration into new high ground for the year and was not done in a very convincing manner.

The market was just below the year's high as the week started, and it inched forward day by day, just squeezing over the top in the final session.

Shortened to four days by the July 4 observance, the week brought some bullish news to spur stock prices. The approach of the summer industrial doldrums, however, was freshened by the first drop steel industry production in eight weeks. Meanwhile, uncertainty over the steel price situation continued.

A succession of new defense contracts was of help to some of the aircraft-missile stocks.

News that construction contracts let in May were the highest for any month in history had a helpful effect upon some building industry shares.

Approval by Congress of Alaska statehood stimulated the few Alaska-related stocks on the exchange to new highs for the year.

Tornado Dances
On River

By United Press International
Heavy rain scattered over the Panhandle and North Texas Saturday and a tornado danced along the Trinity River in Dallas county.

There was no damage reported from the tornado, although it blew a car off U. S. 67 where the highway crosses the East Fork of the Trinity River. The driver was not hurt.

It was reported on the ground between Rockwall and Bonham and between Garland and Wylie.

Severe forecasts
Two severe weather forecasts were issued, one calling for tornadoes.

The weather bureau said a few severe thunderstorms with large hail, locally damaging winds and possibly a tornado were expected until 7 p. m. in an area bounded by Dallas to Tyler to 30 miles southeast of Waco, to 60 miles northwest of Waco and back to Dallas.

A driving rain hit Dallas late in the day blocking some streets and causing water to seep into a furniture store in Oak Cliff section.

Some flights from Love Field were delayed because of the weather and some power lines were down due to high winds.

Farmersville, near Dallas, had 2.61 inches of rain between 3 p. m. and 4:15 p. m. Amon Carter Field reported 2.46 inches.

The U. S. Weather Bureau issued a forecast for severe thunderstorms with large hail and isolated damaging winds for much of West and northwest Central Texas.

The forecast, good from 1 p. m. until 8 p. m., was for an area along and 120 miles southeast of a line from Wink to 20 miles southwest of Wichita Falls.

Eastern Boundary
The eastern boundary extended from 20 miles southwest of Wichita Falls to just west of Weatherford, to west of Cleburne and then to Brownwood; from there to 30 miles northeast of Sanderson, Tex., and back to Wink.

A report of five inches of rain was received from Boys Ranch, 40 miles northwest of Amarillo, and Dalhart had 1.37 inches of rain Saturday.

Dumas had three inches of rain Saturday and a tornado sighted near late Friday night, but apparently did no damage. Borger reported 1.04 and Amarillo 1.20.

Oil Group
Solution
In Works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The long impasse over whether the National Petroleum Council stays on as a government advisory group or is forced to disband as a "threat" to anti-trust purity may be broken soon.

A compromise solution has been in the works for some time. But principals in the dispute—Council Chairman Walter S. Hallanan, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, and Victor Hansen, chief of the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division—haven't come to the point of signing an agreement.

Under a tentative verbal deal, Hallanan would move over to make room for a co-chairman, a government man who would monitor the council's reticence vis-a-vis the anti-trust statute. But so far nobody will say if the council, set up by presidential directive in 1946 to bail the government out of its oil troubles, would have a voice in future decisions or be under government's thumb.

Since last December Hallanan has bitterly resisted government domination as an affront to the 102-man, all-industry group whose impartiality and integrity were never questioned until Seaton came into office.

Seaton's anxiety had its roots in Democratic charges that dollar-a-year industrialists and "big business" advisory groups had illegal contracts with the administration's inner-most councils and hence could cash in on secret information. He felt that this applied, at least by inference, to the NPC.

The President—and Seaton—decided Hansen should lay down "criteria" strait—checking the council's functions. Hansen held first that the council must have a full-time government chairman replacing Hallanan, president of the Plymouth Oil Co., Pittsburgh. It will be up to Hallanan and his associates whether it is palatable enough to keep the council in business.

NEW MANAGER—Leon A. Taylor, above, has been appointed manager of the Monroe office of A. W. Dunn Transfer & Storage Co. which has just been opened at 3101 Louisville Avenue. The company, with offices in Dallas, Marshall and Shreveport, have been agents for North American Van Lines for more than 30 years. Taylor, who has more than 18 years experience in the transfer and storage business, has been a resident of Monroe for the past three years.

AD CLUB MEETING
A Baton Rouge advertising executive will be the first speaker to appear before the recently formed Advertising Club of Monroe and West Monroe at its initial meeting on Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Saddle and Spur, according to Morris Blumenthal, president.

Lee Herzberg, Jr., vice president of Herbert S. Benjamin Associates, Inc., advertising agency and former district governor of the 7th District Advertising Federation of America will tell the members what the club can accomplish for Twin City advertisers. The local unit is affiliated with the 10th District of AFA.

Herzberg is a past president of the Advertising Club of Baton Rouge and of the Better Business Bureau of Baton Rouge. He is also a past governor of the 5th District Association of the Better Business Bureau.

Blumenthal said an invitation is extended to all persons engaged in the buying, selling or production of advertising in the Twin Cities who are not already members to attend the meeting on a "Dutch treat" basis to learn more of the purposes of the local club.

PERSONNEL CHANGES
CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Three personnel changes were announced today by Crossett Paper Mills, a division of The Crossett Company.

As announced by J. C. Hair, Paper Mills Manager, they are: Ellis M. Hart has been promoted to Wood Room and Wood Yard Foreman at the Kraft Paper Mill. He has held the responsibility of Digester Cook in the Kraft Mill. Mr. Hart has been associated with The Crossett Company since 1927.

R. M. Downey, who has been acting Wood Room and Wood Yard Foreman, is being assigned to the Supervisory Staff of the Kraft Paper Mill Pulp Mill. Mr. Downey joined The Crossett Company in 1950.

T. M. Phillips will become the Administrative Assistant to the Manager. He has been Assistant Safety Supervisor and Personnel Counselor for the paper mill.

CHARCOAL BRIQUETS
CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — E. M. Goddard, manager of Crossett Chemical Company, has been elected vice president of a new national organization designed to promote and improve wood charcoal briquets.

The non-profit group is Wood Charcoal Briquet Producers Association. It has headquarters in the Prudential Building, Chicago. Owen E. King, of Chicago, was named president. The group's purpose is to promote the welfare of the wood charcoal briquet industry and to improve its service to the public.

Crossett Chemical Company, a division of The Crossett Company, is one of the nation's leading producers of wood charcoal and charcoal briquets.

Bond Market
NEW YORK (AP) — The U. S. government bond market went through another shaky week today, but ended above the lows of the period. Losses weren't as severe as in the previous week.

The corporate list ended mixed. Quality issues made a small gain on average but industrials and utilities eased while rails held unchanged. Foreign bonds scored a fairly brisk advance.

It was a rather slow week and the fact there were only four trading days in it helped to hold down dealings. Volume totaled $19,154,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange. Last week the volume was $25,149,000 and a year ago it was $18,735,100.

OPERATORS UNDECIDED
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Larco Drilling Co.'s first production tests of the Whittington oil No. 1 has produced salt water and operators were undecided whether to re-perforate the Rodessa formation.

The well, on sec. 4-9-11W near the Sharon gas condensate field north of Laurel, flowed oil from perforations in the Rodessa zone at 11,430-30 feet. After the well was swabbed, salt water replaced crude oil.

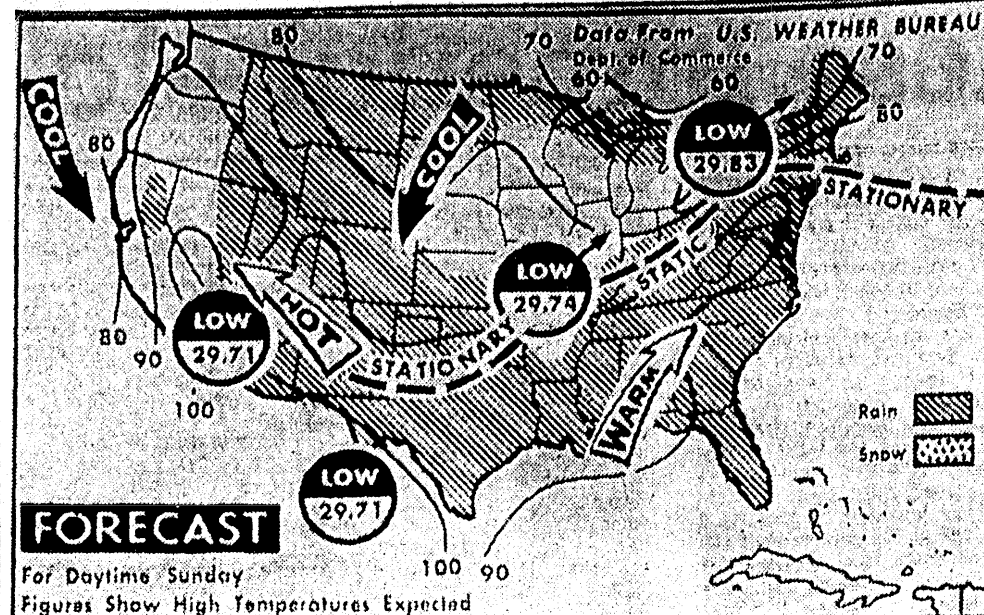

Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. continued to log oil shows below 8,000 feet in the Smith County wildcat Womack No. 1, sec. 35-1N-6E, five miles east of Magee.

The potential new pool opener has logged excellent oil sand in the Sligo zone at 13,025-55 feet. The continued shows in the Hosston zone make the well one of the most important wildcat operations under way.

The nearest producing area of the wildcat is the Raleigh field eight miles to the northeast. Marlin Exploration Co. completed its wildcat A. J. Brown No. 1, sec. 39-6N-3W, and reported it flowed 160 barrels of 42 gravity oil daily from a zone at 4,815-17 feet.

The new Wilcox sand discovery is eight miles south of Natchez. Dorris Ballew is preparing to abandon the Dunnaway No. 1, sec. 12-4N-8E, outpost well in the Little Creek field of Pike County.

2ND HALF OF '58

Business Up
In Few Spots

NEW YORK (AP) — Business ventured into the second half of 1958 this week with some lines up and others down.

In steel and autos it looked like a long, hot summer. Informed observers said a production pickup was a good two months away.

Closer to Main Street, things were booming for purveyors of sun tan lotion, soda pop, air conditioners, water skis, bathing suits, Bermuda shorts and beer.

Nationwide, the summer retail picture was anything but grim. Dun & Bradstreet said total retail sales for the week ended Wednesday averaged only two per cent lower than a year ago when a pre-fourth of July buying binge broke all records.

Congressional approval of the Alaskan Statehood Bill opened new vistas. Retailers toyed with the notion that Alaska as a full-fledged state may attract an influx of settlers and may eventually provide a new market with an almost unlimited potential.

Companies in the guided missiles field had cause for celebration this week. From the Pentagon came a string of fat contracts: $48,867,500 to Douglas Aircraft for Nike-Hercules launchers; $20,700,000 to Western Electric for Nike-Hercules and Nike-Ajax parts; $2,500,000 to Hycom Manufacturing Co. for missile test sets for the Navy.

Less impressive dollarwise but with significant implications for the future was a million-dollar contract to General Dynamics Corp. It calls for preliminary research on a space ship that will be propelled by controlled nuclear explosions.

Construction is out of its recession phase. So says F. W. Dodge Corp. in announcing that construction contracts awarded in May added up to $3,402,575,000—highest ever recorded for a single month.

New layoffs were the rule in many of the nation's steel mills and auto factories this week. The auto industry shut down nearly 60 per cent of its assembly plants, reducing car output to about 34,000 units.

Model changeovers will disrupt the auto production pattern for about two months.

Briefly over the business scene: The American Collectors Assn. says consumers are paying their debts less promptly now than earlier this year. It attributes the tardiness to unemployment.

Business failures last week totaled 335, highest in more than a month trading days in it helped to hold down dealings. Volume totaled $19,154,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange. Last week the volume was $25,149,000 and a year ago it was $18,735,100.

La. Legislature
Baton Rouge, July 5, (UPI) — The 1958 session of the Louisiana legislature—for all practical intent and purposes—is over.

Thursday, July 10, is the final day and major legislation is out of the way, leaving only a few minor measures to be ground out one way or the other—killed, side-tracked withdrawn or sent to the governor's desk for signature.

A few of the lawmakers are still trying to push through in the final minutes pet projects—and some will cause a bit of a stir before the sine die adjournment—but the accomplishments of the current legislature can already be counted almost in toto.

The senate returns Sunday night to clear the decks of mostly house bills rammed through in marathon fashion last week. The house—with its calendar scrubbed and polished—comes back Monday afternoon with little left to legislate.

"Power Grab"
The senate has the budget control bill that caused angry retorts from secretary of state Wade Martin accusing Gov. Earl Long of "another power grab." There is little doubt the upper chamber, overloaded with administration strength, will do anything but approve the measure to put Martin, the attorney general and the state treasurer under the financial supervision of the department of administration.

Long's legislative leaders contend "it's just good business" to have all department budgets under central control of a fiscal expert.

Rep. Richard Bertrand is trying to line up administration support for a firm try at passing his bill to streamline the legislature with a longer session split after the first 20 days. It failed to get the necessary two-thirds in the house last week 43-38 and Bertrand is preparing more amendments to make it more palatable.

The measure presently provides that the first 20 days be used for introduction of bills—then a 30 day recess to look them over—and 60 days for action. The bill originally knocked out the 30 day fiscal session during odd-numbered years, but the Alexandria lawmaker floor amended it to provide for the fiscal session at the last minute.

THURSDAY FINAL DAY

La. Legislature

Just About Over

BATON ROUGE, July 5, (UPI) —

The 1958 session of the Louisiana legislature—for all practical intent and purposes—is over.

Thursday, July 10, is the final day and major legislation is out of the way, leaving only a few minor measures to be ground out one way or the other—killed, side-tracked withdrawn or sent to the governor's desk for signature.

A few of the lawmakers are still trying to push through in the final minutes pet projects—and some will cause a bit of a stir

Police Jury

JONESVILLE (Special)—Emmett Haygood was elected president of the Catahoula Police Jury at the regular meeting on Wednesday. Haygood is a member of the police jury from ward 5, Catahoula Parish.

J. D. Guinn, Ward 4 police jury member, was elected vice-president. The members re-elected R. P. Boyd Jr. as secretary of the police jury and Arthur Taliaferro, treasurer.

All officers of the Catahoula Police Jury will serve a one-year term. JONESVILLE (Special)—The Mayor and aldermen of the town of Jonesville were sworn in for a new four-year term Tuesday night at the city hall.

Those taking the oath of office were G. D. Babin, mayor; H. T. Young, Charles Wurster Jr., Joe Davis, Jack White and L. C. Scott, aldermen.

The Honorable Jesse C. McGee, judge of the Seventh Judicial District court administered the oath of office to the officials. Mayor Babin was sworn in, and the aldermen were sworn in as a group by the judge.

Sworn In

BERNICE (Special)—New governmental procedure was put into operation for the town of Bernice with the swearing in of the Mayor, marshal and aldermen this week.

The officials are Taft Burns, mayor; Otis Elliott, marshal, and M. W. Lawrence, Jr., C. C. Colvin, Jr., Van Salley, George Lindsey and Fred Marsh, aldermen. Salley is mayor pro tem. Oaths of office were administered by J. R. Fuller, notary public.

Under the new setup, the affairs of the town will be administered by the aldermen as semi-independent department heads.

Camper

BERNICE (Special)—"Ideal Camper" was the title conferred upon Miss Joy Ann Albritton, 16, of Bernice at Union Parish Future Homemakers encampment held at Chemin-a-Haut state park near Bastrop recently. Miss Albritton is presently serving as Union Parish president, Northern District treasurer and president of the Bernice chapter of the FHA.

FATHER VS. SON BURLINGTON, Vt. — (UPI)—Joseph Goddette asked Chittenden municipal court to suspend for one year the license of his son, Paul, 19, after the youth smashed into three parked cars causing an estimated $3,000 damage. Judge Edward J. Costello said he would make the recommendation to the Motor Vehicle Department.

the Advancement of Colored People, opening here Tuesday.

Of prime interest to the delegates will be the drive to accelerate desegregation of public schools in the South and efforts to enlarge the Negro vote.

Dr. Channing H. Tobias, NAACP board chairman, will deliver the keynote address at the opening session. Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, will address the closing session next Sunday, July 13.

Other speakers include Sens. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) and Jacob

Javits (R-NY), both of whom will talk on political parties and civil rights.

Delegates will be welcomed in the state and city Tuesday night by Gov. C. William O'Neill and Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze.

Thurgood Marshall, the attorney who has led the court battle for civil rights, will speak on the legal aspects of the issue. The Spingarn medal, awarded annually to a Negro American for distinguished achievement, will be presented to the nine children who attended Little Rock's Central High School, breaking the color line there last September and to Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas State Conference of NAACP units.

WATER BUS — A group of Vermont anglers here decided to make their fishing more comfortable so they rounded up thirty-two oil drums, made them into a raft, then mounted a bus body with an eight cylinder auto engine, drive shaft and propeller, and now they cruise up and down the Connecticut river in complete comfort, as passing motorists are startled to see a floating bus from their starboard windshields.—It's called the "River Queen". (AP Wirephoto)

PUBLIC HEALTH SURVEY

Death Rate Of Smokers High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. Public Health Service study of 200,000 veterans showed Saturday there was a 58 per cent greater death rate among cigarette smokers than non-smokers during a 2½ year period.

The death toll among tobacco users of all kind was 32 per cent higher than for abstainers, the survey disclosed.

The figures were compiled by Dr. Harold F. Dorn, chief statistician of the National Institutes of Health and an authority on life-span studies. He will submit his report to the seventh International Cancer Congress in London, Tuesday.

Dorn's study involved veterans who served between 1917 and 1940. They ranged in age from 30 to 90 with the majority between 50 and 70.

The compilation was expected to stir new controversy over the effects of smoking on health. The Public Health Service noted that Dorn's study did not include clinical or laboratory research.

Dorn's statistics showed that of 138,926 veterans holding the government insurance policies, 7,382 died between July, 1954, and December, 1956.

He reported that of those that died, 6,203 were smokers and 1,179 were non-smokers.

According to Dorn, this means:

—The death rate from all causes of tobacco users was 16 per 1,000 compared to 13.1 per 1,000 for those who never smoked. Making adjustments because of age differences in the two groups, the government statistician said this represented the 32 per cent greater mortality for smokers.

—Those smoking only cigarettes had the highest death rate 58 per cent greater than non-smokers.

—The lung cancer rate for regular cigarette smokers was about 10 times more than for non-smokers.

—Death rates for those smoking 40 cigarettes a day were "much higher" than for those smoking less than 10.

—The mortality rate among those regularly smoking cigars, pipes or both was "not significantly higher" than that for non-smokers. Only the heaviest users of cigars or pipes had an "appreciably higher" death rate.

—Nearly two-thirds of the tobacco user deaths were attributed to heart, blood vessel and kidney diseases. Coronary heart disease deaths were 63 per cent higher for those smoking cigarettes exclusively than for total abstainers.

—Regular cigarette smokers who swore off before the study began in 1954 had a lower mortality rate than those continuing to smoke. Nevertheless, those who had previously smoked, then quit, had a 30 per cent greater death rate than non-smokers.

—Regular cigarette smokers had greater death rates from bronchitis, pleurisy, ulcers and cirrhosis of the liver.

Quadruplet Girls Born

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI)—Quadruplet daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hansen at Immanuel Hospital Saturday.

Hansen, 28, is an elementary school teacher. He and his wife and a 10-month-old son live in a trailer.

The mother and girls all are in satisfactory condition, a hospital spokesman said.

The babies, Rebecca, Christine, Penelope and Deborah, were born between 4:55 and 6:37 a.m. c.d.t.

Each weighed about two pounds.

COCOON HARVEST

TOKYO (UPI) — Empress Nagako harvested 480 pounds of cocoons this year from her own private stock of silkworms, the Imperial Palace announced Saturday. Japan's empresses raise silkworms annually because that has been a major task of Japanese women in farming villages for generations.

Evangelism Revival Is Being Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Methodists are seeking, at a four-day meeting here, to revive the old-time spirit of evangelism in their 40,000 local churches across the nation.

The meeting began Thursday and will continue through Sunday night. Even on Friday, the fourth of July, they stuck to business with sessions running from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m.

More than 5,000 officials from all parts of the country, including a score of bishops, are taking part in the meeting. Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington calls it "one of the most truly significant assemblies in the history of our church."

Main purpose of the convocation was to instill in leaders of local churches a renewed zeal for evangelism by reaching out to win souls for Christ.

"Evangelism is the chief and unique mission of the church," the Rev. Dr. Kermit Long, pastor of Central Methodist Church of Phoenix, Ariz., said in a major address Saturday morning.

Long, who preaches to the fast-growing Methodist congregation in the nation, listed three ways in which local churches can serve as "recruiting agents for the Kingdom of God. They are:

—By preaching the Gospel from the pulpit in a way "that is both comforting and heartwarming and yet challenging and disturbing."

—Through a church school educational program that is consciously directed toward "leading every person into a saving knowledge of God through Christ."

—Through "home visitation" by laymen.

"Most of the persons we have been won to Christ and His church have been won by laymen calling two-by-two in the homes of the people," said Long.

Stresses Laymen's Importance

The importance of laymen as "witnesses" also was stressed by Bishop Roy H. Short of Nashville, Tenn.

Pleading for "total enlistment of the membership of our churches" in the evangelistic effort, he said:

"Every church member has some particular talent which may be put to use for the building of the kingdom. The ideal for every local church is that every member shall be enlisted for such contribution as he can make in the way of his prayers, his gifts and his personal services."

Oxnam told the delegates that the church must undertake "social evangelism" as well as "personal evangelism."

"The preacher who pledges himself to follow Christ and then stands silent in the presence of segregation betrays his Lord," said Oxnam.

BUT FOR HOW LONG?

Reds Again Eye Summit Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet foreign policy seems to have emerged from one of the wildest periods of zigzagging in several years and headed off once again toward a summit conference.

After recent puzzling experiences, however, no one here would guess how long it will continue headed in that direction.

At the moment there is a minimum of talk that the Soviet scientific delegation might walk out of the nuclear test talks with Western powers at Geneva. There is increasing speculation that the Soviet government may be willing, as Premier Khrushchev indicated to President Eisenhower, to hold other expert talks on ways of preventing surprise attack.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov returned to the United States Saturday after a three-week trip to Moscow for a meeting of the Communist party's Central Committee. That meeting was concerned publicly with domestic economic problems. But some of the best informed officials here said major international questions almost certainly came up also for analysis, with new foreign policy decisions likely being taken.

If Menshikov's return has any deep significance, it may well be that it signals the end of the foreign policy review and that a steady course for Soviet affairs can be expected in the period immediately ahead.

The wild swings of Soviet diplomacy and propaganda over the last few months have created enormous speculation and puzzle in Western capitals. They generally added up to a hardening of Soviet attitudes toward the Western allies and a toughening of Russian foreign policy. This was a change from the time when, for example, Khrushchev appeared to be bending every effort he could to get President Eisenhower to the conference table.

Recently a strong body of opinion within the State Department held that the Soviets were backing away from a summit conference, did not want one, and indeed were Figures It's High Time To Defend U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Lyle H. Munson, a former government intelligence agent and now a businessman here, also is a fellow who's pretty sure about American citizens being held captive around the world. He figures it's time to put a halt to it.

He says if the government won't take strong enough measures to "stop this nonsense," he's willing to tackle the job himself—by a method dating back to revolutionary days and before.

He has petitioned Congress to grant him a letter of marque and reprisal. Congress can, and has done so in bygone times, under Article 1, Section 8, Paragraph 11, of the Constitution.

It is a means whereby a private citizen can be authorized to organize an armed expedition in retaliation for acts or injuries committed by other nationals, pirates, and otherwise.

"Fellow Americans are being held captive and hostage by pirate and rebel groups posing as governments in Communist Russia, Communist East Germany, Communist China, Cuba, and Indonesia," declared the petition.

With the proper number of legal wherewithals, the petition also asserts that "the office of the executive is impotent to rectify the aforesaid abuses, by reason of pre-occupation with other pressing matters." To this the 40-year-old father of two adds the comment:

"Our lack of action, and the ridicule we have been held up to as a nation, is an open invitation to any little two-bit bandit to do anything he pleases with our citizens."

Munson directed his petition to the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate. He said the only response so far was a letter from Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) saying it had been referred to the appropriate committee.

He said he had no real expectation that his petition would be granted but that if by some outside chance it should be:

"I can recruit more than enough people and money to man any task force required to rescue our people and stop this nonsense in a hell of a hurry."

Exchange Of A-Secrets Is Started
GENEVA (AP)—Nuclear scientists of East and West began the exchange of information Saturday on heretofore secret methods of detecting distant nuclear explosions.

The exchange marked the first technical working stage of the eight-nation conference on control of a nuclear test ban.

Western scientists at the beginning of the conference expressed more interest in how much the Russians would disclose of their techniques than in the political problems likely to come up.

Despite a last-minute Russian threat to boycott the conference, the talks opened as scheduled, on July 1, and the political matters were put aside to a later stage.

Two procedural questions. At the end of Saturday's 2 1/2-hour meeting, Dr. Hans Bethe, an American adviser, said both sides had submitted a detection plan that went well beyond the scope of generally known knowledge.

One Killed 3 Hurt In Wreck
KOUNTZE, Tex. (UPI)—A two-car collision killed Mrs. Lloyd A. Daniel, 44, of Orange, Tex., Saturday and injured three other persons, including her daughter, Susan, 11.

Also injured in the accident just north of Kountze on U. S. 69 were Gloria Nash, 20, and Ann McCoy, 20, of Groves, Tex. The injured were taken to a Beaumont hospital.

MRS. J. B. CARPENTER
Mrs. J. B. Carpenter, of Ruston who died in Huntsville, Ala., last week after suffering injuries in an automobile accident will be buried following services at 2 p.m. today at Mulhearn Chapel with Dr. S. B. McFadden of Alabama Church officiating. Dr. Ernest Holloway will assist. Burial will be in Riverview, Palibearers will be Victor Davis, Bailey Grant, D. Matthews II, Clifford Roberts, Bruce Gregg, Jerry Gregg.

FIND CLUES
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A daring woman robber suspected of a series of holdups here has apparently been carried away with her success and wrote to police Friday saying she would "do it again." Robbery detectives said they were glad to get the letter because it gave them several good clues about the gun-toting plump brunettes they are looking for.

Mother And Daughter In Freak Wrecks

MURDOCK, Minn. (AP)—A woman and her daughter were injured in separate auto accidents 30 feet apart on the same road Friday.

The daughter, Susan Strom, 18, St. Louis Park, didn't know about her mother's accident until the car in which she was riding went down the same 32-foot embankment three hours later. At the bottom of the ditch, she saw the demolished car of her mother, Mrs. Lillian Strom, 42.

Mrs. Strom had suffered a fracture of pelvis and was hospitalized. Susan was taken to the same hospital for treatment.

Lucille Day Grace Dent, who was first appointed to the post by the late Sen. Huey P. Long. She was later elected to several terms. Mrs. Dent succeeded her father in the post.

Several Hungarians were arrested. U. S. Responsible The Soviet protest said those in the United States responsible for the demonstrations and did not mention even larger protests before the American Embassy in Moscow a few days later.)

The low last night was 73 degrees. The low tonight will range between 72 to 76, climbing to 85 tomorrow.

Among the potential uses to which such a robot eventually may be put, the announcement said, are these: New-type automatic landing with the Perceptron concept.

SNUFFY SMITH

I GOT SOMETHIN' YE NEVER SEEN BEFORE, JUGHAID-- I GOT ME A FROG THAT CAN JUMP BACKWARDS!!

YO'RE PLUMB TETCHED IN TH' HAID, JAMEY BARLOW-- FROGS AIN'T BUILT THATAWAY--

I BET A BLUE-NOSE MULE HE CAN

TH' FUST TIME I SEE THAT BUG-EYED VARMINT JUMP BACKWARDS, YE GOT YORESELF A BLUE-NOSE MULE

PAW--YE'D DIE LAFFIN' AT THESE TWO YOUNG-UNS OUT HERE

BALLS O' FIRE!! DON'T YE EVER GIT TIRED OF EAVESDRAPPIN', WOMAN?

JAMEY'S BETTIN' JUGHAID A BLUE-NOSE MULE HE'S GOT. A FROG THAT CAN JUMP BACKWARDS

NEVER MIND THAT FOOLISHMENT-- GIT MY VITTLES ON TH' TABLE

SEE THAR!!

GREAT LAND O' GOSHEN!!

WHY DIDN'T YE AST LEETLE JAMEY TO STAY FER SUPPER, JUGHAID?

HE HAD TWO-THREE MORE PLACES HE WANTED TO GO AFORE SUNDOWN

—AND WHEN THE PLANK IN THE OLD DOCK GAVE WAY, BIG SWAN INJURED HER HEAD!

—BUT HER DARING HELIO-BOAT ACT WILL NOT BE CANCELED!

ROBIN ROCKIN' HAS VOLUNTEERED TO GO IN SWAN'S PLACE!

JACK

ROBIN, HONEY, YOU HAVEN'T HAD ENOUGH EXPERIENCE IN THAT HELIO-BOAT!

BUT—JOLLY, BOY... YOU KNOW BIG SWAN HAS BEEN TEACHING ME TO FLY IT!

BUT—TO CUT LOOSE AT 100 FEET AND "FREE ROTOR" DOWN... YOU MAY BREAK YOUR SWEET NECK!

NONSENSE! I SIMPLY NOSE DOWN QUICKLY, KEEP PLENTY FORWARD SPEED... COME IN HOT—AND LEVEL OFF LOW!

AS ROBIN IS BEING TOWED, LITTLE DOES SHE REALIZE THAT HER ROTOR HAS BEEN SABOTAGED!

SUDDENLY AT ABOUT 100 FEET ALTITUDE—

CRACK!

MICKEY MOUSE

by WALT DISNEY

YOU TELL THE BEST STORIES IN THE WORLD, UNCA MICKEY!

WELL... OKAY!

THERE ONCE LIVED A LITTLE ELEPHANT THAT MOVED SO SLOWLY... THE OTHER ELEPHANTS CALLED HIM "DROWSY"....

...THE OTHER ELEPHANTS MADE LOUD TRUMPETING NOISES WITH THEIR TRUNKS... BUT LITTLE "DROWSY" JUST MADE A NOISE LIKE A YAWN...

SO... THAT'S HOW "DROWSY" ENDED THE WAR WITH THE TIGERS... AND HE WAS ELECTED KING OF ALL THE ELEPHANTS!

HE WAS SLEEPING SO PEACEFULLY, I DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO WAKE HIM UP!
